INTRODUCTION.

The name Nash is of Saxon origin. A large class of Sir-names among the Anglo-Saxons is said* to have been derived from the local residence of the persons named, with the prefix atte (at the) before the name given. Thus Atte-well, (at the well,) Atte-wood, (at the wood,) Atte-gate, (at the gate,) subsequently contracted into Atwell, Atwood and Adgate. But as the genius of the Saxon language did not admit a succession of vowel sounds without the interposition of a consonant, when the name following Atte, began with a vowel, the letter N was interposed for the sake of euphony. Thus, Atte-oak would be, Atte-n-oak, Atte-ash would be Atte-n-ash. The tendency to shorten and facilitate pronunciation, in process of time, cast off the prefix from this class of names, and hence the names Noak or Nokes, and Nashe or Nash, or Naish (with i silent.)

The name occurs early in the annals of New England.

There was a James Nash of Weymouth, Mass. as early as 1628.† One of whose descendants, Mr Cyrus Nash of Abington, Mass. died 4 March, 1850. It is said that he had traced his own lineage, and knew much of his family history. His Mss. may prove valuable to that branch of the name.

There were also a Gregory Nash and his wife, of Charlestown, Mass. who both died in 1630.

Samuel Nash of Duxboro, in the Plymouth Colony, was rated as early as 163⅔.

Willm Nashe was made ffreeman in Boston in Sept. 1634.

In a list of passengers in the Ship Globe of London, Jeremy Blackman Master, 8 Aug. 1635, is the name of William Nash.‡ It is barely possible that this might have been the same William † Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 4, p. 293. ‡ Ibid, p. 261.

Nashe of Boston, returned to England, and coming out again, though the nearness of date seems to render it improbable.

Thomas Nash, of whose posterity the following pages contain a record, was in New Haven, Ct. certainly in 1640, and is supposed to have been one of the company that came with Mr. Davenport in 1638.

Edward Nash is mentioned in the Records of Stratford, Ct. as early as 1650, and in Norwalk, Ct. in 1652.

There was also an Isaake Nash, taxed in Dover, N. H. in 1657.

The name was spelled with a final e in some of the early records, as Wm. Nashe of Boston, and John Nashe, the son of Edward Nash of Norwalk. But this, it is presumed, was the spelling of the Clerk who wrote the names. None of their posterity, so far as is known to the Compiler, have retained the e final.

It is said also that Thomas Nash of New Haven, wrote his name Naish on the Guilford COVENANT. But he did not so spell it on the FUNDAMENTAL AGREEMENT of New Haven, and not one of his posterity has so spelled it.

So far as the Compiler of the following Records has been able to learn, the Nashes in the U. S. previous to 1800, may be chiefly divided into four original branches.

Viz. 1st, The descendants of James Nash of Weymouth, Mass.

" 2d, The descendants of Thomas Nash of New Haven, Ct.

" 3d, The descendants of Edward Nash of Norwalk, Ct.

" 4th, The Southern, Virginia or North Carolina branch, perhaps descended from William Nash above named.

There have been a number of emigrants of the name within the last fifty years, but it is presumed that these are all who can claim antiquity in this country.

Whether there was any relationship between the original emigrants is not, at present, known. Tradition makes them brothers. But this tradition is probably the result of conjecture, and of little value. The difference between the ages of Thomas Nash of New Haven, and Edward Nash of Norwalk, renders it scarcely probable that they could have been brothers. Thomas Nash died in 1658, and in his will, made the previous year, he alludes to his old age. But Edward Nash, of Norwalk, lived until 1699, in which year Timothy, the youngest son of Thomas, died Æ 72.

Thomas Nash may or may not have been nearly related to the other two.

The Compiler, being a descendant of Thomas Nash, has confined his enquiries chiefly to that branch. But, in the progress of the work, materials have fallen into his hands that might be of essential service to a like enquiry in regard to either or all the other branches; of which he will cheerfully furnish a copy to any one who may engage in a like enterprise.

The descendants of this branch can lay no claim to ancestral renown in that which usually constitutes the glory of the human race. Their Ancestors have not been eminent for deeds of blood, or schemes of policy, or for the acquisition of immense wealth.

But if honest, and generally, successful industry,—if life-enduring and life-regulating, and generally, unquestioned piety, be virtues to be commended, then, in the history of their fore-fathers, there is just cause for gratitude, if not for pride. In this respect, most of the seventh generation may look back on an unbroken line,—a line of respectable, industrious, pious, and generally, thriving men. According to the Poet's estimate,

"The noblest work of God."

They have been too, a generally prolific race. The descendants of Lieut. Timothy Nash of Hadley, especially, are now numerous and widely scattered.

They are still, as they have ever been, mostly labouring men, contributing their full proportion to the agricultural and mechanical wealth of the land, thus fulfilling one great design of their being; a goodly portion of them being also mindful of the higher and ultimate purpose of their creation.

In prosecuting the work, the Compiler has been much and kindly aided by several gentlemen who had no personal or family interest in the enquiry.

The first and most abundant was Sylvester Judd, Esq. of Northampton, Mass. With a promptness, patience and kindness that seemed inexhaustible, he has answered enquiries, communicated facts and copied documents, and by his experience in such researches, especially, his intimate acquaintance with the Hadley Records, rendered that assistance which was in fact essential to the success of the work.

To Mr. Lucius M. Boltwood of Amherst, Mass. the Compiler is indebted for almost the entire account of the Amherst Branch, together with a large share of the Hadley Branch, which has been the more laborious from the fact that the public records, especially of Amherst, are almost wholly deficient in relation to this family, and a great proportion of these records had to be obtained from private sources and by personal enquiries.

To the Rev. David D. Field, D. D. of Haddam, Ct. and Miss E. F. Jones of Stockbridge, Mass. the Compiler is indebted for a particular account of the Stockbridge Branch. Miss Jones, especially, has been very prompt and obliging in examining records and answering enquiries.

To Nathaniel Goodwin, Esq. of Hartford, Ct., the Compiler is indebted for many favours, especially for a persevering and successful investigation of the Hartford records in relation to the posterity of Serjeant Joseph Nash, and also for the plan of the INDEX, in which that of the Foote family, compiled by Mr. Goodwin, so generally admired, has been mainly followed.

Mr. Herman S. Noble of Watertown, N. Y.—a descendant on his mother's side, from the Great-Barrington branch of this family,—rendered most essential aid, not only by furnishing information respecting that branch, but by his liberality in printing, in a pamphlet form, a part of the records, accompanied by correspondence and remarks calculated to stir up the Clan to an interest in the work, of which he gratuitously furnished the Compiler with above fifty copies, thereby saving him much labour in writing and copying for the information of others.

To Charles M. Tainter, Esq. of Shelburne, Mass. Pliny Arms, Esq. of Deerfield, Mass. and W. Gaylord, Esq. of Goshen, Ct. he is indebted, and returns his thanks for a prompt and faithful examination of their respective Town Records, and for other important information. Also to Mr. Lorenzo Phinney of Cazenovia, N. Y. for an entire list of the descendants of John Nash of Williamsburgh, Mass.—to Dea. Lewis Norton of Goshen, Ct. for much assistance in relation to the Goshen Branch,—to Ralph D. Smith, Esq. of Guilford, Ct.—Jonathan Law, Esq. of Cheshire, Ct.—Dr. Abel Catlin of Litchfield, Ct. and generally to all those (and they have been many) who have at various times examined records, and kindly answered enquiries.

Many of the name and race have assisted in collecting materials, to whom the Compiler returns his thanks. Among these, special mention should be made of Alanson Nash, Esq. of New York, Dr. William C. Nash, of Springville, N. Y. Asahel Nash, Esq. of Shelburn, Vt. Mr. Justin J. Nash of Madison, O. Mr. Oliver Nash of Peru, Mass. Rev. Alvan Nash of Willoughby, O. The Rev. Nathaniel Mead of Waterbury, Ct. Mr. Edward N. Munroe of Burlington, Otsego Co. N. Y. and Messrs. Lyman A. and Franklin Nash of Greenfield, Mass.

The Compiler assures his relatives, that no care or pains have been spared, to render these records perfect, but he is well aware that some errors will probably occur, both of pen and type. It is exceedingly difficult to avoid them in a work containing so many figures, even when the copy is perfect. But in this case, the copy has often been far otherwise, and not unfrequently different copies of apparently equal authority, have differed so widely concerning the same fact or date, that it has been found impossible to reconcile them.

The perplexity and toil, attending the collection and compilation, have been greater than is likely to be conceived of by others: altogether beyond pecuniary recompense, which, however, the Compiler neither demands, nor expects. While some have promptly and kindly responded to the call for information, others have neglected for weeks and months, and even years, the answer they might have given in half an hour; and many have never answered at all. Some have appeared to think they were granting a special favour, and others—to look upon it as a private speculation, leaving him to obtain information in the most circuitous and expensive way. In one instance the records were absolutely refused when applied for. Under these circumstances, the Compiler feels that he has a right to claim of the clan a favorable consideration of slight errors.

It is a subject of regret, that a few families have been so separated from their brethren, that all efforts to find their descendants have hitherto proved unavailing. This is particularly the case with a part of the children of Timothy Nash, who removed from Shutesbury, Mass. in 1767, to Lunenburgh, then claimed by N. Y. but now in Essex Co. Vt. Perhaps time might bring them to light, but so many years have elapsed since the enquiry began, that it is deemed best to go to press, even with this imperfection. With the few exceptions alluded to, it will be found a tolerably perfect record of the race down to the end of the seventh generation. The eighth and ninth generations, i. e. most of the existing race, are so widely scattered, that it was not expected all would be found. The success in these has been fully equal to expectation. It is, on the whole, a reasonably full record of Thomas Nash's descendants, and as such it is hoped that it may prove satisfactory to the Race.

To some it may appear, that too much prominence has been given to official titles of a minor grade, but it should be kept in mind that these titles were uniformly given in those early times, besides that they often serve to distinguish between contemporaries of similar name.

In respect to the plan and arrangement of the work, a word or two of explanation may be requisite, as it differs in some respects from any the Compiler has hitherto seen.

A biographical sketch of those who had issue, so far as the materials could be obtained, immediately precedes the births of their children, which are given in a compact tabular form, followed by whatever has been ascertained, in the way of historical notes, concerning such of those children as, having no issue, are not again mentioned in the work.

The births of each generation are given entire, according to the order of seniority in the several branches, so that the work is properly divided into GENERATIONS and Branches, in which the history of the parents and of those children who did not live to adult age, or, if so living, did not have children, is given in connection.

Females that have married out of the name have, generally, been followed no farther than the marriage and settlement of their children, whose names are printed in what is termed lower case, or small letters, while those of the name Nash are in small capitals.

The division into branches has been adopted with a view to perspicuity. The first or main division is into Elder and Younger Branches. Major John Nash of New Haven, the eldest son of the emigrant, having no son to perpetuate the name, all the subsequent generations are derived from the two younger sons, Joseph and Timothy.

Joseph, being the elder of the two, his descendants are called the Elder Branch. And as they were not numerous, nor much scattered, they are not subdivided.

Timothy, being the youngest child of the emigrant, his descendants are called the Younger Branch, and being numerous and early dispersed, they are subdivided, and named after the place of last or longest residence of the Head of the branch.

The names have two numbers prefixed. The first general, in Arabic or common figures, and the other, of the births in each family, in Roman letters; both of which numbers are given again in parentheses, as a caption to the biographical notice of such as had issue. And as these caption numbers follow the order of the primary numbering, the biographical notices can be readily found in their order

By the same means a line may be traced backward. Let one of the seventh generation, for example, find his own name by the index. Then observing the branch, and the two caption numbers, let him turn to the same branch in the next preceding generation, and where the two numbers correspond, the birth of his parent will be found. So on backward to the emigrant.

There is a third numbering in the few cases where more than two of the same Christian name occur in immediate succession. This is in Roman letters and follows the name. Thus, Thomas III. Daniel IV. &c.

In regard to orthography, the original or family records have generally been followed, though in some instances it has led to variation in spelling the same name. It was thought best to adhere to the copy, and leave the reader to judge of the correctness.

Single figures in parenthesis, thus (1) (2) (3) (4) indicate the different marriages of the same individual, thus enclosed to distinguish them from figures used for other purposes.

In the same manner, the letters indicating the different denominations of Christians, are embraced in parentheses. Thus, (B) for Baptist, (C) for Congregational, (E) for Episcopal and (M) for Methodist.

S. N.

Essex, December, 1852.

A few other Abbreviations are used for words of most frequent occurrence. As b. for born, bap. for baptized, d. for died, m. for married, unm. for unmarried.

THOMAS NASH

OF NEW HAVEN, CONN.

1640.

On the 26 July, 1637, from the Ship Hector and another not named, a company landed at Boston, Mass. formed principally by Merchants of London, whose wealth and standing at home enabled them to come out under more favourable auspices than any company that had hitherto sought these shores.

They were accompanied by the Rev. John Davenport as their Pastor, and are supposed to have been mostly members of his Church and Congregation in (Coleman St.) London.

The Leaders were men of good practical understanding, and had probably provided for the anticipated wants of an infant Colony, by bringing with them men skilled in such arts as were likely to be most needed.

In that company, as is supposed, came Thomas Nash,* with a wife and five children. He was by occupation a gunsmith, a trade which

---

* Mr. Judd writes, that in the "Massachusetts Historical Collections, Vol. 1, 4th Series, 1852, there are papers relating to Rev. John Robinson at Leyden, Holland, and his congregation, part of whom were the first settlers at Plymouth, 1620. Of those who remained behind, some came to New England afterwards, and some probably did not. Nov. 30, 1625, five of those at Leyden addressed a letter to their brethren at Plymouth, and signed it as brethren in the Lord. The names of the five were Francis Jessop, Thomas Nash, Thomas Blossom, Roger White, Richard Maisterton. Blossom after this came to Plymouth. I know not what became of the others. It is possible that Thomas Nash found his way back to England, and came over with the New Haven settlers some years after."

It seems not only possible, but not improbable that he either did so, or that he might have come to Plymouth previously and joined the Quinipiac company while they sojourned in Mass. as we know they did several months.

If this was the same Thomas Nash, then there is a probability that his youngest son Timothy may have been born in Holland in 1626.—Comp.

admitted of an easy transition to that of blacksmith, thus rendering him doubly useful to a people whose situation required that both arms and instruments of husbandry should be kept in repair.

The people of Massachusetts Bay were solicitous that this company should choose a location within their limits, and made very advantageous offers to induce them to do so. But, being resolved to plant a new colony, they, in the fall of that year, sent out Mr. Eaton and others of their company to explore. This Committee selected a place called Quinipiac, (now New Haven,) then owned by a small tribe of Indians, whose principal chief was Momauguin.

In March, 1638, the whole company sailed from Boston, and, in about a fortnight, landed at Quinipiac. In November following they entered into an agreement with Momauguin and his counsellors, for the purchase of the lands.

They appear not to have been in haste to settle the form of government, but spent the first summer and winter, in erecting the necessary buildings, laying out their lands, and in other respects, preparing for a permanent residence.

In the summer following, viz. on the 4 June, 1639, they met together in Mr. Newman's barn, (that probably having the largest open area of any building yet erected,) and, after solemn religious exercises, drew up what they termed a "Fundamental agreement," for the regulation of the civil and religious affairs of the Colony.* This instrument was signed on the spot by sixty-three individuals. It appears then to have been copied, names and all, into the Book of

---

* The alleged early Resolve of the New Haven Colonists "to adopt the law of God until they should have time to make a better," has been the subject of much merriment, and many have been the sneers at the absurdity of it.

And the thing has been often repeated as an actual matter of record.

The following extract probably constitutes the passage which gave rise to the story.

"Att a Gen^{rll} Court held att Newhaven the 2d of March 1641."

In the decision of a perplexing case, the Court laid it down as a principle.

"According to the fundamental agreem^{t} made and published by the full and gen^{rll} consent when the plantation began and government was settled,—thatt the judiciall Law of God, given by Moses, and expounded in other parts of Scripture, so far as itt is a hedg and a fence to the Morall Law, and neither ceremonial nor typical, nor had any reference to Canaan, hath an everlasting equity in itt, and should be the rule of their proceedings."

Colony Records, Vol. 1, page 32.

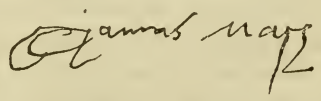
Is there any thing to sneer at in this? On the contrary, was it not a glorious fundamental principle? It had been well for other states if they had built on so wise a foundation.

Records, and afterwards to have been signed by forty-eight others in the Book. These are called after subscribers, and were probably added within the year, perhaps within a few weeks.

Thomas Nash's name is the third of these after-subscribers, whence some have supposed that he was not an original member of the company. But this circumstance admits of another solution.

It is known, that subsequently to the arrival of the original company, another company joined them, made up of emigrants from Kent and Surry, in the vicinity of London, who, like Mr. Davenport's people, came with their pastor, the Rev. Mr. Whitfield, to take up their abode in the new world. These, with, perhaps, some of the original settlers, made up a company to form a new settlement at Guilford. Their "Compact" was drawn up and signed in New Haven, on the 1st of June, four days before the meeting at Mr. Newman's barn. On this document, it is said, the name of Thomas Nash appears. Now considering his vocation as a Smith, and the universal necessity for the services of such a one in a new settlement, it admits, at least, of a plausible conjecture, that he had been induced to join the new company. And this conjecture is strengthened by the fact mentioned by Barber,* that the Planters of Guilford had "not one Blacksmith among them," and that, "it was with great cost the Town obtained one to live among them." From this it will not appear strange, that the planters going to Guilford, should have endeavored to induce him to go with them, or that the parent Colony, being the largest, and having the prior claim, should have interfered and prevented his going. If he had signed the Guilford compact, it accounts for his not being among the first to sign the other, only four days afterwards.

Be this as it may, we owe to this circumstance the preservation of his autograph, of which we here give a fac simile.†



The after-subscribers signed in the book, into which the original document with the names of the first signers had been copied. This book is yet extant, while the document itself is lost, and thus the autographs of those after-subscribers are preserved.

* Hist. Col. Ct.

† In that day the h, (and in this case the t also) was made with a downward stroke like the present y or h inverted.

It is said also, that the name on the Guilford compact is spelled with an i, Naish. But it is not so spelled on the "Fundamental agreement," nor have any of his posterity so written it.

Whence he came is not positively ascertained. One of the fourth generation, is reported to have said he had always understood that his Ancestor came from Ireland. The prevailing tradition, however, is that he was from Lancaster or Lancashire in England. This is the tradition among the descendants of Thomas Nash of Hatfield, Mass. grandson of the original emigrant. Also among the descendants of John Nash of Hadley, another grandson. And it is so stated in the Mss. of the Rev. Daniel Nash of Otsego Co. N. Y. of the 5th generation. And it is worthy of notice that there has been little or no communication between this and the other two branches for more than 100 years. This tradition is sustained by the note from the genealogy of the "Baker Family," (to which reference will hereafter be made,) concerning his marriage, and is probably correct.

There is reason to believe that he was considerably advanced in years when he came to this country, as his children were all born in England, (or at least before he emigrated,) and his eldest son, John, was of sufficient age to receive the charge (oath) of a freeman in April, 1642. In his will, made in 1657, he expressly mentions his old age.

He is generally mentioned, in the Records, in an affectionate way, as Brother Nash, and was occasionally appointed to those public duties which were congenial with declining years. The following extract from the Record of a General Court held the 25 May, 1646, seems to imply age or infirmity. "In regard of severall occasions and works to be done against trayning day, Brother Nash is spared."

The first positive date attached to his name is "1st of 7th moneth (Sept.) 1640. Mr. Lamberton and Thomas Nash were admitted members of the Gen^{ll} Court and received the ffreemans charge," (oath.)

The following extract from the Records of a General Court, held 19 May, 1651, indicates his vocation. "It is ordered that Thomas Nash shall keepe the Towne Muskitts in his hands, and look to them well, that they be always in good order fitt for service, and the Towne to allow him what is Just for his care and pains."*

There is no mention of his wife except in the seating of the Meet- ing-House, and then her Christian name is not given. But from a Record of the Baker Family, found in the British Museum, it is highly probable that her name was Margery and that she was the daughter of Nicholas Baker of Hertfordshire, England.*

* In a schedule of Town property the muskitts are 16 in the hands of Thomas Nash, and 3 in the hands of Lieut. John Nash.

The last time she is mentioned is in the seating of 11 Feb. 1655. "In y^e^ short seate Goodw: Nash y^e^ Elder and Rogger Allens wife." (Mrs. Allen was Thomas Nash's daughter.) What is peculiar in this seating, is, that Thomas Nash himself is not mentioned in it as in previous seatings, which renders it probable that by reason of some infirmity, he was no longer able to attend Church. And yet he must have outlived his wife, for he does not mention her in his will made in 1657.†

His home-lot, as shewn by an old map, of which a copy of the section here given was kindly furnished by Jonathan Law, Esq. of Cheshire, Conn. was on the west side of State Street, about one-third of the distance from Chapel to Elm Street.

Mr. Law remarks that "his north line must have run about where Court Street now is; west, where Orange Temple now near its North Westerly corner."

In the map of New Haven, as it was in 1748, lately published, his lot seems to be included within lot No. 20, next to lot No. 21, there said to have been originally the home-lot of his son Major John Nash. The records prove that he lived in Mr. Davenport's quarter, and this old map is probably correct.

1. Mr. Thomas Nash died 12 May, 1658.

2. Mrs. Margery Nash's death is not recorded, but must have been between 11 Feb. 1655 and 1 Aug. 1657.

The following order of births of children is but conjectural. It is according to the order of their marriage and birth of their first children.

Children.

3 I	MARY,	The wife of Roger Allen, or Alling.
4 II	JOHN,	Called Captain and Major John Nash.
5 III	SARAH,	The wife of Robert Talmage.
6 IV	JOSEPH,	Called Sergeant Joseph Nash, of Hartford.
7 V	TIMOTHY, born 1626.	Called Lieut. Timothy Nash, of Hadley, Mass.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH,

THIRD GENERATION.

(3—I.)

Mary Nash, daughter of Thomas Nash, the emigrant, b. in England, was m. to Roger Allen or Alling, of New Haven. The date is not ascertained, but it must have been in the beginning of 1643, for her first child was bap. 26 Nov. 1643, and yet Thomas Nash's family contained seven persons in the early part of that year, which was all he had, viz. himself, wife and five children. Mary must therefore have been at home, a member of her father's family, when that census was taken.

Of the above children, the three sons are named in Bradley's list as proprietors in 1685. John was twelve times elected as a member for New Haven, of the Legislature of Connecticut. The two daughters not recorded, were not named in the nuncupative will of the father, who died in 1674. But they were named as children in the will of the mother at a later date, and they are placed, by conjecture, before the birth of James, in consideration of the difference between his birth and the baptism of Sarah.

Roger Alling, Deacon of y^e^ Church of Christ in New Haven, dyed y^e^ 27th of Sept. 1674. Mrs. Mary Allen or Alling died 16 Aug. 1683.

MAJOR JOHN NASH, OF NEW HAVEN.

(4—II.)

John Nash, eldest son of Thomas Nash, the emigrant, called Captain and Major John Nash, of New Haven, was bred to his father's trade, which, as we have seen, was that of a gunsmith. For in a trial concerning the sale of a defective musket, 3 Dec. 1645, it was proven that when he repaired it before it was sold, he told the owner that it was not worth three pence. The defendant's excuse for afterward selling it, regardless of this opinion, was that "smiths do not affect old gunnes."

But he probably did not continue in the business, for he was much occupied in public affairs, and the inventory of his property after his death, contains nothing relating to it.

He must have been nearly of adult age when his father came to New Haven, as he was admitted a freeman on the 6 April, 1642, and chosen corporal the same day.

In the military line he was gradually promoted to the highest office, and continued to serve through life, though sometimes elected against his own inclination, strongly expressed. He was chosen sergeant 1 July, 1644,—was called sergeant of artillery in March, 1645, and again in 1648. On the 7 June, 1652, Lieut. Francis Newman wished to resign, "whereupon he was freed, and his sergeant, John Nash, was chosen lieutenant for the ordering of the military affairs of the towne of New Haven." (It is obvious from this that there was then no higher office.)

In the beginning of 1654, having been chosen towne treasurer and deputy to the Particular Court, "Lieutenant John Nash propounded to be released from his place as lieutenant, but nothing was done in it." Shortly after he renewed his petition, "but the towne was not willing but desired him to continue."

On the 9 May, 1664, he was chosen Captain, as the record states, "much against his wish."

The union of the colony of New Haven with that of Connecticut was consummated 11 May, 1665. At a special session of the General Assembly of Connecticut, (called in consequence of a proclamation of war between England and Holland,) which was held at Hartford, 6 July the same year, his commission as "Captain of the Train Band at New Haven," was confirmed by authority of the state, and he was appointed on a committee, with five others, to superintend preparations for the defense of the coast between Stratford and Guilford, and to issue orders for "aid and relief of any plantation in cases of unexpected invasion or other emergency." He was the chief military officer of New Haven during the Narragansett difficulties, and at "a court of election held at Hartford, May 10th, 1683, Capt. John Nash is chosen Sarj^{t}-major for the county of New Haven, and is to be commissioned accordingly."

This office, whatever it was, placed him at the head of military affairs for that county.

In civil affairs he was almost constantly employed. He was chosen one of the deputies to the particular towne court in 1653, to which that of towne treasurer was added the next year. (It was then that he asked leave, as before stated, to resign his military office, which was not granted.) He was annually elected to this office of deputy for many years, and in 1659, was also chosen one of the deputies to the jurisdiction court. This multiplication of offices was not according to his taste, and when proposed as deputy to the "towne court," in May, 1661, "before the choyce of deputies for y^e^ towne court of New Haven, Lieutenant Nash desired that it might be considered, that he had been in the military employment almost twenty years, and seven or eight years a deputy in y^e^ court. He therefore againe desired that he might be left out in this present charge," for the reason before given, viz. "that the occasions of his family did not admit of his accepting." This address did not produce the desired effect, for he was chosen nevertheless.

In 1662, he was left out of town offices, but himself and William Gibbard were propounded as magistrates; "whereupon Lieutenant Nash said that he had weighty reasons to allege why he could not accept it with a good conscience." He then desired the court to appoint two faithful men to hear his reasons. "To make choyce of any to hear what Lieutenant Nash had to say, the court proceeded not, but desired them both to consider it and take advice." After consideration Lieutenant Nash still objected. But he evidently became a magistrate eventually, as several marriages were performed by him, and, among them, that of his own daughter, Mrs. Paine.

In 1663, he was again chosen deputy to both courts. "Then Lieutenant Nash expressed himself troubled and said, that though he would not say he would not stand to the election, yet he should declare himselfe, that he would take what liberty the law did give him in not attending to the military affairs." This resolution, it seems, he carried into effect, for in June the same year, the record states, "the towne shewed distress at Lieutenant Nash's disposition to avoid the military."

About this time, viz. 20 April, 1662, the Charter of Connecticut was granted by King Charles II. which was found to include the colony at New Haven; and, after much difficulty and contention, a union was finally consented to on the part of New Haven. The Secretary of Connecticut having sent to New Haven a requisition

"to choose one or two of their ablest men to attend the General Assembly, or Court of Election, to be held at Hartford. The towne, on the 1 May, 1665, chose Capt. Nash and Mr. James Bishop."

They accepted their places "at the earnest desire of the ffreemen, only Capt. Nash declared that he should only accept it until the General Assembly in October next, when the towne might be otherwise provided for." The Assembly met on the 11 May, and was the first after the union, or that in which the union was in fact consummated. On the 22 May, Capt. Nash declared in brief to the town court at New Haven, what was done at the General Assembly.

At the special session held on the 6 July following, he was desired to attend, but declined, and another was chosen. He was chosen again in 1667, but declined going. In 1668, he and James Bishop were chosen again, and seem to have accepted, but it is uncertain whether he attended.

In May, 1672, he was elected an Assistant, to which office he was annually re-elected to the year of his death, 1687.* In April, 1771, he was chosen as third man, or provisional deputy to the General Assembly, and, at the same meeting, as one of the townsmen or selectmen for New Haven. To the latter office he was re-elected from year to year; and in April, 1674, the office of recorder was added, and he held both offices until 1678, when, at his own request, he was freed from the office of townsman, on account of his duties as recorder. To the latter office he was annually re-elected until his death; occasionally serving in some special capacity as auditor or agent for Indian affairs. His last signature as recorder is to an instrument dated 26 April, 1687. He died three months afterward.

(fac simile.)

* The following note was communicated by Mr. J. H. Trumbull, of the State Office, Connecticut. "The Assistants, under the charter, took the place of the Magistrates under the original compact of 1639. They were annually elected by the people, to assist the Governor in the discharge of his duties, executive and judicial. In their relation to the deputies, they filled the place of our modern Senate or Upper House. Their Courts, 'Courts of Assistants,' held quarterly, were Courts of Appeal from the County and inferior Courts, and, individually, they exercised judicial functions in their several counties and plantations, superior to the Commissioners, (or Justices of the Peace,) and, in conjunction with two or more of the latter, held courts for the trial of small causes, in the several plantations."

The following extract from the early records, shews the spirit of the man when he was comparatively young, and in truth, of the race generally, who are somewhat noted for a fearless declaration of their thoughts.

"7 March, 1647. John Nash being warned to the court for not paying his rates, answered that he knew none due from him till the land was entered in the towne booke, and that they might take their course, but was reproved for so saying, it being a thing uncomely for him to saye so."

It is evident that he was a man highly esteemed for integrity and sound judgment,—that he never coveted office, but faithfully served his country from a sense of duty.

As he had no son, the name, in his branch, ceased with the marriage of his daughters.

There is no record of his marriage, but as, in his will, he makes allusion to a legacy left to his daughters, by their grandfather Tapp, it is supposed that his wife was the daughter of Edmund Tapp, Esq. of Milford, Conn.

The inventory of his estate amounted to £664 13*s*. which was a respectable estate for those days.

In the map of New Haven as it was in 1748, lately published, lot No. 21 on State Street, containing two acres, is said to have been originally the home-lot of John Nash.

"Major John Nash dyed Sabbath day morning the third day of July, 1687."

"Mrs. Elizabeth Nash, the wife of John Nash, dyed May 1st, 1676."

(5—III.)

SARAH NASH, dau. of Thomas Nash, the emigrant, b. in England, was m. to Robert Talmage, of New Haven. The m. is not on record, but was probably in 1648. The Widow Talmage was living in 1683, when Major John Nash made his will, as he left her a legacy. Mr. Robert Talmage d. 1662.

The three sons are named in Bradley's list, as proprietors of New Haven in 1685, and appear to have been prominent citizens. Thomas was four times elected to represent the town in the Legislature.

SERGEANT JOSEPH NASH, OF HARTFORD, CT.

HEAD OF THE ELDER BRANCH.

(6—IV.)

Joseph Nash, or as he is uniformly styled in the records at Hartford, Sergeant Joseph Nash, second son of Thomas Nash, the emigrant, b. in England, was evidently bred to his father's trade; but as ordinary blacksmith work was much wanted among an agricultural people, it is probable that he gradually adapted his calling to the public wants.

There is but little said of him in the records of New Haven. His lands are described and himself and wife are named in the seatings of the meeting-house.

He was chosen corporal of the towne company 17 May, 1647, and was made ffreeman of New Haven, 7 March, 1657.

He must have removed to Hartford soon after this, as he was made a freeman of the colony of Connecticut, 20 May, 1658. His first deed of land in Hartford bears date 1660.

He was occasionally employed in public affairs in Hartford,—was elected constable in 1660,—townsman on the south side, in 1671,—one of a committee for building a bridge over the rivulet in Aug. the same year, and one of a committee of accounts, in 1773. The office of constable in Connecticut, at that time, (it may be remarked,) was held by none but men of approved character and a more than ordinary standing in society.

He was twice married, but no record is found of either marriage and the maiden names of his wives are not known. The Christian name of the (1) was Mary, and that of the (2) Margaret. It has been conjectured that one of them was a Norton from the circumstance that Francis Norton, appointed his cousin "Joseph Nash, of Hartford," one of his executors.

His will was made 19 Jan. 1675–6, and was presented at Probate Court, 17 Oct. 1678, by Capt. John Nash. The inventory amounted to £420 5*s*. 10*d*.

This Will* casts a mist over his whole family history. It gives to his wife Margaret one-third of his property, and to "our only daughter Sarah" the remainder. And in case of Sarah's death without issue, the whole was to pass to his brother Capt. John Nash, of New Haven. It makes no mention of a son, and but dimly alludes to other daughters. Yet it does allude to others in such a way as to shew that there were such.

"forasmuch as our other daughters that have been disposed of, have had the best of the moveables," &c.

There are also reasons, as will be seen, amounting to all but a certainty, for believing that he had a son still living. Why he should have cut these children off, and in case of Sarah's death without issue, have given the whole to a brother, already wealthy, it is not easy to conceive. The only rational conjectures are, either that the first wife's children had received their portion, or that there was some feud in consequence of the (2) marriage. The latter is most probable from the entire abscission of the first children, even if Sarah should cease to want the property.

No further mention has been found of the dau. Hannah or other daughters alluded to and the marriage of Sarah rests upon circumstantial evidence, though the circumstances are so strong as to leave very little room for doubt in relation to it.

So far as the father's intention was concerned, his name ceased at his death. Yet, it is believed, that Providence did preserve him a name and posterity, in a way he did not expect. And though not numerous, they have been a highly respectable and generally a prosperous race.

The following is his genealogical record in New Haven.

25 "I JOHN NASH, the sonn of Joseph Nash, was born ye 12 day of July, 1650.
26 II HANNAH NASH, daughter of Joseph Nash, was born ye 21 Jan'y, 1651–2.
* MARY NASH, the wife of Joseph Nash, dyed the 25 of Decembər, 1654.
27 III —— NASH, the daughter of Joseph Nash, dyed the 18 of Jan'y, 1654."
28 IV SARAH —— daughter (by (2) wife,) b. at Hartford, but not recorded.

In respect to the above record at New Haven, it appears that Mary, the wife, "dyed 25 Dec. 1654," and the dau. not named "dyed 18 Jan. 1654." According to the reckoning of that day the year commenced on the 25 March. Consequently the 18 Jan. following the 25 Dec. would be reckoned in the same year, and not as we should now reckon it, in a new year. Hence, the child's death was twenty-three days after that of the mother. And, as it was without name, it is conjectured that it was an infant, and that the mother died in childbed.

It seems probable also, from the use of the plural in the Will, that there had been one or more daughters between Hannah and this infant. But no trace of them has been found.

LIEUT. TIMOTHY NASH, OF HADLEY, MASS.

HEAD OF THE YOUNGER BRANCHES.

(7—V.)

Timothy Nash, usually called Lieutenant Timothy Nash, was the youngest child of Thomas Nash, the emigrant, and was born in England, or at Leyden, in Holland, in 1626.

The first notice of him in the records of New Haven appears to be the following, dated 3 Dec. 1645. "Brother Thomas Nash, for his son's absence at a generall trayning, pleaded his necessity of business in fetching home his hay by watter. The court overruled and ordered him to pay his fine."

On the 4 March, 1654, the ffreeman's oath was administered to 29 persons, among whom was Timothy Nash.

His marriage and the births of his two eldest children were recorded in New Haven. The marriage is without date; thus,

"Timothy Nash and Rebekah Stone were married by" ——

But it must have been in 1657. He then lived with and took care of his father, as appears by the father's Will. His wife, Rebekah, was the daughter of the Rev. Samuel Stone, of Hartford.*

The last mention of him in the records of New Haven is dated 23 April, 1660, when he and Isaac Beecher were fined for absence from town meeting.

About ten months after this date, viz. 11 Feb. 1660,† we find the record of a vote in Hartford, Conn. whereby liberty was given Timothy Nash to come in as an "inhabitant with us."

The next that is found relating to him, is the following from the records of Hadley, Mass.

* This appears, not from the record of marriage, which is incomplete, nor from the Will of her father, which refers to her only by her Christian name Rebekah, but from the Will of her step-mother, the widow of the Rev. Samuel Stone, who left a legacy to her daughter-in-law Rebekah Nash. See Appendix D.

† The year then ended with the 24 March.

"June 22[1] 1663, Timothy Nash'es p[r]posissions to the Towne. That he desires the allottment that was Robert Websters, to be granted to him a ffreed ffrom all rates and dues belonging to the lands for time past to this present day, excepting the corn on the sd land.

2. That the Towne be at the charge to bring up his Iron, tooles, and Household stuffe at this time now he hath for his remoovall.

The Towne have granted the p[r]posissions aforesd, excepting only the plowland for this year with the corn growing on the upland and that the sd Timothy Nash be resident with his ffamilie here as an Inhabitent before winter next."

From this it would appear that some negotiation had been going on, and, probably, a proposition had been made to him.*

The settlement of Hadley began in this way.

A controversy had long been carried on in Hartford and Wethersfield, chiefly in regard to the government of the Church, and the terms of church membership. It began between Mr. Wm. Goodwin, a Ruling Elder at Hartford, who adhered to rigid Congregationalism, and the Rev. Samuel Stone, who was thought to be leaning a little towards Presbyterianism. Weary with the strife, sixty persons, with the Rev. John Russell as their Pastor, entered into an agreement on the 18 April, 1659,† to leave the Colony; which most of them did, and began the settlement of Hadley, Mass. comprising, besides the rich and beautiful meadow where the village still stands, the tracts since set off as Amherst, South Hadley, and Granby. But they had no Blacksmith, and we have already seen how important it was to have one in a new Settlement. Timothy Nash had probably been bred to his Father's vocation, a gunsmith, but like the others, gradually changed it into that of the ordinary Blacksmith, more useful and more needful to the settlers. Thus literally changing the sword into the plow-share, and the spear to the pruning-hook. Yet the trials of those early settlers, especially in the time of Philip's War, must have rendered it necessary for him to return occasionally to his original calling. At least, a Blacksmith capable of repairing arms, must have been doubly useful at such times.

Robert Webster, mentioned in the above extract from the Records, was one of the signers of the agreement, who, for some reason, did not go to Hadley. And his share, called a 100£ allotment, was thus transferred to Timothy Nash, who, thenceforward, united the occupations of Farmer and Blacksmith.

His home-lot was on the west side of the Main Street in the village of Hadley. The original boundaries are changed, but the principal part of it is now owned by Capt. Elijah Smith. It is said that his shop stood a little back from the street, near where Capt. Smith's barn now stands.

He certainly had a very respectable estate in lands at his death, as appears from his Will,* and the subsequent agreement† of the heirs.

He was a useful and respectable citizen,—was frequently employed in town affairs,—held the office of Lieutenant in the militia, by which title he is still designated. And it should be remembered that a military title in those days, was generally a sign of real merit.

He represented the Town of Hadley at the General Court of Massachusetts, in 1690, 1691 and 1695. And d. in a good and respected old age, 13 March, 1699, N. S. in his 73d year.

Mrs. Rebekah Nash died in March or April, 1709. She also left a will which is inserted. (Appendix G.)

40	XII	Mary,	"	" "	d. 19 Dec. 1687.

Of the above children, the first two were born in New Haven, the third in Hartford, and all the others in Hadley.

Samuel, the first of the name, came to a tragical end. And as the account of it may serve to give an idea of the manners, and legal proceedings in those days, I have thought it proper to append the inquest of the Jury, and Record of the Court in the case. (See Appendix H.)

Joseph, is supposed to have lived most of his life in Hadley, but spent his last days in the family of his Brother Ephraim in Granby, where he d. unm. at the age of 77. Mr. Boltwood informs us that, " A few years since, among some old Town papers in Hatfield Town Clerk's office, was found quite a long piece of poetry on the death of Doct. Thos. Hastings, who d. at Hatfield, 14 April, 1728, Æ 48 years. Appended to the poem is an Acrostic, at the bottom of which is the following:

"'Sic cecinit amicus dolens.'

Josephus Nash."

As it is not known that there was, or ever had been, at that time, any other Joseph Nash in that region, it is supposed he must have been the writer. And if so, he must have been somewhat classically educated and poetically inclined. He was about 65 years old at the time of Dr. Hasting's death.

Timothy, appears never to have m. though there is much obscurity in respect to him. He was living when his Father's will was proved, and the subsequent agreement made by most of the heirs, for although his name is not to that agreement, if he had not been living, some allusion would have been made to his decease. Yet as his mother does not allude to him in her will, made in 1707, he was, probably, not then living. He had purchased property in Deerfield, and had settled, or was about to settle there. And in a transaction of Thomas Nash of Hatfield, dated 20 Feb. 1708, mention is made of property that had belonged to his brother Timothy, but there is no record of his death or probate of his estate, and it is not known when or where he died.

Samuel, 2d, appears to have spent his life in Hadley. And as there is no record of his m. or allusion to a family, it is probable he lived a bachelor. He and Joseph inherited the house and home-lot of their father, and are supposed to have carried on the same trade.

Mary's birth was not recorded and there is no mention of her except her d. in 1687. Her birth may have been between those of Daniel and Ephraim, but it is more probable that she was the youngest.

Mr. Judd, who furnished a copy of the father's will, observes, that "it is not to be inferred that the sums given in his will, were all that he gave to his children. The oldest son, Thomas, had 127£. The other sons certainly had half as much, and probably more. He did not give the eldest son more than a double portion, and probably not so much. All had received more or less from him before he made his will."

This ends what relates to the births of the Third Generation.

NEW HAVEN BRANCH.

IN THE LINE OF MAJOR JOHN NASH OF NEW HAVEN, CT.

(17—III.)

Mary Nash, dau. of Major John Nash of New Haven, b. 13 Dec. 1652, was m. 1 Jan. 1679, to Philip Paine. The marriage ceremony was performed by her Father, who was an Assistant and acting Magistrate, and was recorded by him as Recorder of New Haven. They resided some years in New Haven, where their first child was born and died.

Afterwards they removed to Northampton, Mass. and the birth of another child is recorded there. Subsequently they removed, as is supposed, to some part of Ct. but to what part, has not been ascertained, or whether they had more children.

Children.

42 II Mary, " " Northampton, 15 Dec. 1690.

The records of Branford, Ct. show that Philip Paine had a lot of three or four acres granted him by the town in 1678, and had a cattle mark entered there, 25 May, 1680. This includes the date of his m. but whether he resided in Branford is uncertain.

(18—IV.)

Hannah Nash, youngest dau. of Major John Nash of New Haven, b. 24 July, 1655, was m. (1) by Wm. Leet, Esq. 13 Feb. 1673, to Eliphalet Ball of New Haven, who d. childless, 11 July, 1673. She remained a widow until 2 April, 1689, when she was m. (2) by Mr. James Bishop, to Thomas Trowbridge, Sen. by whom she had one dau. viz.

43 I Hannah, born Sabbath day ye 30 March, 1690, m. Joseph Whiting.

Mr. Thomas Trowbridge had already several children by a former marriage. He was a wealthy merchant, and left a large estate.

According to our plan of following the female Branches no farther than the b. and marriage of their children, here ends the line of Major John Nash of New Haven.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

FOURTH GENERATION.

ELDER BRANCH.

IN THE LINE OF SERJEANT JOSEPH NASH OF HARTFORD, CT.

(25—I.)

JOHN NASH, of Branford, Ct. son of Serjeant Joseph Nash of Hartford.

It has been already suggested that although Serjeant Joseph Nash named no son in his will, he probably had a son living at the time and a daughter, or daughters, other than the only daughter Sarah, named in the will.

It is certain that he had a son JOHN, b. in New Haven, 12 July, 1650, and a dau. Hannah, b. 21 Jan. 165½. No record has been found of the deaths of these children, and Serjeant Joseph Nash himself alluded to other daughters, besides Sarah, in his Will. There is no other known record of birth or emigration that will account for the appearance of JOHN NASH at Branford in 1677.

This JOHN NASH d. in 1682, leaving three young children. Supposing him to have been the son of Joseph Nash, he was then thirty-two years old, about the right age to have just such a family. The names of his sons were Joseph and Thomas. On the above supposition one was named after his grandfather, and the other after his great-grandfather, the Emigrant. And these two names have been continued in that line for many generations. The Records of Branford, moreover, mention Joseph Nash as one having occasional business there.

These circumstances combined, leave, at least on the Compiler's mind, the impression that the relatives of Joseph Nash's first wife, probably resided in that region, and that when their mother died these children had been taken by those relatives and did not return to their father after his (2) m.

We shall, therefore, proceed on the supposition that JOHN NASH of Branford, Ct. was the son of Serjeant Joseph Nash of Hartford, b. in New Haven, 12 July, 1650. He m. 22 Aug. 1677, Elizabeth Howd, Widow of Anthony Howd of Branford. She had had three children by her first husband, viz. John, b. 1673, Anthony, b. 1674, Benoni, b. 1676.

Children of John and Elizabeth Nash.

44 I JOSEPH, born 1 Aug. 1678, d. unm. in Fairfield, Ct.
45 II THOMAS, " 28 Jan. 1679-80, Settled in Fairfield, Ct.
46 III ELIZABETH, born 15 April, 1681, m. Stephen Foote.

Mr. John Nash d. 1682. The inventory of his estate amounted to 132£, 9*s*. 9*d*. It contained a list of lasts and other shoemaker's tools, with a goodly array of household stuff. He was probably a Shoemaker.

Joseph the eldest child d. without issue. Nothing is known of him subsequent to his birth, until after his death, which took place in Fairfield, Ct. in 1702. He d. intestate.

When he went to Fairfield, does not appear, but it is probable that he and his brother Thomas went together.

His inventory was taken 2 April, and was presented for Probate, 22 April, 1702, by Thomas Nash, to whom Administration was granted. The amount of his estate was but 21£, 4*s*. 2*d*. and among the articles appraised were lasts and other shoemaker's tools, whence it appears he followed the vocation of his father.

(28—IV.)

SARAH NASH, dau. of Serjeant Joseph Nash of Hartford, Ct. birth not recorded, was m. (as is supposed) about 1679 to Noah Cook, of Northampton, Mass. b. 14 June, 1657,—son of Capt. Aaron Cook of N—— and his (2) wife Joanna, dau. of Nicholas Denslow.

No direct record of her marriage has been found, but Nathaniel Goodwin, Esq. who has examined the Hartford records with great care and perseverance, found evidence arising from titles and boundaries of lands, and other circumstances, of so convincing a character as to leave scarcely a doubt of the fact on his mind.

As additional proof, Mrs. Sarah Wright of Northampton, (maiden name Cook)—great-grand-daughter of Noah and Sarah Cook, b. 1755, in conversation with Mr. Judd, many years since, gave it as her impression that her great-grandmother was Sarah Nash. Mr. Judd remarks, "I have very little doubt that Sarah Cook was 'our only daughter' Sarah Nash, yet I would not positively affirm this. All the circumstances favour this opinion, at least none contradict it.

I think the name of the oldest son, Joseph, came from Joseph Nash. There was no Joseph in the Cook family before. Noah Cook died 1699, leaving an estate of £1,101, which was large for those days.

Of this estate, 300£ was in housing and lands in Hartford and Wethersfield, chiefly in Hartford I conclude."

Mr. Noah Cook died in Northampton, 1 June, 1699.

Children.

47	I	Joseph,	born about	1680, settled in Hartford, d. 1 Nov. 1747.
48	II	Sarah,	" "	m. Isaac Merrill of Hartford.
49	III	Elizabeth,	" "	1685, m. John Clark, jr. of Northampton.
50	IV	Mary,	" 12 March,	1686–7, m. Nathaniel Strong, 1713.
51	V	Noah,	"	1688, raised a family in Northampton.
52	VI	Miriam,	" 30 Sept.	1690, m. (1) Abraham Kellogg. (2) Daniel Webster.
53	VII	Eliakim,	" 6 May,	1693, lived in East Windsor, where he d.
54	VIII	Esther,	" 21 May,	1695, m. Stephen Wright of Northampton.
55	IX	Aaron,	" 3 Oct.	1697, d. unm. in Hartford, 1720.

All but the first three and the fifth were recorded in Northampton; perhaps these were b. in Hartford.

Joseph, m. Rachel Spencer of Hartford, but had no children. His wife survived him.

Sarah (Merrill) raised a family of children in Hartford.

John Clark, jr., who m. Elizabeth, was brother to Experience wife of Daniel Nash.

Both of Miriam's husbands were of Hartford.

Eliakim left two children that survived him in E. W.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

FOURTH GENERATION.

YOUNGER BRANCHES.

IN THE LINE OF LIEUT. TIMOTHY NASH OF HADLEY, MASS.

HATFIELD BRANCH.

(31—III.)

THOMAS NASH, eldest son of Lieut. Timothy Nash, of Hadley, Mass. that lived to adult age, born in Hartford, Ct. about 1661, m. Aug. 1685, Hannah Coleman, dau. of Dea. John Coleman of Hatfield, Mass. b. 14 Feb. 1667.

Their first child was born in Hadley, but they removed and settled in Hatfield about 1668, and all their other children were b. there. His house and home-lot were on the hill, so called, next west of the Hubbards.

His will was made in 1723, and presented at the probate office in Feb. 1728. He gave his property almost wholly to his two sons John and Thomas, leaving legacies only to his daughters. The sons had each a house on, or adjoining, the old homestead.

It is to be regretted that materials for a notice of his life are so scanty. But very little is now known concerning him.

Children.

56 I JOHN, born 28 Oct. 1686, settled in Hatfield.
57 II HANNAH, " 2 Sept. 1689, m. John Arms.
58 III THOMAS, " 26 Feb. 1692–3, settled in Hatfield.
59 IV REBECCA, " 20 April, 1699, m. William Arms.
60 V SARAH, " 9 July, 1704, d. unm.

Mr. Thomas Nash, sen. d. 19 Jan. 1727–8.
Mrs. Hannah Nash, d. 4 July, 1722.

HADLEY BRANCH.

(34—VI.)

LIEUT. JOHN NASH, son of Lieut. Timothy Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. 21 Aug. 1667, spent his life in his native town of Hadley. He was a blacksmith, and, like his father, a tolerably extensive landholder, as will appear by his inventory or distribution to his children. He m. (1) 29 March, 1689, Hannah Porter, who d. 26 May, 1689, (less than two months after m.) He m. (2) 27 Nov. 1691, Elizabeth Kellogg, b. 9 Oct. 1673, dau. of Joseph Kellogg of Farmington, Ct. and Hadley, Mass. Her mother was Abigail Terry, dau. of Stephen Terry of Windsor, Ct.

John Nash was much employed in town business—was Representative to the General Court of Mass. for the Town of Hadley, in 1707, 1716, 1719, 1720, 1724, 1728 and 1731. He d. 7 Oct. 1743.

His Will was made April, 1740, and presented in Dec. 1743.

The estate divided to his seven sons and one daughter, 96£ each, and something residuary, and left his widow well provided for.

His widow Elizabeth, after his decease, lived with her daughter Mrs. Merrill, or her son Moses, both of whom resided in West Hartford, Ct. In the old burying ground in that place, stands a monument of red freestone, by the side of two similar stones erected to the memory of Dea. Merrill's Parents, with this Inscription. "In memory of Elizabeth Nash, wife of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, who died July ye 4, 1750, in the 77 year of her age."

Hope Nash, dau. of Lieut. Timothy Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. 26 Nov. 1670, was m. 24 Jan. 169$\frac{3}{4}$ to Isaac Warner or Werner, (the name is spelled both ways,) son of Isaac Warner of Hadley, and Sarah Boltwood his wife, b. 13 Jan. 1669–70. The children of this family were all b. in Hadley, but the family removed to Northfield, Mass. where, it is understood, some of the posterity still reside.

Mr. Isaac Warner d. in Northfield, 8 Sep. 1754.

Mrs. Hope Warner d. ———

82 III MIRIAM, " 27 Jan. 1710, m. Moses Scott of Fallstown.

HEAD OF THE GREAT BARRINGTON BRANCH.

(38—X.)

DANIEL NASH, son of Lieut. Timothy Nash, of Hadley, Mass. birth not recorded, but which, according to the age ascribed to him on his grave-stone, must have been in 1676; m. 1 June, 1710, Experience Clark, of Northampton, Mass.*

He was a blacksmith, and had a house and shop on a lot situated at the corner of Bridge and Market streets, on which the Episcopal Church in Northampton, and the house next south-west of it, now stand. It was twelve rods in front on Market street.

In 1726, he sold out in Northampton, and his name next appears

* Relating to the Ancestry of Mrs. Experience Nash, Mr. Judd has furnished the following note.

" William Clark and his wife Sarah, came over and settled at Dorchester, between 1636 and 1639. He removed to Northampton about 1660, and died 18 July, 1690, aged 81. He was one of our principal men and held many offices. His son John married Rebecca Cooper, 12 July, 1677. She died in 1678 leaving one child, and John Clark married (2) Mary Strong, a daughter of Elder John Strong, 20 March, 1679, and had by her 11 children, one of whom was Experience, born 30 Oct. 1689, who married Daniel Nash, 1 June, 1710."

in the records of Hadley, South Precinct, (now South Hadley.) Whether he went directly from Northampton to South Hadley, is not known. The grandchildren of his youngest son, Phineas, think they heard their grandfather say, he was born in Deerfield, Mass. The birth of Phineas was probably about 1726 or 7, and it is possible the Father may have lived a short time in Deerfield. But he could not have remained there long.

Another Daniel Nash, son of his brother John Nash of Hadley, usually called Ensign Daniel Nash, settled in the South Precinct about 1730, and for a few years there were two of the name there, both Blacksmiths, and designated as senior and junior.

The name of the elder disappears from the records of South Hadley about 1738, and is next mentioned in Upper Housatonick (now Great Barrington, Mass.) in 1739, where he appears to have passed the remainder of his life. He is first noticed in the (C) Church records of Great Barrington on his admission, 26 April, 1746, as Deacon Daniel Nash. But he was never a Deacon of that Church and probably brought the title from some other place.

All that is known of him subsequently, is from the following inscription on an old gray stone, in the old grave-yard at Great Barrington,—"Here lies the body of Daniel Nash, who died March 10 A. D. 1760, aged 84. O Eternity! Eternity!

It is not known when or where his wife died.

Children.

83	I	Sylvanus,	born 11 Jan.	1712, d. without issue.
84	II	Zeruiah,	" 2 Nov.	1713, m. (1) John Beals, (2) Simon Willard.
85	III	Daniel,	" 13 Sep.	1715, settled in Greenfield, Mass.
86	IV	Experience,	" 26 Dec.	1716, d. in 1725.
87	V	Joseph,	" 23 April,	1718, d. without issue,
88	VI	Onesimus,	" not recorded,	d. without issue.
89	VII	Jonathan,	" 3 Dec.	1721, settled in Great Barrington.
90	VIII	Rebecca,	" not recorded,	m. Asahel King, of Great Barrington.
91	IX	Josiah,	" " "	d. without issue.
92	X	Phineas,	" " "	settled at Wyoming, Pa.

Of the above births, those having dates were recorded in Northampton. The list has been filled out from the Mss. of the Rev. Daniel Nash, of Otsego Co. N. Y. who being a grandson, doubtless knew their names, and who places them in the above order, and says of Sylvanus, Joseph, Onesimus and Josiah, that they died without issue. Onesimus was a member of the (C) Church in Deerfield, Mass. 3 April, 1741, and of the (C) Church in Great Barrington, 30 Sep. 1744.

The following notice taken from the Weekly Journal, a Boston Newspaper, dated 9 July, 1733, shews that one of them was drowned:—"A few days ago a son of Mr. Daniel Nash of New Hadley, was drowned in Connecticut river, where he had gone to wash himself."

The descendants of this family in the male line will hereafter be divided into three branches, viz. The descendants of DANIEL, who settled in Greenfield, Mass. thence called the Greenfield Branch; those of JONATHAN called the Great Barrington Branch; and those of PHINEHAS, who settled at Wyoming, Pa. thence called the Wyoming Branch.

HEAD OF THE GRANBY BRANCH.

(39—XI.)

EPHRAIM NASH, youngest son of Lieut. Timothy Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. about 1682, m. 10 Jan. 1705, Joanna Smith, dau. of Dea. John Smith of Hadley, b. 1686.

They settled in that part of Hadley that is now called Moody's Corner, in the town of Granby, about two miles from South Hadley Meeting House. His house is said to have stood a little south-east of the present residence of Mr. Erastus Nash, one of his descendants. His vocation is not precisely known. There is an old account book yet extant which shews that he made pumps, but it is probable that his chief attention was turned to agriculture.

Some of the descendants have a tradition that he lived with his son Elisha the latter part of his life, but in an old account book of Dr. Crouch of Hadley, yet extant, there is a charge against Eleazer Nash, for a visit to his Father as late as 1756; and Ephraim Nash died in 1759.

His residence with Elisha must therefore have been short if at all. Of the death of his wife Joanna, there is no record. The following is the inscription on his grave-stone, which stands in the burying ground near South Hadley Meeting-house.

"In Memory of Ensign Ephraim Nash, who died Nov^{r} 9th 1759, in the 78 year of his age."

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

FIFTH GENERATION.

ELDER OR FAIRFIELD BRANCH

IN THE LINE OF SERJEANT JOSEPH NASH OF HARTFORD, CT.

(45—II.

Capt. Thomas Nash, the first of the name in Fairfield, Ct. son of John Nash of Branford, Ct. and grandson of Serjeant Joseph Nash of Hartford, b. 28 Jan. 1679–80, settled early in life at a place then called Maximus' farms, afterward Green's farms Fairfield, Ct. It is about four miles from Fairfield Village, and is now within the town of Westport, about one and a half miles east of the village. The precise time of his settlement there is not known. The following extract from the Fairfield Record of town acts, page 116 under the date of 18 Nov. 1701, is believed to be the earliest mention of his name there.

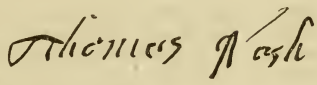
"The Town grants unto Thos Nash ye Smith, an acre and half of land to be laid out between Clapboard Hill & ye County Road, near ye Run called ye hot-hole Run, which grant is on condition yt he live & die in ye possession of it, carrying on ye trade of a Smith att Maximus farms. Also ye three acres of land, formerly granted to sd Maximus for ye use of a Smith, be released & set as clear to ye Town as before granted, & ye Town appoints Rob: Rumsie & Jo: Augustus to lay out sd land according to grant."

There can be no doubt of his identity, as the son of John Nash, for the Records of Branford shew that Elizabeth Nash, Relict of John Nash of Branford, having in 1702, as Executrix of the said John Nash, made a distribution of her husband's lands to the surviving children of the said John Nash, viz. "to our son Thomas Nash,* and our daughter Elizabeth Foote," the said Thomas Nash acknowledged

---

* Joseph had d. in Fairfield early in this year, see p. 33.

the same as follows: "Branford Oct. 12, 1712. Then appeared Thomas Nash of Fairfield, and gave his consent to the above distribution, before me as witness, Nathaniel Harrison."



His wife's Christian name was Sarah, but no record of the marriage having been found, her family name is not known.

It appears that for several years there was no organized religious Society in that part of the town, for, on the 15 March, 1709–10, "Thos Nash gave a lot of four rods square at Maximus' Farms for a house to meet in for the worship of Almighty God forever." But the house seems not to have been built immediately, for Thos. Nash was admitted to the (C) Church of the old Society at Fairfield Center, 4 Jan. 171$\frac{2}{3}$, and had three children baptized, the same day, and another in Sep. 1715. Subsequently to this last date, he is no more mentioned in the old (C) Church Record, whence it is inferred that the new Society was organized, or at least came into operation, about this time. All that is known of the early history of that Society is what could be gathered from the scattered papers of the Rev. Daniel Chapman their first minister, who is said to have kept no book of records.

Thomas Nash was the first Deacon of that Church, and probably continued in the office through life. The same office was held by his son and grandson of the same name after him.

He made a will in 1737, which is still extant, but the death of his daughter, Mrs. Burr, induced him to make another which was dated 16 June, 1741, and was the one recorded in the Probate Records, as his last Will and Testament.

The inventory of his property shews an amount of 10,953£, 8*s*, 9*d*. This, considering his beginning in 1701, with a grant from the Town, of an acre and a half whereon to set his Blacksmith shop, was a large estate. It is probable it may have been in what is termed depreciated currency, but the quantity of land shows that it must have been really a large estate.*

He was Captain of militia, and evidently a highly respectable and influential man in civil affairs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Foote d. 15 Jan. 1739.

According to our rule in respect to Females the line of Serjeant Joseph Nash was here reduced again to a single head, viz. Thomas Nash I. of Fairfield, the only male descendant of the name Nash. And as his descendants remained undispersed in and about Fairfield, for more than 100 years, they here begin to be called The Elder or Fairfield Branch.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

FIFTH GENERATION, YOUNGER BRANCHES.

IN THE LINE OF LIEUT. TIMOTHY NASH OF HADLEY, MASS.

HATFIELD BRANCH.

(56—I.

JOHN NASH, son of Thomas Nash of Hatfield, Mass. b. 28 Oct. 1686, m. 29 Dec. 1715, Abilene Field, dau. of John Field of Hatfield, b. 6 May, 1689. He resided in Hatfield, on or near the old homestead. Very little is known respecting him. His will was made in 1754, and proved 1764.

Mr. John Nash d. 7 April, 1764, in his 78 year.

Mrs. Abilene Nash d. 15 [18?] July, 1764, in her 75 year.

115 V ABIGAIL, " " " m. Dea. H. Belding, Amherst.

His will mentions a grandson Nathan Carpenter, son of a dau. deceased, from which it would appear that there was another dau. But this is all that is known of her.

(57—II.)

HANNAH NASH, dau. of Thomas Nash of Hatfield, Mass. b. 2 Sep. 1689, was m. 27 Oct. 1712, to John Arms, son of William and Joanna Arms, b, 25 Dec. 1679. They settled in Deerfield, Mass. where some of their descendants still reside.

Mr. John Arms, the father of the above children, d. 20 Sep. 1753.

(58—III.)

Thomas Nash, jr. son of Thomas Nash of Hatfield, Mass. b. 26 Feb. 169⅔, m. 8 June, 1727, Martha Smith, dau. of Joseph Smith and his wife Canada (Wait.) Her mother, Canada Wait, was b. while her grandmother, the wife of Benjamin Wait, was a captive in Canada. Hence her name. Thomas Nash, jr. lived most of his life on or near the old homestead in Hatfield, but near the close, he removed with his sons to Williamsburgh, Mass. The people of Hatfield and along the river had long had that place in view, but, previous to the capture of Quebec in 1759, the Indians were so troublesome that none ventured to settle there.

The farmers in Hatfield used to go with their teams, early in the morning and return at night. But after the fall of Quebec, the Indians mostly departed, and in 1771 the town was incorporated. From A Historical Sketch of the first (C) Church in Williamsburgh, Mass. prefixed to a Discourse delivered at Williamsburgh, by the Rev. William Lusk, 4 Jan. 1836, we learn that Thomas Nash was one of the thirty members, who constituted the nucleus of that Church 3 July, 1771. The inscription on the oldest monument in the burying-ground at Williamsburgh, is as follows:

"Mr. Thomas Nash died 12 March, 1773, in y^e^ 81 year of his age."

Mr. Jonathan Arms lived to the age of 84 years. Mrs. Eunice Arms lived to the age of 94.

Eliakim d. 10 April, 1810.

HEAD OF THE AMHERST BRANCH.

(62—II.)

Dea. John Nash, jr. son of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. 2 July, 1694, m. Nov. 1716, Hannah Ingram. They removed to the 3d Precinct* of Hadley, (now Amherst,) perhaps, before the birth of their last child, as that is not recorded. The precise time is not known, but he was an original member of the (C) Church in that place, 7 Nov. 1739. And Hannah Nash, (probably his wife,) became a member, 1 Jan. 1739–40. John Nash was Deacon of that Church and was evidently one among the first at its organization. He was, like his father, a Blacksmith. The date of his death is not known, but it must have been previous to 1778, for in that year his son David, then living at South Hadley, deeded his right in the homestead of his father, deceased, in Amherst to his brothers Jonathan and John. He is properly the head of the Amherst Branch, and his posterity are now quite numerous.

Children.

135 I Jonathan, born 28 July, 1717, settled in Amherst.
136 II David, " 6 June, 1719, settled in South Hadley.
137 III Hannah, " 26 June, 1723, no more heard of.
138 IV John, " not recorded, settled in Amherst.

Nothing further is known respecting Hannah. There were no Genealogical records kept in Amherst for many years, and whether she m. or d. unm cannot now be ascertained.

HEAD OF THE WEST HARTFORD BRANCH.

(63—III.)

Moses Nash, second son of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. 2 July, 1696, followed also his father's vocation. He m. (1) Rebecca Graves, dau. of John Graves of Hatfield, Mass. b. 1700. The marriage was not recorded, but Mr. Graves in his will mentions his daughter Rebecca Nash. He resided a few years in Deerfield, where his two eldest children were born. But in 1726 he removed to West Hartford, Ct. and settled near his brother-in-law, Dea. Abraham Merrill, jr. in connection with whom he made several purchases of land. They must at one time, have been somewhat extensive landholders, though he continued to follow his trade. He was Clerk of the (C) Society in West Hartford, from 1736 to 1749, thirteen years, and wrote an elegant hand, as the records manifest.

Two of his children d. in West Hartford, and his wife Rebecca d. there 6 Oct. 1743.

He m. (2) 30 Oct. 1744, Mrs. Mary Kellogg of Hadley. Her maiden name was Cook, b. in 1700. She was the (2) wife of Stephen Kellogg of Hadley, who d. in 1738. By him she had two children. One d. young, the other, Abigail, m. Ashbel Wells of West Hartford, and was distinguished for piety and intelligence. It is understood that her life was published as a Sunday School Book.

Mr. Moses Nash and wife were admitted to full communion in the (C) Church in West Hartford, 2 June, 1745.

In 1753 he sold out in West Hartford and removed to Wintonbury, a Parish formed on the corners of the three Towns, Windsor, Farmington and Simsbury, since incorporated as the town of Bloomfield, Ct. He resided within the bounds of Windsor. The following entry in the old record of the (C) Church at Wintonbury, under the head of members received by removal, renders it probable that it was towards the end of 1753, perhaps not until 1754, that he changed his residence. "May 5th, 1754, Mr. Moses Nash and wife from West Hartford."

Mr. Moses Nash d. at Wintonbury, 26 Jan. 1760.

Mrs. Mary Nash d. in West Hartford, 21 Sep. 1775, of Camp distemper. She probably lived with her dau. Mrs. Wells after her husband's death, as Ashbel Wells was appointed administrator on her affairs 21 Sep. 1776.

Children by (1) wife Rebecca.

HEAD OF THE ELLINGTON BRANCH.

(65—V.)

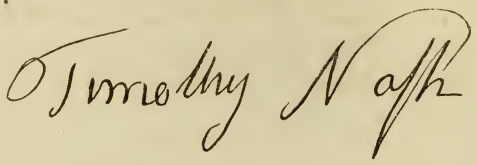
Timothy Nash, third son of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. 13 Nov. 1699, followed the trade of his father. He m. 1 March, 1722, Prudence Smith of Hadley, b. 15 March, 1701. She was sister to Joanna the wife of his Uncle Ephraim Nash of Granby, Mass. and also to Elizabeth Smith who afterward m. his younger brother Stephen. They were daughters of Deacon John Smith of Hadley, grand-daughters of Elder and Lieut. Philip Smith of Hadley, of whom Mr. Goodwin has given a particular account in the History of the Foote Family,—and great-grand-daughters of Lieut. Samuel Smith of Wethersfield and Hadley, who came from England.

The day after his m. Timothy Nash removed to Long-Meadow, Mass. where all his children were born. Besides carrying on his trade as a blacksmith, he kept a store, a part or all the time of his residence in Long-Meadow. He was also an acting magistrate, and was a pious and highly respected and influential man.

The precise time of his removal from Long-Meadow is not known, but there is a deed recorded, running from Jacob Reddington to Timothy Nash, of twelve acres of land at 140£, dated 5 Jan. 1747–8 whence it is inferred that he removed about that time. The place to which he removed was that part of Windsor, Ct. called the Parish of Ellington. It was set off with East Windsor in 1768, and in 1786 was again set off from East Windsor as the Town of Ellington. Hence this family is denominated the Ellington Branch. His residence was on the east street, north-east from Ellington Meeting-house, a little way below what is now known as the Dr. Steele place, on the lower or west side of the road, not far from where Ichabod Mudge subsequently had a Blacksmith's shop on the east side of the way.

He seems to have been as highly respected for his uprightness and business capacity in his last, as in his former residence. He was a

Deacon in the (C) Church in Ellington, and at Hartford in the Probate Record his name is entered as Timothy Nash Esquire. The following is a fac-simile of his autograph.



His will was made 13 March, 1756. He d. 15 March, 1756. His widow afterward m. (2) Deacon Ichabod Hinckley, and d. in Somers, Ct. 18 April, 1774, Æ 73.

Timothy, 2d, is said to have gone with the British army to Havannah, and d. there. The time and place of Abigail, 2d's, d. is not known.

(66—VI.)

Abigail Nash, the only dau. of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass. that lived to adult age, b. 10 April, 1702, was m. 1 Dec. 1725, to Abraham Merrill, jr. son of Dea. Abraham Merrill of West Hartford, b. 1702. Dea. Abraham Merrill, jr. d. 1783, in his 83d year. Mrs. Abigail Merrill d. of Palsy, 3 April, 1782, Æ 82.

HEAD OF THE STOCKBRIDGE BRANCH.

(67—VII.)

Stephen Nash, fourth son of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass.

b. 20 Sep. 1704, seems to have established himself as a Blacksmith in Westfield, Mass. before his m. as his intention of m. with Elizabeth Smith was there published, according to the law of Mass. 3 April, 1728. They were m. in Hadley, 22 May, 1728. She was, as already stated, sister to Joanna the wife of his Uncle Ephraim, and of Prudence the wife of his Brother Timothy, and was b. in 1705. They resided in Westfield until 1751 or 2. All their children were b. there. Mrs. Nash became a member of the (C) Church in Westfield, in 1729, and Stephen Nash himself in 1741.

Toward the close of 1751, or early in 1752, they removed from Westfield, and settled in Stockbridge, Mass. They were dismissed from the (C) Church in Westfield to that of Stockbridge, 14 June, 1752. It is understood that a principal motive for the removal was that they might enjoy the ministry of the Rev. Jonathan Edwards, D. D. author of the great work on the WILL, who was installed Pastor in Stockbridge, 8 April, 1751. They lived on the farm now owned by Daniel F. Goodrich. The character of both Stephen Nash and his wife as given by the Rev. Dr. Field, is that of "pious, excellent people."

Mr. Stephen Nash d. in 1764.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nash d. in 1790.

HEAD OF THE SOUTH HADLEY BRANCH.

(68—VIII.)

DANIEL NASH, fifth son of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass. called Ensign Daniel Nash, b. 8 Dec. 1706, m. Abigail ———. No record of the marriage has been found, and her family name is not known. He settled as a blacksmith at South Hadley, about the time it became a Precinct.* As before stated, he had an Uncle Daniel Nash then living at South Hadley, and for a few years, there were two of the same name and occupation in that place. The Uncle removed to Great Barrington in 1738. The nephew resided there until after the Revolution.

But little is known of his history. It is understood, however, that he was an influential man. Papers are still extant with his name as District Clerk, and from his title, he must have had something to do with military affairs. His shop is said to have stood where the large corner house now stands, a little south of the meeting-house. About the time of the Revolution, perhaps later, he removed with, or soon after,* his son Benjamin, to Shelburne, Mass. where he d. 24 Aug. 1791, in his 84th year.

His widow d. at the house of her dau. Mrs. Abbott in Conway, Mass. 6 Sep. 1803, aged 93.

Children.

All m. and had families, except Elihu. He lived with Benjamin in Shelburne until Benjamin's death in 1797. After that he went with a family by the name of Eaton, first into the State of N. Y. thence to Waitsfield, Vt. where he d. of fever, 19 April, 1813. He is spoken of as a man of great muscular powers,—a ring-leader of the Athletæ of S. Hadley.

HEAD OF THE GOSHEN BRANCH.

(69—IX.)

Samuel Nash, Esq. sixth son of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. 29 Jan. 1709, m. (1) 24 Jan. 1734, Margaret Merrill, dau. of Dea. Abraham Merrill of West Hartford, b. 6 June, 1709. He settled as a blacksmith first at Farmington, Ct. where the births of his four eldest children are recorded. But he eventually settled in Goshen, Ct. where he spent the remainder of his days, and d. at an advanced age. The following data and remarks were furnished by Dea. Lewis Norton of Goshen.

"At the time of his first purchase here, 1 Aug. 1745, he was of

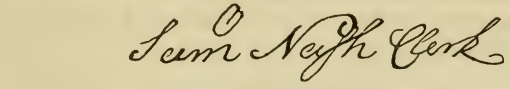
* His name first appears on the tax list of Shelburne in 1780. Benjamin was there in 1777.

Farmington. On the 31 Aug. 1747, he was then of Farmington,—bought 50 acres of John Smith with a mansion house and barn thereon, on the East street. The probability is, he came there to live about that time. 23 Aug. 1750, he purchased of Samuel Thomson many tracts of land, and, among others, that on which he so long afterwards lived, on the west side of Middle street,—and on the north side of east and west road about sixty rods south of the meeting-house.

His name first appears on our records of town-meeting, 11 July, 1748, on a committee with reference to Mr. Heaton, our first minister. On the 10th of Oct. 1748—appointed with Dea. Thomson to prefer a prayer to the General Assembly.

On the 31st of Dec. 1750, he was first appointed Town Clerk, and also Town Treasurer. The office of Town Clerk, he held until the appointment of Adino Hale, Esq. Dec. 5, 1791, a period of forty-one years without intermission. In this time he was called to fill many other offices. He was long a Justice of the Peace, (from 1764 to 1790, a period of twenty-six years.) He attended the Legislature as representative twenty-five sessions, from Oct. 1757, to May, 1775. It is supposed he was a professor of religion before he came to this town. He was chosen Deacon in this Church in 1761. In this office he was long associated with my honored grandfather, Dea. Ebenezer Norton, who were both in the habit of taking notes of sermons on the little table before them in the Deacon's seat.

Respecting the moral and religious character of Dea. Nash, we have reason to suppose it was wholly unimpeached. He was a man evidently confided in, and he had much to do with town affairs, mingled as they were with those more properly termed ecclesiastical. His hand-writing was tolerably fair—and there is very much of it left behind him. The following is a fac-simile of his autograph.



To some extent he was witty, if this could be predicated of his many pleasantries of social life. His influence was certainly very considerable in the Town."

Concerning the death of "Dea. Nash, or as he was more commonly called Esq. Nash," about which there has been some uncertainty, Dea. Norton, after diligent enquiry of various elderly people, learns that, "he had left his own old house,—and gone to live with one of his sons—William or Josiah, and died there. These two brothers lived near together, some ninety rods north of our meeting-house—William on the east, and Josiah on the west side of the road." One old person "remembers the two families living north of the meeting-house, of the name of Nash—and that there was in the family on the east side, an old man."

On the whole Dea. Norton concludes, "I think it may be considered certain that he died at the house of his son William in Goshen, and was probably interred in the old grave-yard,—I presume his estate was settled by conveyance to his children before his death; and should not think it strange that nothing appears on the Probate Records."

There is no record of the death of his first wife, the mother of all his children, but it is known that he m. (2) a widow Dickinson, great-grandmother to Senator Dickinson of New York. And it is the opinion of old people that she also died before him. But there is no record of either her marriage or death.

Samuel, who d. at Oswegatchie, probably belonged to the provincial troops, who, under Lord Amherst, descended the St. Lawrence from Lake Ontario to attack Mt. Real, which the Army reached on the 6 Sep. 1760, and the city capitulated on the 8 Sep. Oswegatchie lies on the river, and it is conjectured that Samuel Nash had been left there sick.

Martin was taken prisoner by the British on Long Island, and d. in prison in the City of New York.

HADLEY BRANCH.

(71—XI.)

Dea. Enos Nash, seventh son and youngest child of Lieut. John Nash of Hadley, Mass. b. 21 April, 1714, inherited and settled on his father's homestead in Hadley, and carried on the same business of blacksmithing. He m. 18 Feb. 1735–6, Joanna Barnard,—was a magistrate and an influential man,—often employed in town affairs, Deacon of the (C) Church in Hadley, and generally respected for piety and uprightness.

An anecdote is related of him which strikingly exhibits the high respect then paid to official station, and the ready submission to proper authority.

Walking one day, as he usually did, with his staff of office, as Magistrate or Constable, whatever it might be, he met a company of boys, with a tar-barrel, going to Mt. Holyoke. "Boys," said he, "where are you going?" "To Mt. Holyoke, Sir, to celebrate the victory we have just heard of." "And is that the way to do it?" he replied; "No, back to yonder building," (pointing to the meeting-house,") and there shew your thankfulness." With that he turned them all back, to listen to, if not to join in, a prayer with thanksgiving for the victory.

Deacon Enos Nash d. 28 Aug. 1768, in his 55th year.

Mrs. Joanna Nash d. 10 March, 1788, in her 73 year.

(82—III.)

Miriam Nash, dau. of Ebenezer Nash of Suffield, Ct. and Mary Scott his wife, b. 27 Jan. 1710, was m. 24 Aug. 1742, to Moses Scott of Fallstown, Mass.

Children.

198 I Ebenezer, born 1743, settled at Barnardstown, Mass.
199 II —— " d. in Quebec, 10 Feb. 1747.

Mrs. Miriam Scott d. in Quebec, 11 Dec. 1746.

In 1773, Ebenezer Scott of Barnardstown, Mass. applied to the General Assembly of Ct. for aid to recover some estate in Suffield, Ct. He stated in his petition that Ebenezer Nash of Suffield had no son, but two daughters, one of whom married a Hovey of Mansfield, Ct. and the other married Moses Scott of Hoosac, Mass. In 1746, Scott and his family were taken by the French and Indians, and carried to Quebec, where Mrs. Scott d.*

Ebenezer Nash had a house and homestead of forty acres in Suffield, which he sold to Capt. Samuel Kent in 1743, and Kent gave his notes. Nash went to Mansfield and lived for a time, but returned and lived in a house of Kent's with his wife, Kent partially supporting them until they both d. in 1747–8, he by a bone sticking in his throat. On his death-bed, at Kent's request, he gave up Kent's notes to him, Kent making a statement of their affairs on his book, and promising the balance to Nash's grand-child, Ebenezer Scott, when he came of age.

A Committee of the General Assembly was appointed, and the petition was referred to them. They reported May, 1774, that Kent's executor should pay Scott, 35£, 10*s*. 4*d*. and costs. Kent died in 1772. Scott says he was twenty-one years old in 1764, but Kent had not paid him. Kent's executor had to pay besides, 13£, 18*s*. 6*d*. costs.

CHILDREN OF DANIEL NASH.

(84—II.)

Zeruiah Nash, dau. of Daniel Nash of Northampton and Great Barrington, Mass. b. 2 Nov. 1713, is not heard of after her birth until the date of her (1) m. which was to John Beals of Sheffield, Mass. 26 March, 1739. She is in that record called Zeruiah Nash of Housatonick, (then a part of Sheffield, now Great Barrington.) No record has been found of Mr. Beals' death nor of the b. of any children, but the record states that Simon Willard and the widow Zeruiah Beals were m. 28 Nov. 1744.

* Moses Scott and some others had their families in Fort Massachusetts in the present town of Adams, Mass. and cultivated land without the Fort. From the Journal of Nehemiah Howe, who was himself a prisoner, we learn "that Moses Scott's family consisted of a wife and two children, the eldest, Ebenezer being about three years old—that they were taken 20 Aug. 1746, and arrived in Quebec, 15 Sep. and that Mrs. Scott died 11 Dec. following—and the child not named d. 10 Feb. 1747. That Moses Scott and the surviving child returned."

Children.

The subsequent history of these children has not been traced, but it is understood that some of the descendants of Dubertus, the eldest, were settled at Burlington, Vt. at one time.

HEAD OF THE GREENFIELD BRANCH.

(85—III.)

Daniel Nash, jr. son of Daniel Nash of Northampton and Great Barrington, Mass. b. 13 Sep. 1715, settled early in that part of Deerfield, Mass. that is now Greenfield. The precise time of his settlement there is not known, but it was probably about the time of his m. as his brother Onesimus is mentioned in the Deerfield (C) Church records about that time.

At the organization of Greenfield as a separate town, 3 July, 1753, Ebenezer Smead, Samuel Hinsdell and Daniel Nash were chosen Selectmen, and Assessors. Daniel Nash was also one of a committee to supply the town with preaching that year.* He is again mentioned as one of the Selectmen in 1758, and probably held that office many years.

In Sep. 1774, he was elected as Representative to the Provincial Congress of the Massachusetts Bay to be holden at Concord in Oct. of that year. According to the journal published by order of the Legislature in 1838, that Congress, on account of British interference, convened at Salem on Friday, 7 Oct. 1774, and Daniel Nash was in attendance. During that period he appears to have been active in the cause of the Colonies, and was one of the Committee of Safety.

The following, from Willard's Hist. p. 64, will give some idea both of his physical and political character, and, as the writer says, "of the almost unlimited power of those Committees of Safety. A smoke had been occasionally seen rising from the thick woods on the east side of Fall River—the Committee was notified, (Nash, Childs, Hastings and A. Denio,) who forthwith proceeded to the spot and found a man by the name of Harrington, in a sort of cave or sheltered place, and all the tools necessary for counterfeiting. They took him directly to Northampton. Judge Hawley told them that the man could not be imprisoned in the jail, as it was then full of tories, and could hold no more. He directed them to take him back to the pine woods, a distance of a mile or so, and administer as many lashes as they thought best, and let him go. They accordingly repaired to the spot and executed the sentence as directed. Hastings and the others, except Nash, gave light blows. Nash put on heavily, broke skin and brought blood at every stroke. They then bathed his wounds with spirits, which they brought for the purpose, and gave him some to drink. They made him promise never to be seen in this part of the country again and let him go."

Mr. Nash is said to have been a man of athletic frame, inclining to corpulency, which in his latter days became so excesssive that he could not tie his own shoe.

His first location is supposed to have been not far from the centre of the present village of Greenfield, but his final and permanent residence was at the South Meadows. The house is yet standing, a little south of Edmund Q. Nash's house, on the west side of the way, about three-quarters of a mile from Nash's Mills. His smith-shop stood on the opposite side, where cinders may yet be seen. He was twice m. (1) in 1741 to Abigail Stebbins, who d. 26 Nov. 1749. (2) in 1750 to Martha Wells.

Onesimus the 2d, came to his end by slipping as he was entering his father's door with a heavy stick of firewood on his shoulder, by which fall he was so injured as to cause his death.

By the three deaths occurring so near together in 1762 it would appear that some epidemic was raging. Perhaps, Canker Rash, as that seems to have been the most frequent scourge of those days.

GREAT BARRINGTON BRANCH.

(89—VII.)

JONATHAN NASH, Esq. son of Daniel Nash of Northampton and Great Barrington, Mass. b. 3 Dec. 1721; probably went with his father from South Hadley to Upper Housatonick, (then a part of Sheffield, Mass, now, Great Barrington,) as is supposed, in 1738 or 9. He was then but eighteen years old. His name occurs in a tax list of Sheffield in 1743, but the first mention of it in the Sheffield records was in 1746. He was chosen Constable in 1750, one of the Selectmen and Assessor in 1756–7 and 8, and to various other offices, at different times. The last mention of him was 11 March, 1761, when he was chosen Town Warden. During that year, Upper Housatonick was set off and incorporated as a separate town, by the name of Great Barrington. In the new town he was a man highly respected; was frequently employed in town affairs, as moderator of town-meetings, Selectman, Assessor, Warden, Overseer of the Workhouse, &c.; and was many years an acting Magistrate of the County. His house is yet standing in Great Barrington one and one half miles north-east of the present village, on the east side of the Housatonick river, a little north of the bend in the road half a mile east of the old Burying Ground. He too was a blacksmith, and his shop stood a rod or two north of the house, of which the earth and cinders in the garden give evidence.

Rebecca Nash, dau. of Daniel Nash of Northampton and Great Barrington, Mass. birth not recorded, appears to have remained a while, after her father's removal from South Hadley, among her mother's relatives, the Clarks of Northampton, as her name is in the list of members of the (C) Church there for 1741 to 1743. But she was m. at Great Barrington, in 1744, to Asahel King, who d. 1756, Æ 36. The date of her death has not been ascertained.

HEAD OF THE WYOMING BRANCH.

(92—X.)

Phinehas Nash, youngest son of Daniel Nash of Northampton and Great Barrington, Mass. birth not recorded, but supposed to be about 1726, had an eventful life.

He appears, from tradition in the family, to have spent some portion of his youthful days in the neighbourhood of Greenfield, Mass. He was received in the (C) Church in Deerfield, 26 Feb. 1749, and to that of Sunderland, 29 May, 1749.

It is supposed that he taught school in those places. But he probably followed his father to Housatonic soon afterward. His marriage was recorded in Sheffield in 1755, and he was taxed in Great Barrington, in 1762. According to the recollections of his dau. Lowly, (Mrs. Foster,) he removed to Plymouth in the Valley of Wyoming, Pa. five or six years before the great massacre, 3 July, 1778, where he was residing at the time of that occurrence. His son Asahel was in the fight. His grand-children recollect hearing him speak of being often in Indian skirmishes in the neighbourhood of Deerfield, Mass. but this was the most fearful of all.

The first settlers at Wyoming, claimed under the state of Connecticut. Others came and claimed under Pennsylvania, The result was a kind of civil war, and several were killed on both sides. Mrs. Foster recollects going to see four dead bodies, near her father's house at one time. She says her father was then a prominent man, and was often resorted to for advice. After the massacre he returned and spent a few years in Mass. or Ct. but he must have returned again to Wyoming, as his wife died there. In his 83d year he left Wyoming, and rode on horseback 400 miles to Shelburn, Vt. where his son Asahel then resided. On the way he spent a few days with his nephew, the Rev. Daniel Nash, in Otsego Co. N. Y. and while there Dr. Wm. C. Nash, one of the family, recollects hearing him say he had been unfortunate in his land speculations, (probably in consequence of the conflicting claims alluded to,) having paid for his place at Wyoming two or three times, and lost it at last for want of a valid title.

After about three years spent in Vt. he rode, again on horseback, to Greenfield, Saratoga Co. N. Y. where he lived with his dau. Mrs. Hoskins until his death in the winter of 1823–4, supposed to be about 98 or 99 years of age. He m. 15 May, 1755, Mary Hamlin of Sheffield, Mass.

GRANBY BRANCH.

(93—I.)

Timothy Nash, eldest son of Ephraim Nash of Granby, Mass. and grandson of Lieut. Timothy Nash of Hadley, b. 26 Jan. 1707, m. 15 Oct. 1736, Experience Kellogg. He resided in Granby, until about 1750, in that part called the Crank, and is styled an Innkeeper. He removed to Shutesbury, Mass. about 1760, and in 1767, sold out there. The two sons are next heard of at Upper Cowass, Lunenburgh, Albany Co. N. Y. (now Lunenburgh, Vt. New York then claimed all Vt.) He is no more heard of from the time he left Shutesbury. When and where he and his wife died is not known.

(95—III.)

Aaron Nash, son of Ephraim Nash of Granby, Mass. b. 23 Feb. 1712, by occupation a joiner and house carpenter, m. 2 Dec. 1736, Damaris Waite of Northampton. His house was the first south of the present residence of Mr. John B. Nash in Granby, where a two story house now stands. He appears to have been an active, enterprizing man, frequently a prominent actor in town affairs. He was one of the Selectmen of the town of Granby, 7 March, 1770, and together with his brother Lieut. Eleazer Nash, Town Surveyor, laid out a road for the town. The last time he is mentioned in the Granby records is in the record of a town meeting, 10 Jan. 1774, of which Aaron Nash was moderator. He must have removed to Brattleborough, Vt. soon afterward, as his first deed of purchase there (of John Houghton) is dated 4th of May, 1774. There is no record of his or his wife's death.

258 IV Martin, " 9 April, 1749, went west.

Martin left Brattleborough, about the beginning of this century, and went, as was supposed, to the Black River region. He never wrote back. His relatives heard a vague rumour that he m. and had a family, but later accounts render it probable that he died a bachelor, and left his property to the friends with whom he resided.

(99—VII.)

Lieut. Eleazer Nash, son of Ephraim Nash of Granby, Mass. b. 10 Feb. 1720, m. 9 Nov. 1749, Phebe Kellogg, dau. of Nathaniel Kellogg of Hadley, who was a grandson of Joseph Kellogg. He settled on or near his father's homestead and seems to have had the chief care of his father, in his declining years—the Doctor's (Crouch) visits to the father were charged to him as late as 1756. He was a surveyor, bore the title of Lieutenant, and appears to have been a man of considerable influence.

The following extracts serve to throw light on the state of political feeling of that day, as well as on the history and character of Eleazer Nash. They are taken from the record of a legal meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Granby, Mass. held on Wednesday 15 Feb. 1775.

"2d Voted to move the meeting to the house of James Smith, (they were then at the meeting-house.)

6th Voted that the Resolves and proceedings of the Continental Congress be read in the meeting.

7th Voted to call Capt. Eastman, Lieut. Eleazer Nash and Ensign Experience Smith to account for their conduct in holding their Commissions in the manner and form as they do at this day, and also concerning some other things relative thereto, which may be alleged against them ————

9th Voted that it is just matter of uneasiness to this town that Capt. Eastman, Lieut. Nash and Ensign Smith still hold their commissions which they received under Governor Hutchinson, and which have since been established to them by General Gage, who is now endeavouring to enforce the late acts of Parliament on the Province of the Massachusetts Bay.

10 Voted that the Town will give Capt. Eastman, Lieut. Nash and Ensign Smith, opportunity to consider the objections that have been made in the meeting against their conduct in holding their commissions, and some other objections relative thereto which have been made in this meeting against them, and to make return to the town on the 6th day of March next.

March 6th 3 o'clock, P. M.

16th Then Voted that it is the desire of this town that Capt. Eastman, Lieut. Nash and Ensign Smith, resign their commissions to the Town, which vote was taken by yeas and nays,—which desire of the town was not complied with by the abovesaid Officers.

Then it was proposed to the above said Officers whether they were willing to offer satisfaction as to the objections that have been made against their conduct? They then proceeded and made the following declarations, viz.

Lieut. Nash declared that it was his design and intention to attend strictly to the advice, directions and resolves of the Continental Congress, and also that he esteemed the late acts of the British Parliament as unconstitutional, and that they were subversive of the natural rights, liberties and privileges of the inhabitants of the American Colonies. And further, that he has no desire, intention or design, to act from any authority by virtue of his commission. And further, that he never would.

After the above declaration was ended, Capt. Eastman stood up and declared that he thought it not worth while for him to repeat all that Lieut. Nash had said. Yet notwithstanding he explained his meaning thus. That he never would exercise any authority of his commission until such time as the controversy subsisting between Great Britain and the Colonies was settled. After which, Ensign Smith declared that he acquiesced in the above declaration made by Lieut. Nash. But some understood him that he acquiesced in the declaration as explained by Capt. Eastman.

After which the vote was put, to be declared by yeas and nays, whether what they said was satisfactory to the town? And for Capt. Eastman, there were 15 yeas and 18 nays. For Lieut. Nash, 17 yeas and 18 nays. For Ensign Smith, 15 yeas and 18 nays.

Voted to dissolve the meeting."

It is not easy, to perceive, at this distance of time, why the declaration of Lieut. Nash was not satisfactory. We find no mention of either of the Nashes afterward in the Granby records. Indeed, Aaron had removed to Brattleborough, Vt. and this probably was the last public meeting Lieut. Eleazer ever attended. He took cold and died of a species of inflammation of the lungs, 19 May, 1775, only a little more than two months after this meeting.

Administration was granted 4 March, 1777, to his widow Phebe and son Eleazer. There is no record of her death.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

SIXTH GENERATION.

ELDER OR FAIRFIELD BRANCH.

IN THE LINE OF SERJEANT JOSEPH NASH OF HARTFORD, CT.

(102—II.)

Capt. Thomas Nash, II. of the name, son of Capt. Thomas Nash, I. of Fairfield, Ct. b. 3 Aug. 1708, m. 28 Sep. 1731, Rebecca Hull of Fairfield. At the date of his father's will he was residing at Port Ryal, (or Royal,) a point some mile or more from Greene's Farms. But he probably removed, and subsequently occupied the homestead of his father.

His whole life appears to have been spent in the neighbourhood of his native place, and the records do not much abound with incidents. He was deacon of the (C) Church at Greene's Farms in the place of his father; held the same office of Captain, and seems in most respects to have filled his father's place in the public estimation.

Having inherited an ample estate, he had not, like his father, to be the founder of a fortune, but he appears to have kept well what he inherited, and was a highly respectable and influential man. [See Appendix I.]

Capt. Thomas Nash II. d. 2 Aug. 1769.

Mrs. Rebecca Nash d. 22 April, 1791.

Children.

273	I	Rebecca,	born 18 Nov.	1732, m. Simon Couch.

(103—III.)

Sarah Nash, dau. of Capt. Thomas Nash, I. of Fairfield, Ct. b. 20 March, 1712, was m. ——— to John Griffin. They resided in the western part of Redding, Ct. where her father gave her seventy-three acres of land by his will, and her mother in her will, made in 1760, gave her all her wearing apparel.

No record of her death has been found. Some of her descendants still reside in Redding.

Children.

279 I Sarah, bap. 9 May, 1736, m. John Burr, jr. 22 Nov. 1755.
280 II Eunice, " 22 Oct. 1738, m. Jonathan Couch, 14 Aug. 1759.

283 V Jonathan, bap. 23 Nov. 1746, settled in Danbury, Ct.
284 VI Elizabeth, ——— ——— ——— m. Jeremiah Sherman.
285 VII Hepzibah, ——— ——— ——— m. Joseph Sanford, 2 Nov. 1762.

The records of this family are very imperfect. The above has been collected from the (C) Church record, and the recollections of Mr. Uriah Griffin of Redding—a grandson.

(104—IV.)

Jonathan Nash, son of Capt. Thomas Nash, I. of Fairfield, Ct. b. 17 Oct. 1714, m. 14 March, 1754, Sarah Andrews. It will be seen that he was then upward of forty years old. He must have been a man of some note, as old people in the vicinity still remember hearing him spoken of as such. But little, however, is now known of his history.

Children.

286 I Sarah, born 17 Jan. 1755, m. Thomas Couch.
287 II Elizabeth, bap. 3 Oct. 1756, d. 1 March, 1775, in her 19th year.
288 III Eleanor, born 14 Jan. 1758, m. Simon Couch.

Mr. Jonathan Nash d. 9 Oct. 1757, some months previous to the birth of his youngest daughter.

His widow Mrs. Sarah Nash, was afterward, viz. 24 Jan. 1764, m. (2) to Nathan Godfrey, by whom she had several children.

Of the above children of Jonathan Nash, Elizabeth d. 1 March, 1775. She made a will which was allowed in Probate, although she was but a little over eighteen years of age.

(105—V.)

Elizabeth Nash, dau. of Capt. Thomas Nash, I. of Fairfield, Ct. b. 3 March, 1717, was m. 14 Oct. 1735, to John Burr, son of Daniel Burr of Fairfield. She is known to have been the dau. of Capt. Thos. Nash, because she is named in his will made in 173$\frac{7}{8}$, still extant, but which was cancelled by his making another will after her death, devising to her two sons that which he had intended for her. Her name and birth also appear in an old Family Bible record belonging to Mrs. Sherwood of Fairfield.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burr d. 29 March, 1740.

Children.

289 I Daniel, born 5 March, 1737.
190 II John, " 9 Oct. 1739, d. 9 Oct. 1749.

After the death of his (1) wife Elizabeth, Mr. John Burr m. (2) 9 Nov. 1741, Grace Bulkley, and had Elizabeth, d. Talcott, John, Grace, Eunice, and Elizabeth.

(123—V.)

JOHN NASH of Williamsburgh, Mass. son of Thomas Nash of Hatfield, Mass. b. 20 Oct. (or 2 Nov.?) 1736, m. 27 Dec. 1758, Martha Graves, b. (prob.) 1736 or 1738. He received the first warrant to organize the Town of Williamsburgh, from William Williams of Hatfield, in 1771, and was one of the first settlers. In an early valuation of the town he was highest in amount, on the list. In the Sketch, before alluded to, (see Thomas Nash, No. 58, III.) it is said that when the church was organized, 3 July, 1771, "John Nash, one of the first and most efficient members of the Church, and well known, said to the people here, that if it met their wishes, he would get preaching for them a Sabbath. He thence obtained from Northampton, who then resided there in the character of a Licentiate, Timothy Dwight, afterward President of Yale College. He spent a Sabbath with this people, and was finally hired five Sabbaths more. This was the first preaching in this place, of a Congregational Minister."

Mr. John Nash made his will 8 Feb. 1771, and d. in middle life, viz. 31 May, 1773, in his 37th year, and was buried in Hatfield, as appears by his grave-stone. The traditionary account is that he was on a visit and died in Hatfield.

Mrs. Martha Nash d. 1794, Æ 56.

Children.

310 I	Moses,	born 17 Nov.	1758, d. 1759.

(126—VIII.)

Dea. Elisha Nash of Williamsburgh, Mass. youngest son of Thomas Nash, jr. of Hatfield, b. 1 Oct. 1744, m. 13 Aug. [14 July?] 1767, Elizabeth Smith, dau. of Moses and Hannah Smith of Amherst, b. Sep. 1743. He went with his brother John in the company of first settlers of Williamsburgh. In the Historical Sketch heretofore mentioned, (see Thomas Nash, No. 58, III.) it is stated that Elisha Nash and wife were among the original thirty members of the (C) Church in Williamsburgh, 3 July, 1771, that Elisha Nash was elected Deacon, 13 June, 1785, and accepted. That he was again elected deacon 27 May, 1790, and accepted. (The cause of this 2d election does not appear)—and that he was moderator of the meeting that voted to settle the Rev. Henry Lord as their Pastor for life 2 April, 1804. Dea. Nash appears to have been a man of eminent virtues, and a high degree of respectability.

From a cursory review of the Town Records it is found that he was moderator of Town meeting in as many as eighteen different years, and sometimes of five different meetings in the same year. He was often Town Treasurer, sometimes Town Clerk and Assessor, and frequently one of a Committee for Town affairs or for business with the Legislature of the State.

He was evidently held in high estimation for honesty, prudence and sound judgment, and was ever a prominent man in the Town.

The following extract is from the SKETCH, before mentioned. "In a sermon delivered by Mr. Lord, 16 Sept. 1827, at the funeral of Dea. Elisha Nash, a man of eminent holiness, it is said, We find his signature on the paper which contains the Articles of faith and the covenant according to which this Church was founded. The other signers of that paper all died before him; to-day we are to commit his remains to the cold grave."

Mrs. Elizabeth Nash d. in Williamsburgh, 29 April, 1782.

Dea. Elisha Nash m. (2) 8 Oct. 1783, Naomi Sheldon of Southampton, Mass. b. 29 Sep. 1743, who d. 19 Oct. 1811.

He m. (3) 27 Feb. 1812, widow Sarah Clark (maiden name Howe) of Belchertown, Mass. b. 1749, who d. 19 Jan. 1827.

He m. (4) 27 May, 1827, widow Mary Johnson, who d. in Granby, Mass. June, 1838.

Dea. Elisha Nash d. in Williamsburgh, 15 Sep. 1827.

Children by (1) Wife Elizabeth (Smith.)

318	I	ELIZABETH,	born	1 May,	1768, m. Nehemiah Frost.
319	II	REBECCA,	"	29 March,	1769, m. Amasa Frost.
320	III	HANNAH,	"	14 July,	1771, m. Seth Paine.
321	IV	SALLY,	"	16 Dec.	1772, m. Joseph Meekins.
322	V	MARTHA,	"	9 April,	1774, m. James Bangs.
323	VI	PERSIS,	"	2 Oct.	1775, m. Reuben Saxton.
324	VII	ELISHA,	"	24 March,	1778, settled in Williamsburgh.
325	VIII	CATHERINE,	"	17 May,	1779, m. Phinehas Hubbard.
326	IX	OLIVER,	"	Oct.	1780, settled in Williamsburgh.
327	X	SUBMIT,	"	22 April,	1782, d. 2 May, 1782.

It will be seen by the dates that Mrs. Elizabeth Nash d. seven days after the birth of the last child.

Dea. Elisha Nash had no issue by the other three marriages.

Oliver, the youngest son, m. Clarissa May, but had no children.

AMHERST BRANCH.

(135—I.)

JONATHAN NASH, eldest son of Dea. John Nash of Amherst, Mass. b. 28 July, 1717, spent most of his life in Amherst. Not much is known concerning him, however, owing to the very defective state of the records of that town. He m. Mary Hawley, dau. of Samuel and Mehitabel Hawley of Amherst. He became a member of the (C) Church in Amherst, 24 May, 1741, and died at the house of his daughter Mrs. Dickinson in Amherst, 28 Sep. 1796.

The following record of baptisms in his family kept by the (C) Church, is probably an approximation to the births, as baptisms in that day, usually took place the Sunday following the birth.

Children.

328	I	JONATHAN,	bap.	19 Aug.	1744, settled in Amherst.
329	II	JOSEPH,	"	5 April,	1747, settled in Whately.
330	III	AMOS,	"		1750, settled in Amherst.
331	IV	REUBEN,	"	1 Nov.	1752, settled in Amherst.
332	V	ABNER,	"	10 April,	1757, b. 1 April, 1757, removed to Hamilton, N. Y.
333	VI	MARY,	"	6 July,	1760, d. unm.
334	VII	ABIGAIL,	"	——— ———	m. Stoughton Dickinson.
335	VIII	SAMUEL,	"	——— ———	settled in Pelham, Mass.

Samuel, the youngest, was a blacksmith, never m. d. in Pelham.

(136—II.)

DEA. DAVID NASH, son of Dea. John Nash of Amherst, Mass. b. 6 June, 1719, became a member of the (C) Church in Amherst, 5 April, 1741. He m. (1) 29 Sep. 1742, Jemima Boltwood, dau. of Samuel and Hannah Boltwood of Amherst. The time of her death is not precisely known, but he m. (2) 9 May, 1754, Elizabeth Smith, and removed to South Hadley, either before, or shortly after this m. His (2) wife Elizabeth, d. in 1765, and he m. (3) Experience Loomis, widow of Amos Loomis of Southampton. Her maiden name was Parsons of Northampton. His house was half a mile or more north-east of the meeting-house, in a street called Cooper lane, probably from the circumstance that in addition to his farming operations he carried on the Coopering business there. He was a deacon of the (C) Church, and appears to have been a highly respected and useful man. His will was made in 1796. The inventory of his property amounted to 3,750£. His wife Experience and five children by his (1) and (2) wives were then living, viz. Hannah, David, Jonathan, Abigail and Asa.

Dea. David Nash d. at South Hadley, 26 April, 1803.

Mrs. Experience Nash d. at South Hadley, Feb. 1817, Æ 87.

Children by (1) Wife Jemima.

336	I	SAMUEL,	bap.	8 Sep.	1745, d. young (probably.)
337	II	DAVID,	"	9 Aug.	1747, d. 25 Sep. 1750.
338	III	HANNAH,	"	not recorded,	m. Aaron Nash, jr. of Granby.

By (2) Wife Elizabeth.

339	IV	DAVID,	born	10 Feb.	1755, removed to N. Y. State.
340	V	ABIGAIL,	"	1 June,	1757, m. Daniel Moody of Granby.
341	VI	JONATHAN,	"	5 Nov.	1760, settled in Middlefield, Mass.
342	VII	ASA,	"	1 Dec.	1763, settled on the homestead.
343	VIII	ELIZABETH,	"	19 March,	1765, d. young.

By (3) Wife Experience.

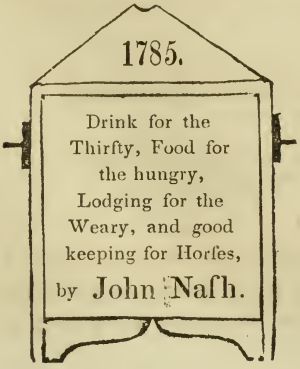
344 IX EXPERIENCE, born 20 April, 1769, d. 11 June, 1771.
345 X ELIZABETH, " 16 Aug. 1771, d. 15 Sep. 1775.

(138—IV.)

ENSIGN JOHN NASH, son of Dea. John Nash of Amherst, Mass. birth not recorded, is known to have been the son of Dea. John Nash of Amherst, from the fact that another son, Dea. David Nash of South Hadley, executed a deed of quit-claim of his right in their father's homestead in Amherst, to his brothers Jonathan Nash and John Nash of Amherst, after their father's d. viz. in 1778.

John Nash m. (1) Mary Graves of Hatfield. No record of the marriage has been found, but the intention was published in Hatfield —— 1754, and his wife is called Mary in the (C) Church Records at Amherst. They both became members of that Church, 18 Nov. 1759. It is not known when his (1) wife d. but he m. (2) 23 April, 1778, widow Sarah Kellogg,—maiden name, Clapp of Northampton, b. 4 Oct. 1733. Her (1) m. with Ebenezer Kellogg, jr. of Amherst, took place 13 Jan. 1751.

We have not the date of Ensign John Nash's death, nor of the births of his children. In truth we know but little concerning him. We have, however, the baptism of his children, which as already shown, is an approximation to their birth. His title shews that he had something to do with military affairs, and it is known that he was a partizan of the famous Capt. Shays. That insurrection, as it is called, and as it undoubtedly was, must not, however, be judged by too rigid rules. Honest and upright men were on opposite sides in that affair, in one case, as will be seen in this Record, brothers of the same household. There are many who, to this day, justify that movement, as a necessary resistance of oppression. And all agree that it did eventually modify the action of the government.



Ensign John Nash kept a Tavern in Amherst, in his latter years. The house stood on the place now (1850) owned by Mrs. Benjamin, a short distance south of Amherst College. The sign is now in the possession of Mr. William Boltwood of Amherst.

The accompanying cut is a representation of it.

Children, by (1) Wife Mary.

346 I	Levi,	bap. 18 Nov.	1759,	d. unm. about 20 years old.
347 II	Judith,	" " "	"	m. Samuel Boltwood.
348 III	Miriam,	" " "	"	m. Samuel Field.
349 IV	Mary,	" 9 Dec.	"	m. (1) Firmin Wood, (2) David Stockbridge.
350 V	———	" 27 Sep.	1761,	d. young (probably.)
351 VI	Lucretia,	" 17 April,	1763,	d. of dysentery at the time of the mother's death.
352 VII	Martha,	" 16 Sep.	1764,	d. in Amherst, unm. 5 Oct. 1836.
353 VIII	Moses,	" 20 Dec.	1767,	settled in Amherst.

Of the first five of the above children, none but the first is named on the Church Record of baptisms, the others being left blank. It is known that he had the next three named, and the order is only conjectural. It is understood however that Judith was b. in 1756 or 1757.

The first three appear to have been baptized on the day the Parents were admitted to the Church.

The fifth is no more heard of and probably died young.

The mother and dau. Lucretia, are said to have died about the same time and of the same complaint.

Mary, who m. (1) Firmin Wood, 1779, (2) David Stockbridge, was the (2) wife of David Stockbridge. His (1) wife was Patience Bartlett, whom he m. 3 Nov. 1774. She d. 19 Oct. 1806, Æ 54. The (2) wife Mary (Wood) d. 20 June, 1832, Æ 75. According to this she was b. in 1757.

WEST HARTFORD BRANCH.

(139—I.)

Rebecca Nash, dau. of Moses and Rebecca Nash of West Hartford b. in Deerfield, Mass. 8 Jan. 172⅔, was m. (1) 26 July, 1747, to Alexander Porter. The marriage took place in West Hartford, but was recorded both there and at Hadley, Mass. He resided at one time in Amherst, Mass. It is supposed that A. Porter d. in Hadley, in 1748. His widow Rebecca was m. (2) to Stephen Chubb, of New Hartford, Ct. It is evident from the birth of her first child by her (2) husband Mr. Chubb, that her (1) husband, A. Porter lived but a short time after his marriage. Mrs. Rebecca Chubb d. in New Hartford, Ct. 16 Feb. 1763.

Children of Stephen and Rebecca Chubb.

354 I	Rebecca,	born 16 April,	1752,	m. Ambras Humphrey of Barkhamstead.
355 II	Stephen,	" 15 Feb.	1754,	went to the South.
356 III	Ruth,	" 26 July,	1756.
357 IV	Deidamia,	" 2 Feb.	1759,	m. Stephen Knowlton of Winchester, Ct.
358 V	Alexander,	" 5 June,	1761,	settled in New Hartford.

(141—III.)

John Nash, son of Moses and Rebecca Nash of West Hartford Ct. b. in West Hartford, 1 Dec. 1728. m. Mary Graves, dau. of Capt. Neboth Graves of New London, Ct. As they must have been m about the time that his father removed from West Hartford to Wintonbury, it is probable they commenced house-keeping at Wintonbury. He d. there, 19 Oct. 1758, comparatively young, and appears to have been cut off suddenly, leaving three young children, the youngest but three months old.

Children.

359 I	Mary,	born 9	bap. 15 Dec.	1754, d. unm. 28 March, 1821, Æ 70.
360 II	Moses,	" 16	" 20 March,	1757, d. unm. in Torrington, Ct.
361 III	John,	" 18 July,"	27 Aug.	1758, settled in Winchester.

Of these children, Mary lived many years in Torrington, Ct. but removed thence to Winchester with her younger brother John, and d. there.

Moses, to whom the grandfather had left a special legacy of his patrimony in Hadley, d. without issue, and of course the sister and brother were his heirs.

The widow Mary Nash, who is said to have brought her husband a considerable amount of property, was subseqnently m. to David Goff, and they removed with the children to Torrington, Ct. There the property was all squandered and she and Mr. Goff went west to the State of N. Y. where they both died.

(143—V.)

Abigail Nash, dau. of Moses and Rebecca Nash of West Hartford, b. in West Hartford, 12 Dec. 1733, was m. 22 Jan. 1761, to Elisha Stillman of Wethersfield, Ct.

Mr. Elisha Stillman d. in Wethersfield, 23 Sep. 1803, Æ 72.

Mrs. Abigail Stillman d. " 8 May, 1806.

Children.

362 I	Abigail,	born 22 Nov.	1761, m. ——	Ives of Colebrook, Ct.
363 II	Huldah,	" 23 Nov.	1763, d. Feb. 1766.
364 III	Elisha,	" 23 May,	1766, d. 17 Feb. 1769.
365 IV	Elisha, 2d,	" 5 July.	1769, settled in Colebrook, d. 1 Sep. 1814.
366 V	Appleton,	" 5 March,	1773, d. 1775.
367 VI	Huldah,	" 3 Aug.	1776, d. unm. about 1815.
368 VII	John,	" 5 March,	1779, settled in Wethersfield.

(144—VI.)

Joseph Nash, son of Moses and Rebecca Nash of West Hartford, Ct. b. in West Hartford, 30 Dec. 1735, m. 16 March, 1758, Anne Skinner, dau. of Sergt. Isaac Skinner, bap. 12 Nov. 1738. They settled in Wintonbury. By the will of his father he had the "Smithy and tools" for blacksmithing, but the items in his inventory indicate that he probably followed the business of Fan Light making. Joseph Nash and wife were admitted to y^e^ Church at Wintonbury, 21 Jan. 1759.

Children.

369 I	Joseph,	bap. 18 Feb.	1759, d. 19 March, 1759.
370 II	Joseph,	" 16 March,	1760, (b. 3 March,) settled in Charlemont, Mass.
371 III	Anna,	" 13 June,	1762, m.	Jonathan Hastings.

372 IV Rebecca, bap. 28 Jan. 1765, d. unm. in Charlemont.
373 V Rivera, " 12 April, 1767, (b. 8 April,) removed to Smithfield, N. Y.
374 VI Jemme, " 22 July, 1770, d. unm. in Charlemont.

Mr. Joseph Nash d. 22 March, 1771. His widow Anne Nash, was m. (2) 22 Oct. 1773, to Aaron Booth of East Windsor, and had by him three children, one d. and two viz. Levi and Rufus, were bap. in Wintonbury. This family removed to Charlemont, Mass. taking the Nash children along with them. Rebecca and James or Jemme d. there of canker rash, nearly at the same time, both unm. Mrs. Anne Booth d. in Charlemont, 1803.

(145—VII.)

Sarah Nash, dau. of Moses and Rebecca Nash of West Hartford, Ct. b. in West Hartford, 26 April, 1738, was m. 17 June, 1763, to John Marsh of New Hartford. She was his (2) wife. His (1) wife was Lusinea Seymour, whom he m. 2 Feb. 1758, and who d. 14 May, 1762, leaving two sons, viz. John subsequently known in New Hartford as Dea. John Marsh, and Nathaniel who lived to marry, but d. soon after.

Mrs. Sarah Marsh d. in New Hartford, 17 July, 1775.

Children.

375 I Lusinai, born 15 June, 1764, m. Timothy Dawson.
376 II James, " 1 June, 1767, settled in Whitestown, N. Y.

(149—IV.)

THE REV. JUDAH NASH, of Montague, Mass. son of Timothy Nash, Esq. of Ellington, Ct. b. in Long-Meadow, Mass. 31 Dec. 1728, graduated at Yale College in 1748. He appears to have studied theology under the supervision of the Rev. Benjamin Colton of West Hartford, Ct. as he was admitted a member of the (C) Church in that place, 7 Jan. 1749.

He had an uncle, Mr. Moses Nash, and an aunt, the wife of Dea. Abraham Merrill, living in that place, and it is conjectured that he resorted thither to be among friends.

He was ordained Pastor of the (C) Church in Montague, (then a part of Sunderland,) Mass. 22 Nov. 1752, and m. 1 Jan. 1753, Mary Terry, who was b. 27 April, 1728.

(fac-simile.)
The following communication respecting his life and character, was from the Rev. Eli Moody of Montague.

"The first time I found his name mentioned (in the Montague Town Records,) was in a vote of the (then north District of Sunderland) to raise his salary in the spring of 1753. In the fluctuations of the currency, during the Revolution and after, his salary was repeatedly changed. For a number of years in succession the town made some new proposal to him relating to his support. But it appears that he always acceded to their proposal without complaint. It does not appear from the record that there was ever any thing to disturb the very pleasant state of feeling between him and his people, during the whole of his long ministry. From some old people, who remember a part of his ministry well, I have learned that he was held in very high veneration by all the community. His demeanour was such as to secure respect and veneration from all with whom he had intercourse. He was very familiar with his people, and peculiarly sympathising, whenever they were in trouble. Naturally he was a man of much pleasant humour, but he never indulged that propensity to the sacrifice of ministerial dignity. He was very patient and cheerful under sufferings, which was exemplified in a remarkable degree, during his last, distressing and protracted illness. He was then a pattern of patience and submission to his Heavenly Father's Will. Convinced that his complaint must termin. te fatally, he was careful in every respect to set his house in order. He requested the Rev. Mr. Kilbourne, (then of Wendall) to preach his funeral sermon, and selected Acts, 20: 24, 25, as the text. The request was complied with, and the sermon was printed. The following is an extract from it.

'His affability and mildness of temper, served eminently to his usefulness as a counsellor in difficult cases. He had a readiness and pertinence of observation in administering reproof peculiar to himself. His knowledge of the Scriptures, and of the history of the Church, joined with a tenacious memory, rendered him peculiarly serviceable as a counsellor. He has lived to be Moderator of Councils, of Associations of ministers, and at ordinations to give the charge to most of his survivors in this vicinity. His life was a transcript of the doctrines he taught. His moderation and temperance no doubt contributed to the length of his days and protracted the preservation of an enfeebled constitution. He sympathized with the afflicted—and administered the balm of consolation to hearts wounded with grief. He was benevolent and charitable, entertaining his friends with hospitality and kindness; practicing economy, and living in a style which enabled him to help the poor and needy. He was candid in his sentiments, and judicious in his remarks; faithful in performing his ministerial duty, and a lover of the people of his charge. Not long before his decease, he was heard to observe, that he intended the duties of his office should be among the last he performed in his life. And accordingly it was so ordered, by a superintending Providence, that he continued his ministerial public labours till a short time before his death. It is much to your honour, as well as to the honour of your deceased Pastor, that you have enjoyed his labours to so late a period. In the management of your parochial and ecclesiastical affairs, there has been no occasion for the assistance of counsel to settle difficulties. This day bears honourable testimony of your approbation of the wisdom and piety of your Fathers in their choice of an able Minister of the New Testament.'

According to the impressions of those who remember a part of his ministry, Mr. Kilbourne has said no more than was fully exemplified in the life of that good man. It bears favourable testimony to Mr. Nash's Ministerial and Pastoral character, when we remember that he was their first Pastor, and had the whole management of matters ecclesiastical for the long period of fifty-two years and three months, from their first organization.

The disease which terminated his life, was seated in one of his lower limbs. It was much swollen and very painful. He, however, managed to get to the church and preach until the close of the autumn before his death. A short time before his death, when he could no longer walk, and felt that the time of his departure was at hand, he requested that he might be carried to the place of meeting, that he might once more address his beloved flock. This was done, and there, seated in his armed chair, he gave them a most interesting and solemn valedictory, which he closed by giving out the 50 Hymn, 2d Book of Watts—'Now Let the Lord my Saviour smile.' This was the last of his public performances. In a short time his instructive tongue was mute. At his death his affectionate and bereaved people carried him to his burial and made great lamentation over him. They afterwards caused to be placed over his remains, a large Mica Slate Slab, which bears the following inscription," (omitting the poetry.)

"Rev. Judah Nash; ordained Nov. 1752. Died 19 Feb. 1805, Æ 76.

(155—X.)

Ebenezer Nash, youngest son of Timothy Nash, Esq. of Ellington, Ct. b. in Long-Meadow, Mass. 20 Jan. 1744, O. S. was but 14 years old when his father died. There is a note in the probate records at Hartford, stating that "Ebenezer Nash appeared May 1st, 1759, and chose his brother, Rev. Judah Nash of Sunderland, Mass. as his Guardian, he being 15 years and 3 months old."

He was apprenticed to a Tanner and Currier in Glastenbury, Ct. but he abandoned the trade, in after life, and turned his attention to agriculture. He was deemed a man of uncommon vigour of intellect and capacity, for one with an education so limited,—was a member of the Convention of his State, for ratifying the Constitution of the U. S. And when the two great political parties were formed, he took his stand with the democratic party, to which he adhered through life, and was ever a prominent man of that party in the town.

He m. 16 July, 1769, Susannah Hills of North Bolton, (now Vernon,) Ct. b. in East Hartford, Ct. 17 Feb. 1749. They finally settled in Ellington, on what is termed the west side of the Marsh, about two and one half miles south-west from the place where his father died.

He was once a member of the (C) Church in Ellington, but about the beginning of the present century, he withdrew from that church and joined the Episcopal Church. He and his eldest son Ebenezer, jr. (who had preceded him in this matter) were the first of this branch who professed faith according to the Episcopal Ritual. He was for many years a warden of the (E) Church at Warehouse Point, Ct. and was, it is believed, in that office at the time of his death. He was a man highly respected, even by those who disagreed with him in his political and religious views. It was often said of him, that if he had been liberally educated he would have been no common man.

Mr. Ebenezer Nash d. in Ellington, 8 Dec. 1823.

GREENFIELD BRANCH.

(205—I.)

DANIEL NASH, jr. son of Daniel Nash, of Greenfield, Mass. and III. of the name in succession, b. 4 Nov. 1742, m. Anna Atherton. He spent his life in Greenfield, on, or near, his father's homestead. Very little is known concerning him, probably for the reason that he never changed his residence, and the family record is lost. It is understood that he and his brother Sylvanus, in company with their father, built the mills called Nash's Mills, on Mill river,—a small stream that falls into Green river, about two miles north-west of the village of Greenfield.

(207—III.)

Sylvanus Nash, son of Daniel Nash, of Greenfield, Mass. b. 18 Feb. 1747, m. 25 Nov. 1773, Tryphena Hudson. He lived in Greenfield, and was in company with his father and his brother Daniel, in building the mills. He was one of the partisans of the famous Capt. Shays, in 1789. This is the case, to which allusion has already been made, of brother being arrayed against brother. His brother Tubel was an officer in Capt. Arms' company, on the government side. It is said they were both worthy men. Sylvanus is spoken of as a man of great firmness and decision of character, and of extraordinary muscular powers.

(226—IX.)

The Rev. Daniel Nash, A. B. youngest son of Jonathan Nash, Esq. of Great Barrington, Mass. b. 28 May, 1763, familiarly known in Otsego, and adjacent counties, N. Y. as Father Nash, filled, perhaps, the most extensive sphere of usefulness of any of the name; yet nothing is now known of his youthful history, and but little of his ministerial life, beyond the fact that he was a much loved and extensively useful minister of the Gospel. He appears to have been one of those Christians who act as seeing things invisible, with very little concern for earthly things, or human opinions,—claiming no eminence of talent, but having an eye single to the glory of God, and a heart overflowing with love for the souls of men.

The few facts obtained are chiefly from some of his MSS. in the hands of his Grandson, Edward N. Munroe, of Burlington, Otsego Co. N. Y. and from the recollections of the Rev. and venerable Dr. D. Burhans, now (1852) 90 years of age.

He graduated at Yale College, in 1785, in the same class with Noah Webster, and was a member of the Congregational Church, of which there is among his papers a certificate, dated Aug. 15, 1783, signed by Samuel Wales, Pastor of that church in New Haven. It is said that he was at one time a licensed teacher of that order, and was studying under the supervision of the celebrated Dr. Hopkins.

The following sketch is from Dr. Burhans:

"The first of my personal acquaintance with the late Rev. Daniel Nash was at Great Barrington, Mass. in the autumn of 1793. Having spent two or three years in teaching a select school,* in New

* His son, Dr. Wm. C. Nash, recollects hearing his father say that he taught an academy nine years, before he was ordained, first at Pittsgrove, and then at Swedesboro, N. J. He probably included the three years he taught in Richmond, Mass. after his return.

Jersey, under the patronage of the late Bishop Croes, he returned to his native place to attend the settlement of his father's estate, who had recently deceased. I was introduced to him by the late Rev. and very venerable Gideon Bostwick, and a lasting friendship then commenced, which I trust, will be consummated in heaven.

I soon found Mr. Nash, in addition to his natural and acquired talents, in possession of catholic views of the Apostolic Church, in primitive doctrine and discipline, but, above all, of a lively and practical faith, manifested in humility and sobriety, with a cheerful countenance, and a smile upon his lips, indicative of a pure and unaccusing conscience,—affable in conversation,—without cant, familiar on religious subjects, which endeared him to me, and to all his acquaintance.

Finding him desirous of becoming a candidate for Holy Orders, he was furnished with ample credentials of his early piety and exemplary life. In due time he returned to Swedesboro, and spent the winter with the then Rev. Mr. Croes, as an assistant in his academy, studying theology till the spring of 1794, when he obtained testimonials as a candidate for Holy Orders, signed by the Rector, (Rev. Mr. Croes,) and the Vestry of the Church in Swedesboro. He then returned home, desirous of obtaining a grammar school, and completing his theological studies in that region.

Knowing of a vacancy at New Lebanon Springs, where I had officiated occasionally, and collected a small congregation, I recommended him as a teacher in their academy, and as a lay reader in the church. In this situation he remained three years. In the mean time he became acquainted with an amiable lady, Miss Olive Lusk, of a very respectable family in Richmond, Mass.* Her benignity of mind and placidity of manners, like two elements of congenial matter, melted into each other. They were married in Jan. 1796. A more happy couple seldom meet in this jarring world. There was no discord, but harmony and love prevailed at home and abroad, for they were both highly esteemed, for courtesy, for success as teachers, and for their amiable deportment and Christian example.

But I found the field was too small for their expansive minds, which glowed with a missionary spirit. I had myself, for two winters previously, visited the county of Otsego, N. Y. as a missionary, with a view of finally removing to that field, already white for the harvest; but finding my wife inclining to consumption, I was obliged to abandon the project, and proposed to brother Nash to take orders and go to Macedonia, which was crying for help. He embraced the offer,—closed his school,—went to New York, and was ordained,—the first settled Episcopal minister west of Schenectady, in what is now Western N. Y. And by his zeal and indefatigable labours, sanctioning every step by a sober, religious and godly life, being instant in season and out of season,—going from house to house, preaching the word, baptizing households, teaching them all things necessary for the life that now is and that which is to come,—catechising all, old and young, he did more in thirty-seven years, in establishing and extending the church, than any other clergyman ever did in the United States.

Most justly did the public bestow upon him the well earned titles of FATHER NASH, and THE APOSTLE OF THE WEST.

To him may well be applied the couplet,

> 'The sweet remembrance of the just,
> Shall flourish when he sleeps in dust.'

DANIEL BURHANS."

Mr. Nash was ordained Deacon, by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Provoost, in Trinity Church, N. Y. 8 Feb. 1797, and, as appears from the foregoing sketch, went immediately to Otsego Co. and commenced his ministerial labours. Bishop Chase, who visited that region as an itinerant missionary in 1798–9, says, that on leaving Utica, "he proceeded to pay his respects to good Mr. Nash, at that time living in Burlington, Otsego county. It was a meeting of two persons deeply convinced of the primitive and apostolic foundation of the church. They were both missionaries, though the name was not yet understood or appreciated. The one had given up all his hopes of more comfortable living in the well-stored country at the east, and had come to Otsego to preach the gospel and build up the church on apostolic ground, with no assurance of a salary but such as he could glean from the cold soil of unrenewed nature, or pluck from the clusters of the few scions which he might engraft into the vine Christ Jesus. He lived not in a tent, as the patriarchs did, surrounded with servants to tend his flocks, and to milk his kine, and bring him butter in a lordly dish; but in a cabin built of unhewn logs, with scarcely a pane of glass to let in light sufficient to read his Bible; and even this cabin was not his own, nor was he permitted to live in one for a long time together.* All this was witnessed by the other, who came to see him and helped him to carry his little articles of crockery, holding one handle of the basket and Mr. N. the other, and as they walked the road, talked of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God.

The writer cannot refrain from tears in bringing to mind the circumstances attending this interesting scene. That man, who was afterwards most emphatically called FATHER NASH, being the founder of the church in Otsego county, was at this period so little regarded by the church at large, and even by his neighbours, that he had not the means to move his substance from one cabin to another, but with his own hands, assisted only by his wife and small children, and a passing missionary. Well does the writer remember how the little one-roomed cabin looked as he entered it; its rude door, hung on wooden hinges, creaking as they turned; how joyful that good man was that he had been mindful to fetch a few nails, which he had used in the other cabin, just left, for his comfort in this, now the receptacle of all his substance. These, he drove into the logs with great judgment, choosing the place most appropriate for his hat, his coat, and other garments of himself and family. All this while his

* It may not be amiss to notice here the general belief, in Otsego county, that Father Nash was in truth the missionary who, under the name of Mr. Grant, is made so prominent a character in the PIONEERS, a descriptive tale by the late J. Fenimore Cooper. Doubtless most of the incidents in that tale are fictitious, but Mr. Cooper himself, in his preface, expresses an apprehension that there might be found too much of fact in his descriptions, to render the book interesting as a work of fiction, and remarks that "in commencing to describe scenes, and, perhaps he may add, characters that were so familiar to his own youth, there was a constant temptation to delineate that which he had known, rather than that which he might have imagined." In connection with this remark, the following extract from another work of Mr. Cooper's leaves but little room for doubt that in the delineation of Mr. Grant's character, the author had Father Nash in his mind. Mr. Cooper says, in his "Chronicles of Cooperstown:"

"On the 10th day of Sept. 1800, Miss Cooper, the eldest daughter of Judge Cooper, (and sister of the author,) a young lady in her 23d year, was killed by a fall from a horse. Her funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. Daniel Nash, of the Prot. Epis. Church, and she was interred according to the rites of that church, which were now performed for the first time in this village. Mr. Nash, since so well known in his own church for his apostolic simplicity, under the name of Father Nash, was then a missionary in the county. From this time he began to extend his services to Cooperstown, and on the 1st day of Jan. 1811, a church was legally organized, under the title of Christ's Church, Cooperstown. On the same day, the Rev. Daniel Nash was chosen Rector, which office, through the delicacy of the clergyman who succeeded him in its duties, he informally held, down to the day of his death in 1836."

patient wife, directing the children to kindle the fire, prepared the food for—whom? Shall it be said a stranger? No; but for one who by sympathy felt himself more their brother than by all the ties of nature, and who, by the example now set before him, learned a lesson of inexpressible value to him all the days of his subsequent life."—Reminiscences, Vol. 1, p. 32.

On the 11 Oct. 1801, he was admitted to the priesthood by the Rt. Rev. Benjamin Moore, then Bishop of N. Y. His estimate of Mr. Nash's character may be inferred from the following extract of a letter written by him, the day after the ordination, to Gen. Jacob Morris, of Butternuts, Otsego Co. "Yesterday I ordained Mr. Nash a priest; and it affords me no little satisfaction to reflect that the first act of my Episcopal function has been employed in elevating to the priesthood so worthy a man."

It is known also that he was a special favorite with the late Bishop Hobart.

A particular account of his life during his protracted ministry in that region, will probably never be given. The following extract from a letter in answer to a brother clergyman, who had desired him to write an account of the churches in those parts, shews that he did not intend his own history should be written. The extract, however, gives us an idea of his manner of life.

"This evening is the first time I have collected courage enough even to give an answer to your kind letter,—kind, although you urge me to perform a task which I had resolved never to perform. St. Paul looked upon it as a foolish thing for him to boast of his labours and sufferings,—his toils and afflictions. He did it, however, for the sake of affording his friends an opportunity to vindicate his character. I have no such reason to influence me to write the history of the church in this and the adjacent counties,—to do it, I must of course speak of myself, for I was the principal and only minister for many years,*—happy years indeed,—I never felt discouraged, neither did I feel alone. My wife was then living,—a noble-spirited, sensible woman, who in the room of feeling discouraged, was the first to cheer me on in my arduous labours.

The country was then comparatively a wilderness—often she gave me a child and then got on the horse behind me with another in her arms, and thus we would go to our public worship for a number of miles. She excelled in music, and I understood it well,—we were never confounded in that part of the service, and when the congregation did not well understand how to make the responses, she always did it in a solemn, dignified manner. Through all kinds of weather, whether the place was near or remote, I was uniformly at the place a short time before the people began to assemble. This gave me an opportunity to speak kindly to them, and enquire respecting their families. They judged me to feel interested both for their temporal and spiritual welfare, and they did not judge amiss. Whenever a door was opened to catechise in public or private houses, I did it."*

* The Rev. S. H. Battin, of Cooperstown, in a late communication, says, "He itinerated so much,—was such a pioneer, that although the father in reality of every parish, and organizer, he was only rector by courtesy. Such was the case in Cooperstown."

The last sentence of the foregoing extract alludes to an exercise which was, with him, a peculiarly favorite mode of instruction, as is strikingly illustrated by the following anecdote, related by Dr. Burhans, who was a witness, and relates it as characteristic of the man.

It happened that Mr. Nash and another clergyman spent a day or two with the doctor about the time that merino sheep were introduced into the country. The other clergyman had a brother concerned in the woollen business, and was himself absorbingly interested in the matter. After many remarks, finding Mr. Nash manifested no enthusiasm on the subject, he said he had heard that merinos must be treated in a peculiar way, and asked Mr. Nash if he knew what was good for young lambs? Mr. Nash quietly replied that "he fed his with catechisms, having found that such food rendered them most healthy and vigorous."

That he was highly esteemed and generally beloved by his people, there is abundant evidence. Gen. Morris, writing to him a few months previous to his death, says, "No teacher of religion has ever made such an impression upon me as yourself, nor can I feel for any other as I feel for you, my dear, pious, good friend." That he was useful is a fact of general notoriety. From 1804 to 1816, when, to use his own words, "the country was a comparative wilderness," and Episcopalians few and widely dispersed, he reported to Convention,

* Mr. Battin adds, "One custom of his, I have heard of repeatedly. Wherever he went to visit, he used always to call the children of the household together and question them in their catechism, making sundry kindly, paternal remarks, and 'calling down a blessing upon them, as it is expressed.'" "Often while living and preaching and organizing churches in this county, he went out to visit and preach to the Oneida Indians, in that county, and visited, in his way, the church families, stopping at their houses, and catechising their children, according to his invariable custom. Several of the ladies of my parish recollect being catechised by him after they were 14 or 15 years old."

496 baptisms. In 1817, he was thrown from his carriage, and so severely injured as to preclude active duties for most of the year. In 1819, he reported 104 baptisms. In 1825–6, he was sick much of the time, and soon afterwards was called to mourn the loss of his excellent companion, the partner of his toils, who died while on a visit to her brother-in-law, William Crandal, Esq. of Exeter, Otsego Co. N. Y.

In 1831, he had a severe illness at the house of his son-in-law, Hassan Munroe, of Burlington, in the same county, and for several months he was deemed near his end. He never afterwards entirely regained his health, though he so far recovered by the following spring as to resume his ministerial duties.

In the spring of 1836, he again called on his daughter, at Burlington, complaining of indisposition, which grew continually worse until the fourth of June, when his spirit was released from its earthly prison to join the company of the redeemed in a world where sorrow and suffering have no place. His disease was termed by the physicians, dropsy of the chest. The following notice of his death appeared in the Gospel Messenger, printed at Auburn, N. Y.

"The Rev. Daniel Nash, long and well known as a faithful missionary in Otsego county, and its vicinity, died suddenly, though not unexpectedly, of dropsy, on the 4th inst. at Burlington, in the county above mentioned, at the age of 73 years and 7 days. The Rev. Mr. Tiffany, of Cooperstown, we learn, preached a very appropriate sermon at the time of his interment, which took place on the 7th.

We are authorized to say, that early attention will be given to the preparation of a suitable account* of the life and labours of this long loved and untiring servant of the cross."

He was buried by the side of his deceased wife, in Exeter. But having, in his lifetime, been heard to express a wish that he might be buried in front of the church in Cooperstown, beneath some venerable pines, the bodies were subsequently removed, at the request of the church, and deposited in the chosen spot, where, through the efforts of the ladies, a beautiful monument has been erected, of which a friend† has furnished an accurate wood engraving.

* The pledge in this last clause was never fulfilled, and it has been supposed the papers were lost, but since the printing of this work commenced, the compiler has been informed that an unfinished memoir was left by Dr. Rudd, in the hands of another clergyman, who is supposed to have finished it. But it has not been published, nor has the compiler been able, by utmost effort, to ascertain where the MS. now is.

It is an obelisk of white marble, on a square pedestal of the same material, with a granite base of 4 inches thickness, measuring altogether 9½ feet from the ground. It stands directly in front of the church, and but a few rods from it, under the pines, in describing which, on the morning of Dec. 10th, Rev. Mr. Battin says,

"It has snowed all night, and some of the long branches with their dark evergreen foliage, half hidden by the snow, are weighed down to the ground, as though they would protect the sleepers underneath from the cold blasts of winter."

Sally Nash, dau. of Phinehas Nash of Wyoming, Pa. b. 20 Aug. 1770, was m. to Uriah Howe, at Hubbardton, Vt.

Child.

671 I Sally, born Oct. 1800, m. John Beers. Lives in Orwell, Bradford Co. Pa.

Mrs. Sally Howe d. at the birth of the above child.

GRANBY BRANCH.

(243—I.)

Joanna Nash, dau. of Timothy Nash of Shutesbury, Mass. b. 29 Dec. 1737, was m. in Northfield, Mass. 1768, to Jacob Hastings, of Warwick, Mass. Nothing further has been learned respecting them.

(244—II.)

Samuel Nash, son of Timothy Nash of Shutesbury, Mass. b. 29 Jan. 1739, removed from Shutesbury about 1767 or 8, and has been heard of only once since. It appears from the records in the Registrar's Office at Springfield, Mass. that Samuel Nash of Lunenburgh, Upper Cowass, Albany Co. N. Y. sold some land, in Granby, Mass. to Phinehas Smith, on the 6 Aug. 1771. That Lunenburgh is now in Essex Co. Vt. No effort has elicited any further information concerning him.

(245—III.)

Timothy Nash, jr. son of Timothy Nash of Shutesbury, Mass. b. 15 Oct. 1740, is supposed to have removed in 1768, to Lunenburgh, then claimed by New York, but now in Essex Co. Vt. About four years afterwards he visited Shutesbury, and m. Mary Powers, and returned with her to Lunenburgh. There is no record of the m.

but their intentions of marriage were published according to the law of Mass. 15 Aug. 1772.

It appears that he was a hunter and that in one of his rambles in New Hampshire, he had discovered the Notch in the White Mountains, for which he obtained a grant of land.

Belknap in his History of New Hampshire, says that two men discovered it in 1771. And Dwight says,* "The land on which Rosebrook lives, is part of a tract in New Hampshire, granted to two men, one named Nash, the other Sawyer; for discovering the Notch in the White Mountains—Nash discovered it; but Sawyer persuaded Nash to admit him to an equal share of the benefits resulting from the discovery." Mr. Hadley, Sec. of State of New Hampshire, who has kindly examined the records, writes that the State of New Hampshire granted to "Timothy Nash and Benjamin Sawyer, both of our province of New York," a tract in Coos Co. "containing by admeasurement two thousand, one hundred and eighty-four acres," which act was signed by J. Wentworth, Governor, and dated 20 May, 1773.

It is supposed that all his children were born in Lunenburgh or Guildhall, Vt.

At a subsequent period he returned with his family to Shutesbury, and after a few years, removed westward and d. in Ballston, Saratoga Co. N. Y. His widow returned to Shutesbury, and lived among her Powers relatives until her decease.

Most of the children settled in Rutland, Jef. Co. N. Y.

The records of this family are very meagre, and what we have, has been obtained with much difficulty.

Children.

672 I	Polly,	born		d. in Shutesbury, did not go west with the family.
673 II	Timothy,	"		removed to Mich.
674 III	Dianthe,	"	about 1781,	m. (1) Robert Powers, (2) Abraham Jewett.
675 IV	Sarah,	"	29 April, 1783,	m. Ezekiel Goodale.
676 V	Benjamin,	"		removed to Vt. in 1828 or 1830.
677 VI	Betsey,	"		m. Samuel Andrews.
678 VII	John,	"		m. Harriet Wright.

Polly was afflicted with fits, and did not remove with the family to Rutland, but d. on the Town some time subsequent to 1809.

Benjamin m. widow Lucinda Barber, but had no children. He is said to have d. somewhere in Vermont.

Betsey was m. to Samuel Andrews, in Jef. Co. N. Y. The family removed, about 1820, it is said, to Cleveland, O. but no further information has been received.

(246—IV.)

EXPERIENCE NASH, dau. of Timothy Nash of Shutesbury, Mass. b. 14 Dec. 1743, was published according to the law of Mass. as intending to m. George Wheeler, 17 March, 1764. Of them nothing further has been learned.

(247—V.)

MARY CROUCH NASH, youngest dau. of Timothy Nash of Shutesbury, Mass. b. 20 May, 1747, was m. in Northfield, Mass. 1768, to James Lyman. They were both said to be of Northfield, and, as it was but the year after her father sold out in Shutesbury, it is possible that he had removed to Northfield.

Children.

679 I	Luther,	born 15 June, 1769,	settled at Greenbush, N. Y.
680 II	Princess,	" 22 June, 1771,	m. and removed to N. Y.

830 VIII	Lemuel,	bap. 18 Sep.	1774, d. young of Small Pox.

The above is from the Town Record corrected by the (C) Church Registry of baptisms, and private records of the family. The record in the town office seems to have been furnished by one of the sons after the father's death. It omits some of those that d. young.

Mrs. Lydia Sanford and her husband, were more than 50 years members of the (M) Church. He is said, on his tombstone, to have been the first local Deacon of that order in this country.

(277—V.)

Capt. Thomas Nash, III. son of Capt. Thomas Nash, II. of Fairfield, Ct. b. 21 May, 1743, lived and d. on or near his father's homestead. He m. (1) Mary Burr, dau. of William Burr, Esq. of Fairfield. She d. 20 May, 1784, in her 34th year. He m. (2) Mary Nicholas, who survived him, and d. in Philadelphia, Æ 60.

He appears to have been a man of influence, courage and energy; was chosen Deacon, June, 1768, in the same (C) Church in which his father and grandfather had served; and was Capt. probably of the same company. But his connection with the (C) Church must have been broken, as his name appears in the list of members of the (E) Society, at Southport, in the same town, in 1789, and he had children bap. there as late as 1808.

It is related, that when Fairfield was burned, in the time of the Revolution, Col. Whiting, the Commandant, having withdrawn the Americans to the Round Hill, north of the village, called for a Captain and 30 men to volunteer for the purpose of reconnoitering the enemy,—that Capt. Nash immediately stepped forth, followed by more than 100 men. The Colonel would allow only 30 to go. However, more fell in after they left the Hill. Capt. Nash advanced to the fence north of the street, near where the meeting-house now stands, and ordered his men to lie behind the fence in the tall vegetation, until the enemy were near the centre of the street, when, as he gave the word, they were to rise and fire, load and fire, and then run. This they did with such effect, and so unexpectedly, that none of his party were injured, until they began to ascend the rising ground towards the north, where one was killed. Afterwards, when a squad of the enemy approached to burn his house at Green's Farms, he alone, or with but little help, dragged the company field piece to a rising ground near the house, loaded it with grape, and fired upon them. They, suspecting he had a company to sustain him in so daring an act, retreated, and thus his house was saved. It is yet standing.

At another time, being on a scout in the night, with only three men, he discovered a whale boat secreted on the shore, which he thought indicated an enemy near. He therefore stove in the boat, and searched for the foe. Perceiving a faint light from the window of a cabin in a cornfield, he ordered his army of three to pass rapidly round the cabin, making all the noise they could with their muskets against the building, by which the inmates deemed themselves surrounded by a real force. Capt. Nash then approached the window and told them to hand out their arms, and he would spare their lives. They complied and handed out 16 muskets, which he secured and told them to lie down until morning, when it appeared that he and his three men had surrounded and taken 15 tories and one British soldier.

But in the changes and turmoils of those times, he did not succeed in preserving the fine estate he had inherited, but spent his later days in straitened pecuniary circumstances. His end was one of sadness, being afflicted with a malady which so affected his mind, that restraint became necessary, and he was confined to his room, where he was found dead under his bed on the morning of the 29 Jan. 1815.

Mr. Simon Couch d. 16 April, 1829.
Mrs. Eleanor Couch d.

Children.

851 I Elizabeth Nash, born 9 Oct. 1776, m. Ozias Burr, d. in Worthington, O. 21 Feb. 1834.
852 II Jessup, " 3 Aug. 1778, settled at Chilicothe, O.
853 III Seth, " 31 Aug. 1780, d. in Brooklyn, N. Y. 30 April, 1841.
854 IV Eleanor, " 26 Aug. 1782, lives in Ridgefield, Ct.
855 V Simon, " 1 Dec. 1784, d. 14 Feb. 1793.
856 VI Nash, " 23 April, 1787, lived in New York.
857 VII Priscilla, " 27 June, 1790, m. Edward Mallory, Worthington, O.
858 VIII Edward, " 14 July, 1792, settled in Ridgefield, Ct.
859 IX Simon Andrews, " 6 Dec. 1794, M. D. settled in Marion, O.
860 X Caroline, " 22 June, 1801, d. 8 March, 1802.

II. Jessup the eldest son, graduated at Yale College,—studied law,—emigrated to Chilicothe, O. in 1800,—commenced the practice of law—was subsequently Judge of the Supreme Court of O.—held a commission as Quartermaster General of the 2d Division of State Militia, dated 6 Jan. 1814,—was Aid to Gov. Meigs of that State,—sent on express with 17 men to Gen. Hull at Detroit, when within 16 miles of the Fort, heard of its surrender,—immediately returned, barely escaping capture by the British and Indians. He d. 30 June, 1821.

VI. Nash, was a merchant in New York City—held a Commission as Brigade Major and Inspector in the Militia; was posted on Staten Island in the war of 1812. He d. 22 March, 1835.

VIII. Edward has held a Captain's Commission since 1822.

IX. Simon Andrews was a Physician, attended lectures in New Haven, Ct. and d. at Marion, O. 10 April, 1822.

As Jonathan Nash had no son, and his dau. Elizabeth d. unm. Mrs. Sarah and Mrs. Eleanor Couch were his sole heirs, and his share of that fine estate passed out of the family name into that of Couch. Indeed a considerable portion of it lay originally in and about Redding, so that this change did not interfere essentially with the homestead. [See Appendix, I.]

According to our plan, the history of this portion of the Elder Branch will be pursued no further.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

SEVENTH GENERATION, YOUNGER BRANCHES.

IN THE LINE OF LIEUT. TIMOTHY NASH OF HADLEY, MASS.

HATFIELD BRANCH.

(299—II.)

Dea. Elijah Nash, son of Noah Nash, of Hatfield, Mass. (the only son that lived to adult age,) b. 26 Aug. 1756, was left, as we have seen, with a large estate. But he was not successful in pecuniary matters,—lost most of his property, and was left in his later days in depressed circumstances.

He m. Nov. 1788, Mercy (or Mary) Nims, b. in Deerfield, 25 Nov. 1766. He removed to Windsor, Mass. in 1812, and thence to Hinsdale, Mass. in May, 1818.

Dea. Elijah Nash d. in Hinsdale, 14 July, 1829.

Mrs. Mercy Nash d. " " 19 June, 1828.

John, the 2d of the above children, is the only descendant of the first John Nash, of Hatfield, bearing the name of Nash, and as he is likely to die childless, the name in this line will be extinct at his d.

(302—V.)

Abigail Nash, dau. of Noah Nash, of Hatfield, by his (2) wife, Abigail Belding, b. 15 Oct. 1764, was m. 3 May, 1785, to Capt. Israel

Chapin, son of Gen. Israel Chapin, b. 25 April, 1764. They removed to Canandaigua, N. Y. in June, 1791, where they spent the remainder of their days.

It is said that "about 1798 or 9, Capt. Chapin, with a few other gentlemen of the village, then a feeble band, organized a (C) Church and procured a clergyman,—that himself and wife both united with the church at the time,—that he was appointed a deacon at the organization, and continued so through life, and that they were both bright and beautiful examples of piety, and died in the full hope of a glorious resurrection at the last, in Christ their Lord."

At the death of his father, Gen. Chapin, in 1795, Dea. Chapin succeeded him in the office of Agent of Indian Affairs, and continued in the office through the administrations of Washington and Adams. After this, owning a large property at the outlet of Canandaigua lake, three miles from the village, valuable for its water-power, he built there the mills still called Chapin's Mills, and in 1815 sold out in the village, and removed his family there, where

The Rev. Ansel Nash, the eldest of the above children, graduated at Williams College, in 1809. It is said that "as a scholar he excelled,—particularly in the classics," and that "he received the second appointment in his class." "He pursued his theological studies at Andover, where he completed his course in 1812." He m. 24 May, 1813, Eunice Jennings, of Willimantic, Ct. They had no children. "He was first settled in Tolland, Ct. where he continued, as pastor, about 18 years. He was afterwards installed over the churches in Bloomfield and Rockville, Ct." successively, "and Colchester, Vt. At two or three different periods he was employed as agent of the American Education Society, in whose service he was quite successful. He was regarded as one of the best preachers in Tolland county. His style was chaste and elevated; his manner in the pulpit graceful and dignified, and his delivery easy, natural and impressive. In prayer he excelled in a remarkable degree. His ministry was very useful. Several revivals were enjoyed in Tolland, under his labours, and numerous additions were made to the church. He was useful as a teacher, having prepared several students for college, and many others for important stations in life. The only sermon he ever published was in the National Preacher, Feb. 1834, On Union among Christians." A year or two before his d. he was attacked with a species of paralysis, at Colchester, Vt. From thence he appears to have been removed, by his friends, to Brattleborough, Vt. where he expired 11 Aug. 1851.

[The foregoing remarks were extracted, chiefly, from an obituary notice in the New England Religious Herald, of 20 Sep. 1851. The Compiler, from a slight personal acquaintance with the Rev. Mr. Nash, deems the representation just. He was generally esteemed a learned and talented minister of the Gospel.]

(315—VI.)

The Rev. William Nash, son of John Nash, of Williamsburgh, Mass. b. 5 Aug. 1768, was of feeble constitution,—sick much of his time until he became 17 or 18 years of age, when, becoming more healthy, and having a predilection for study, it was deemed best to indulge his taste. He fitted for college under Dr. Strong, of Northampton, and entered Yale College. He was somewhat interrupted, it is said, in his college course, though a very apt scholar. But he finally graduated in 1791. He studied theology under Dr. Lathrop, of West Springfield, Mass. and preached in a number of towns, but finally settled in the new parish (C) in Boylston, (now West Boylston,) Mass. 11 Oct. 1797. He was at first moderately orthodox, but in the great excitement in Mass. he adopted what was termed "the liberal side," and maintained those views through life.

He is represented as having a "decidedly independent and enquiring mind, subject to the absolute dictation of no one,—speaking and preaching the conclusions drawn from his own researches and reflections,—fearless and ready in reprimanding profanity, in any and every one, high and low."

He m. 14 June, 1803, Elizabeth Doubleday, dau. of Capt. John Doubleday, who dropped dead in the street, in Boston, 30 Oct. 1785, as he was going to his vessel. Her maternal grandfather was the Rev. Mr. Gardner, (C) minister of Stowe, Mass.

In 1814, in consequence of broken health, Mr. Nash asked for a dismission, which was regularly granted on the 14 Nov. of that year.

From this time he carried on his farm, and only exercised the office of the ministry as an occasional supply.

Elijah Nash, son of John Nash, of Williamsburgh, Mass. b. 12 June, 1772, m. 14 Feb. 1796, Paulina Warner, dau. of Jonathan Warner, of Williamsburgh, b. 27 Oct. 1771. He resided on the Bodman place in Williamsburgh, until 1847, when he removed to Conway, Mass.

It is said of him by a relative, "that he is emphatically an honest man. An orphan from infancy, he began the world with nothing;—bought a wretchedly poor farm, (about the only misjudgment of his life,) worked hard,—paid for it,—bought land adjoining,—got money beforehand,—has done generously by all his children,—done for objects of benevolence and of public interest, double of the average of men in his standing,—and notwithstanding heavy losses by the failure of others, is now rich for a farmer of that region. He was sent to school but three months when a child. With the first money he earned, when 21 years of age, he went to school three months more, and has since passed as a man pretty well educated. In middle life he was a selectman or assessor, or both nearly 20 years. He has in fact always been regarded as a man of great common sense and excellent judgment."

(341—VI.)

The Rev. Jonathan Nash, son of Dea. David Nash of Amherst and South Hadley, Mass. b. 5 Nov. 1760, settled in Middlefield, Mass.

The following sketch was written by a personal acquaintance,—a minister of the same order.

"He received his classical education at Dartmouth College, N. H. He sought an education, not for the name, but to qualify himself for extensive usefulness in the world, and in the Church of Christ. Hence, he prosecuted his studies with ardour and perseverance, and at his graduation, August 26, 1789, he received the highest honors of his class. He studied Theology under instruction of the Rev. Joseph Blodget of Greenwich, Mass.—was licensed to preach the gospel and was ordained and installed, the first Pastor of the Congregational Church, in Middlefield, Mass. 31 Oct. 1792. As a settlement he received from the people 200£ ($666) and an annual salary of 250 dollars, while he remained their pastor. His first marriage was 30 Oct. 1793, to Eunice Taylor, a native of Westfield, Mass. and dau. of Major Edward Taylor of Montgomery, Mass. She d. 27 May, 1802. His second marriage was 22 June, 1803, to Mrs. Rebecca Russell, widow of Alpheus Russell and dau. of Capt. Isaac Clark.

The connexion with the Church and Society in Middlefield, proved a happy one, and, for a number of years, the people continued together under one Shepherd,—seeking the law at his mouth. And when in the course of events a portion of the people withdrew to the other denominations, and organized separate congregations, still he possessed his soul in patience, and steadily and faithfully pursued the work of his high and holy vocation. After a ministry of nearly forty years, he was dismissed by a mutual Council, 11 July, 1832, and recommended to the churches as a faithful, successful and acceptable minister of the Lord Jesus.

Although now no longer the Pastor of a Church, he did not abandon the work of the ministry, but supplied the vacant parishes from time to time, as he had opportunity, until his sudden death, forty-one years and nine months from the time of his ordination.

The following are considered as prominent traits in the character of Mr. Nash.

Affability. There was no constraint,—no hypocrisy in his manners. He was in truth just what he appeared to be, the courteous, condescending, pleasant companion, friend and neighbour. His acquaintance was easily formed, and was a valuable acquisition to any man.

Kindness. The Apostle's direction was law with him. "Use hospitality without grudging." The afflicted were sure of his sympathy,—the poor—of his aid. The fountain of his benevolent affection was full,—its streams overflowing,—he lived to do good.

Frugality and Economy. With a small income he supported and educated, for usefulness and respectability, a somewhat numerous family, and was an example of the believers in charity.

Christian Firmness. His first enquiry and his first prayer were, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" Duty ascertained, his purpose was fixed, and nothing could turn him from it but convincing evidence that he had taken a wrong position. At the same time, obstinacy,—self-will, found no place in his creed or his conduct. Truth was his object. To please his neighbour for his good to edification; and to please God and be accepted of him, as a good and faithful servant, constituted the chief purpose of his labour and his love.

As a Preacher, he was plain, direct, and practical. His object was to win souls to Christ. Hence, with the Apostle, he ceased not to declare all the counsel of God. In his manner he was affectionate yet solemn. He preached the doctrines of grace, not as speculation but as facts;—as facts to be cordially believed;—as facts which took hold of the immortal destiny of men. He was a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished up in the words of faith and good doctrine.

As the sum of his whole character, he was a Christian husband, a Christian father, a Christian man, and a Christian minister. And having been found faithful unto death, he received a crown of life."

We append a fac-simile of his autograph.

(398—I.)

Ebenezer Nash, jr. Esq. eldest son of Ebenezer and Susannah Nash of Ellington, Ct. b. 4 June, 1770, at an early period of life, commenced studying under the supervision of his uncle, the Rev. Judah Nash of Montague, Mass. with a view to the ministry. But as his parents did not feel able to give an education suitable for a professional life to more than one, and their second son proving of too delicate a constitution to endure the toils of a farmer's life, the eldest son was recalled and the second educated for the profession of Surgery and Medicine.

The elder son, however, had made such proficiency, that when he arrived at adult age, he adopted, and for many years pursued, the business of teaching, in various places. He taught several seasons in what was then the west, i. e. in the neighbourhood of Scoharie and Cherry Valley, N. Y. About that time the State of N. Y. was surveying its western territory, and a very advantageous proposition was made him to undertake the business, viz. his choice of lands he might survey, at the rate of one acre per day. He has often been heard to say that the city of Utica now stands on what he might have chosen. But feeling that his constitution would not endure the exposure of that businesss in that day, he declined the offer.

He m. 19 Sep. 1790, Persis Bingham, dau. of Dea. Ithamar Bingham of Ellington, b. 22 May, 1772. She was descended from Thomas Bingham who was one of the proprietors of Norwich, Ct. in 1660, at only 18 years of age, and afterward settled in Windham, Ct.

Mr. Nash finally purchased a small farm in Ellington, on the west street, about one and a half miles south of the meeting-house, and less than a half mile north of his father's residence, which he held many years. But finding it more profitable, he let his place and entered the U. S. service at Springfield, Mass. in the manufacture of arms.

On the breaking out of the war of 1812, between England and the U. S. he left Springfield, and formed a company in his native town, for manufacturing screws, which he continued until peace was made, when the English threw immense quantities of screws into our market at a price less than the cost of the materials. This was a kind of competition he was not able to withstand. He had, in the mean time, sold out in Ellington, and purchased a water privilege in the north part of Vernon, about half a mile below what is now Rockville, Ct. but which was then a wild glen of rocks and decayed hemlocks and underbrush. Here he commenced, in a small way, the manufacture of satinets, in which he continued until his death. The privilege now bears the name of the Hockanum Mills.

He was an acting magistrate of the county during his latter years, and a man generally respected and beloved. The winter previous to his death, he was riding in a sleigh with a friend, when by some accident the sleigh upset and he fell with his side upon a small stick of wood, which brought on an ulceration of the lungs and diaphragm, that, after much suffering, caused his death.

It may not be improper to mention, as an evidence of the esteem in which he was held, that, although his residence was nearly four miles from the burying place at Ellington, when the corpse arrived at the meeting-house, the compact procession of carriages was judged to extend a mile back.

The following notice appeared in a weekly paper printed at Springfield, Mass. where he had formerly resided. "Died, in Vernon, Ct. on the 28 ult. Ebenezer Nash, jr. Esq. aged 52. He was an affectionate husband, a tender parent, a professor of the religion of Jesus Christ, and an honest man, and has left a numerous family to deplore their irreparable loss."

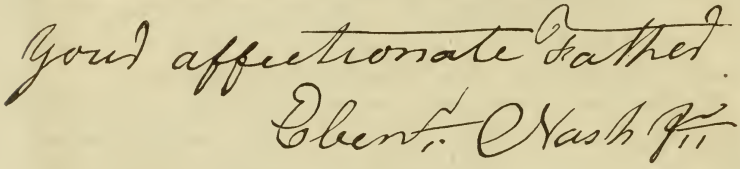
Mr. Nash was a member of the Episcopal Church, having preceded his father in joining that communion, and being the first of the name in his own direct line who did so. The following is a fac-simile of his autograph taken from one of his last letters to the compiler.



Mr. Nash d. in Vernon, Ct. 28 June, 1822.

Mrs. Nash is still (Feb. 1853) living at an advanced age and in good health.

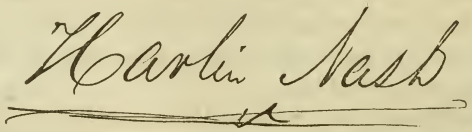
Harlin became a Machinist,—was a young man of fine genius and good general information, highly respected and much beloved. But his constitution was so undermined by repeated attacks of ague and fever, while residing at Harper's Ferry, Va. that he resolved to try a different climate. He accordingly went to Mexico, and engaged with a mining company at Real del Monte, where his health appeared to be completely restored. From that place he was induced by a liberal offer, from the American Consul, to go down to the Mexican plain and erect a steam-engine to drain the Consul's Hacienda at Chalco. There, being attacked by bilious fever, which assumed a malignant type, the Consul had him removed, in a boat, to the city of Mexico, for better medical attendance. But his case terminated fatally on the 25 Oct. 1827. We give a fac-simile of his autograph.



James Clark, the youngest, commenced learning the joiner's trade, but feeling some weakness in the spine, he relinquished it and studied Medicine. The following inscription on his tombstone at St. Albans, Vt. sums up the remainder of his history.

"In memory of JAMES C. NASH, M. D. Graduated at the Medical Institute, Woodstock, Vt. May, 1843, and died on the 18th of June following, aged 25 years. Hopeful anticipations soon blasted."

His complaint was the old spinal disease, extended to the region of the heart.

1215 VII Rachel Mahala, " 7 Sep. 1821, m. Rev. Francis Williams, (C.)

Norman, the third son, b. in Springfield, Mass. like most New England boys, from the time he was old enough to labour, attended common school in winter and worked in summer, until he was 14 years old, without any expectancy of a classical education. About that time he attended a select-school one summer in Long Meadow, Mass. where his parents then resided, and, in the winter following, attended another select school, kept by a student from Amherst College, who encouraged him to make an effort for a Collegiate course.

Accordingly, after working one more summer upon the farm, he went to Gambier, O. and entered the preparatory school of Kenyon College, being sustained by his uncle, the Rev. Norman Nash, then of Sweedsborough, N. J.

He entered the College in 1830, and although somewhat interrupted in his course, graduated in 1834. Having become a member of the Episcopal Church, he had resolved in the fall of 1833, to devote himself to the gospel ministry. In pursuance of this design he entered the Theological Seminary at Gambier, where he remained two years, and after teaching nearly a year in Circleville, O. was ordained in 1837, by the Rt. Rev. C. P. McIlvaine, D. D. He m. 7 June, 1838, Mary E. Leonard, b. of English parentage, at Amsterdam in Holland, 3 May, 1815.

In the fall of 1838, he accepted a call to Trinity Church, Greenville, Dark Co. O. where he continued until the spring of 1840, when, with the Rev. A. Blake, he took charge of Milner Hall at Gambier, the preparatory school of Kenyon College. In 1846, he leased the Hall and managed the school on his own account until 1851, when he gave up the primary department, retaining only the principalship of the Senior Grammar School.

Having in 1848, become associated with others in editing and publishing "The Western Episcopalian," he became sole Proprietor and Publisher, the next year, and still continues so, as it is believed, to the satisfaction of the Diocese and the credit of the Church.

Moses Nash, jr. son of Lieut. Moses Nash, of Stockbridge, Mass. b. 24 June, 1778, was apprenticed, at the age of fourteen, (1792,) to Dea. Daniel Nash, of Great Barrington, Mass. to learn the tanner's and shoemaker's trade. He continued there until Feb. 1794, at which time Dea. Nash was on his death bed, and seeing no prospect of learning his trade, he left and went to Windham, Ct. After learning his trade he returned to Stockbridge,—spent a year or more in Albany and Troy, then went to Western N. Y. and settled in Tully, Onondaga Co. He m. (1) 28 Dec. 1804, Nabby Moore, of Blanford, Mass. b. 12 April, 1785. In Tully, he continued above 12 years, during which time he served the town in all the various town offices, was four times, (a period of 12 years,) appointed, by the council of appointment, justice of the peace and assistant judge of the county court,—was twice elected member of the legislature, and received a vote of thanks and approval of his conduct and services, in town meeting, of which the following is a copy:

" We the inhabitants of the town of Tully, in consideration of the meritorious services of Moses Nash, Esq. in his capacities of town clerk, supervisor, and various other town offices, do vote him our thanks ;—likewise for the honourable and energetic manner in which he represented this county in the legislature of this state; and we do further resolve that we appoint a committee of two to present Esq. Nash with a copy of this resolution; together with an appropriate address, which, together with his answer thereunto, shall be recorded by the town clerk in the body of the proceedings of this meeting.

Chace Floyd Howell and } Committee
William Trowbridge, jr. } aforesaid."

His first five children were b. in Tully. In 1816 he removed to Lima, (then) Ontario, (now) Livingston Co. and went into mercantile business with his brother Martin, but this not proving very profitable, they closed it up, and in 1817 he went to Upper Sandusky,—built a log cabin fifteen miles from any white inhabitants,—the second of the kind there,—Gen. Harrison having built the first for military purposes. But Congress not ratifying the treaty with the Indians, he gave up his house and provisions, to be plundered by the savages. In the fall of 1818, he left, with his family, for Illinois, which proved a very perilous undertaking,—barely escaping with their lives, as they descended the Alleghany and Ohio rivers,—and ascended the Wabash as far up as Grand Rapids, where he arrived in April, 1819—farmed there one year—buried his two oldest children, both in one grave,—attended the Kickapoo and Potawatamie treaty at Edwardsville, in April, and left for the Sangamon river, but missing the trail, landed at what is now called Jacksonville,—built the first cabin in Morgan county, within less than a mile of where the college now stands,—ultimately purchased 840 acres of land,—put about 70 acres under improvement, and after suffering much by sickness, returned to N. Y. in the fall of 1826. During his journey, three of his sons were taken with typhus fever, about 8 miles north of Wooster, in Ohio, where the youngest died. On his return, he settled at Brockport. There he served the (C) church as deacon, and afterwards as elder. His (1) wife, Mrs. Nabby Nash, d. 29 Jan. 1829, and he m. MARTIN NASH, son of Lieut. Moses Nash, of Stockbridge, Mass. b. 30 Jan. 1780, after the d. of his father, was placed with Dea. Josiah Jones, until he was 14 years of age. He then went to live with his uncle, Dea. Stephen Nash, of whom he learned the blacksmith's trade. After this he went to Vergennes, Vt. where he m. 8 April, 1804, Sarah Cameron, b. 29 Dec. 1783. From thence he removed to Madrid, St. Lawrence Co. N. Y. There he resided until after the commencement of the war of 1812. He then, viz. in June, 1813, removed to Lima, Livingston Co. N. Y. where he continued through life. It is understood that he commanded a company of militia, as major, in the war,—that he was in an engagement, and was marked by a musket ball on his head. In Lima he left his trade,—was first dep. sheriff, and then high sheriff of the county.

His death was caused by the apparently trifling accident of sticking a sliver in the ball of his thumb, about the size of a knitting needle, and ¼ of an inch long. It resulted in his death eight days afterwards.

There is quite a discrepancy in the sources of the above record. One record gives Mr. Nash's d. on the 4 Nov. and the difference in the births of Abel Wells, Patty Gaylord and Enos B. and the birth of a son in Oct. 1811, which is probably a mistake.

The record has been arranged as best might be, from these conflicting accounts.

He was the son of Luke Noble of Westfield, Mass. the brother of Rhoda, the wife of Josiah Nash, and mother of Joanna. Consequently they were cousins. Their children were all b. in Pittsfield.

Mr. Luke Noble d. in Pittsfield, Mass. 11 Nov. 1852.

Mrs. Joanna Noble d. in G. Barrington, Mass. 25 Sep. 1852, at the house of Charles Hopkins, Esq.

Children.

1618 I	Herman S.	born 9 Jan.	1804.
1619 II	William Henry,	" 15 Nov.	1805, m. Ann Mc Connell, settled at Woodville, Miss.
1620 III	Sophia R.	" 31 Aug.	1809, d. 26 June, 1816.

There was a singular coincidence connected with the decease of the mother, Mrs. Joanna Noble. Her father, Mr. Josiah Nash, previous to his marriage with her mother, Rhoda Noble, was engaged to a Miss Whiting of Great Barrington, and the bans were published. But she sickened, and died on the day appointed for the marriage.

Mrs. Joanna Noble had been a resident of Watertown, N. Y. about 30 years; but having a strong desire to revisit the place of her nativity, she left Watertown on the 12 Aug. 1852, and, after visiting friends in various other places, she arrived in Great Barrington, on the 6 Sep. following. The next day, 7 Sep. she was taken sick from over exertion, and the excitement of visiting the "old homestead" of the "Great Barrington Branch," and the scenes of her youthful days.

Notice was immediately given to her friends in Watertown, and her sister, Anna Maria, was soon at her side, ministering unto and consoling her. But she rapidly declined, and died on the 25th, as it proved, in the same house, and in the same room in which Miss Whiting, her father's intended bride, had died some 80 years before.

The eldest son, Herman S. is the person alluded to in the introduction, as having afforded essential aid in the prosecution of this work. Being early thrown chiefly upon his own resources, he left his native place at the age of 15, and went, with an uncle, to North Carolina. There he learned the printer's trade, which he followed in various places. In 1833, he established a Newspaper in Manchester, Miss. (now Yazoo City,) but finding the location unhealthy he sold out, and after a variety of changes, returned to his friends, then living in Watertown, N. Y. in 1839,—bought a press and established a Newspaper which he published until June, 1843. He then sold out, and again went to Miss. but returned to Watertown, in the spring of 1847, and established another paper, which he published until the spring of 1850, when he again sold out, and went with the world to California. He returned in ill health, in the spring of 1851, but went again in Dec. of the same year, as one of the Agents of a Mining Company, and returned in the fall of 1852. He is a highly intelligent and worthy man, but alas! a bachelor. We append a fac-simile of his autograph.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

EIGHTH GENERATION.

ELDER OR FAIRFIELD BRANCH.

IN THE LINE OF SERGEANT JOSEPH NASH, OF HARTFORD, CT.

(831—I.)

THOMAS NASH, IV. eldest son of Capt. Thomas Nash, III. of Green's Farms, Fairfield, Ct. b. 1 Nov. 1767, m. 16 Nov. 1788, Grace Cable. Very little is now known of his history. Having been accustomed in early life to wealth and plenty, he appears to have felt more keenly the privations of later years, when that fine estate was dissipated, and to have yielded to the influence of despondency.

Mr. Thomas Nash d. 20 Jan. 1814, Æ 47.

Children.

2034 I	THOMAS,	born	d. young.
2035 II	BURR,	" 16 Jan. 1791,	settled in N. Haven, Ct.
2036 III	GEORGE,	"	d. young.
2037 IV	MARY,	"	d. "
2038 V	MARY BURR,	"	d. "
2039 VI	ESTHER,	"	1797, m. Peter D. Braisted. [Dea. Noah Kelsey, no issue.
2040 VII	CHARITY,	"	1799, m. (1) Geo. K. Headley, (2) Lewis Wygant, (3)
2041 VIII	ELIZABETH,	"	1802, m. Jacob Braisted.
2042 IX	TEMPERANCE,	"	1805, m. (1) Elizur Foster, (2) Horace Kelsey.
2043 X	MARY BURR,	bap. 15 June,	1808, d.
2044 XI	WILLIAM B.	"	d.

The order of the above births may not be correct, as it is in part conjectural, from the following inscription on a single stone in the old burying ground at Green's Farms.

" In memory of Thomas, George, Mary, Mary Burr, Mary B. and William, children of Thomas and Grace Nash, erected in 1819." In the old (C) church record, there is a bap. of Mary Burr, dau. of Thomas and Grace Nash, 15 June, 1808. Hence her name is put after that of Temperance.

(832—II.)

CHARITY NASH, dau. of Capt. Thomas Nash, III. of Green's Farms, Fairfield, Ct. bap. 23 April, 1769, was m. (1) 13 July, 1788, to Samuel Cable, who d. (or was lost) at sea, 13 Aug. 1794. She was m. (2) 4 Aug. 1805, to Thomas Saunders.

Children by (1) Husband, S. Cable.

2045 I Charles,
2046 II George, d. in Westport, suddenly, 5 July, 1851.

By (2) Husband, T. Saunders.

2047 III Harriet, m. Peet.
2048 IV Abby, m. ——— Jennings, of Fairfield.
2049 V William.
2050 VI Aaron.

(833—III.)

Rebecca Nash, dau. of Capt. Thomas Nash, III. of Green's Farms, Fairfield, Ct. b. 5 May, 1771, was m. 16 Jan. 1791, to Burr Thorp, of Fairfield.

Capt. Burr Thorp d. 31 Jan. 1831, Æ 61.

Mrs. Rebecca Thorp d. 11 July, 1827, Æ 56.

2057 VII Sarah, " 19 Dec. 1806, m. Charles Allen, Westport.
2058 VIII Amanda, " 6 July, 1809, m. E. A. Williams, Westport, Ct.

(835—V.)

Joseph Nash, son of Capt. Thomas Nash, III. of Green's Farms, Fairfield, Ct. b. 10 Nov. 1777, m. July, 1804, Mary Squire. He, like his brother, appears to have been deeply affected by the change from affluence to penury. He d. in the city of New York, in 1841.

Children.

2059 I Munson, born 12 Aug. 1805, m. Katherine McKay.
2060 II Joseph, " 22 Oct. 1806, settled in Westport, Ct.
2061 III Mary Burr, " 7 Nov. 1808, m. Henry Allen, Westport, Ct.
2062 IV Burr S. " d. young.
2063 V Burr Sturgis, " 23 April, 1811, settled in Westport.
2064 VI Sarah, " 20 May, 1814, m. Francis Godfrey.
2065 VII Thomas, " 1 April, d. in 10 days.
2066 VIII Thomas, 2d, " settled at Greenpoint, L. I.
2067 IX Anna Burr, " d. young.
2068 X Anna Burr, 2d, " 5 Dec. 1822, m. Gershom H. Allen, Westport, Ct.
2069 XI Daniel, " 10 July, 1824.
2070 XII Elizabeth, " 11 March, 1828, m. Alexander Fink.
2071 XIII William Burr, " 1831, d. 1832.

The above record has been made up as best might be, from the recollection of two or three of the children, but as their statements differed some, it is quite possible there may be errors in dates and order of births.

Munson had one child that d. in infancy, and he himself d. since somewhere on the Hudson.

(836—VI.)

Dr. William B. Nash, son of Capt. Thomas Nash, III. of Green's Farms, Fairfield, Ct. b. 25 May, 1786, m. 20 Aug. 1807, Ruth M. Eliot, dau. of the Rev. Andrew Eliot, of Fairfield, Ct. originally from Boston, Mass. Mrs. Nash was b. 31 July, 1785.

Dr. Nash pursued the study of medicine under the instruction of Dr. David Hull, of Fairfield, and early established himself in the practice at Greenfield, the north parish of Fairfield, where he resided ten years. He then entered into partnership with his old instructor, Dr. Hull, and removed to Fairfield village, where he remained nine years. He then settled in Bridgeport, Ct. where he has ever since remained.

He is a physician of high reputation and very extensive practice.

Mrs. Ruth M. Nash d. in Bridgeport, 12 April, 1852.

Jonathan Nash, of Middlefield, Mass. b. 6 Feb. 1799, graduated at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. 7 Sep. 1825—studied theology at Andover, Mass.—m. 28 Oct. 1828, Abia Sheldon, of Westfield, Mass.—was ordained pastor of the Presbyterian church in Ravenna, Ohio, 30 Sep. 1829. "Having received an invitation to become pastor of the church in Sandusky City, he removed there, and was installed July 14th, 1836. On account of the sickness of his family at that place, he was dismissed and returned, and was re-installed at Ravenna, April, 1839, where, on account of ill health, he remained but two years. He afterwards ministered to the church at Chester, Ohio, for five years, and to the church at Chagrin Falls, Ohio, for two years, as missionary. In Oct. 1847, he removed to Willoughby, Lake Co. O. to minister to a feeble church, and to superintend a female seminary. In May, 1852, he resigned his ministerial charge to devote his whole time to the seminary, an institution of a high order for a thorough Christian education." The writer of the above adds, that "he was nursed in a Puritan lap—educated in Puritan schools, and early established in Puritan principles, and has never been troubled with any ismatic tendencies. Those who have known him once, know where to find him again. He is a true Nash."

(1163—X.)

The Rev. Francis Burdett Nash, son of Ebenezer Nash, jr. Esq. of Ellington, Ct. b. in Springfield, Mass. 16 Nov. 1812, was named after Sir Francis Burdett, of England, of whose conduct, his father, at the time of his birth, was a warm admirer. Being but a mere lad when his father d. and compelled to sustain himself in a great measure by his own exertion from that early period, his education was protracted and irregular. A few of his earlier years, after the death of his father, were spent in the family of his elder brother, the Rev. Sylvester Nash, then living at St. Albans, Vt. Most of the time while there, he attended the Franklin County Grammar School. In the fall of 1829, he returned to Ct. and for a short time pursued the study of medicine in Willington, in that state.

From 1830 to 1834, he lived with his uncle, the Rev. Norman Nash, at Swedesboro, N. Jersey, sustaining himself by teaching school a part of the time. While at Swedesboro he became a communicant in the Episcopal church, and concluded to prepare for the ministry.

In the spring of 1835, he removed to Kentucky, and entered the Theological Seminary of that Diocese, at that time located at Lexington. He graduated at that Seminary, in Nov. 1837, and was ordained Deacon a few days afterwards by the Rt. Rev. B. B. Smith, D. D. Bishop of Kentucky. He was ordained Presbyter, by the same Bishop, in Jan. 1839.

For some years after his ordination he laboured as a missionary in different parts of the Diocese, first at Paducah, then for nearly three years at Paris,—afterwards at Hopkinsville, and neighbouring places. In the spring of 1845, he removed to Coalsmouth, Kanawha Co. Va. taking charge of several small churches in that section of Va. but now (Feb. 1853) resides in Newark, O.

He m. 20 Aug. 1840, Elizabeth A. Maury, dau. of Col. M. Maury, of Bath Co. Ky.—one of the 2,000 descendants of the Huguenot clergyman of whom so interesting an account is given in the work entitled "Tales of the Huguenots," edited by Dr. Hawks.

DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS NASH.

NINTH GENERATION.

ELDER OR FAIRFIELD BRANCH.

IN THE LINE OF SERJEANT JOSEPH NASH, OF HARTFORD, CT.

(2035—II.)

Capt. Burr Nash, son of Thomas Nash, IV. of Fairfield, Ct. b. 16 Jan. 1791, m. 9 March, 1811, Mary Oatman, dau. of Elisha Oatman, Esq. of Oxford, Ct. They lived at first a few months at Greenfield Hill, then about a year in a part of Fairfield, called Mill-plain,—from thence he removed to Bridgeport, where he remained about the same length of time, when he removed to the city of New York. He was by occupation a blacksmith, and possessed a genius rarely equalled in his profession. Some time during his residence in New York, he went to Charleston, S. C. and in company with others built the steamboat Marion, which he commanded, and run nearly two years between Savannah and Puresburgh. A part of this time his family was with him at the south. He afterwards returned to New York, and remained there until 1832, about twenty years in all. He then removed to New Haven, Ct. and carried on, until his death, the same business that his ancestors wrought at in the same place 200 years before.

The Rev. Charles Nash, son of Stephen Nash, of Copenhagen, Jef. Co. N. Y. b. in Granby, Mass. 28 Oct. 1802, now resides in Wellesborough, Pa. The following extract from a letter to the Compiler, dated 27 Sep. 1850, will probably give a better idea of his life than can be given in any other shape.

"I have suffered much infirmity of body for 18 years past, and have had superadded, trials of a severe kind. I am poor. I have been abjectly so. But with health much improved, and circumstances otherwise favouring me, I have now nothing to complain of. I do not, indeed, consider the ills of life as proper subjects of complaint, since, to the eye of faith, they are but disguised blessings. I came to this place (Wellesborough, Pa.) 25 years ago last spring, and taught an academy here three years, with success. I then joined the Oneida Conference (M.) of which I was a member, seven years as an effective minister,—two years at Wyalusing, below Owego, N. Y.—two at Wilkesbarre, Pa.—one at Kingston, a mile from Wilkesbarre, and two at Honesdale and Bethany, Pa. I then taught several years in Cayuga and Seneca counties, N. Y. with feeble health and ruined voice, that allowed but little public speaking. I went to Towanda, Pa. in 1841, and taught their academy four years. My voice recovered, and confirmed dyspepsia disqualifying me for the employment of teaching,—for four years following I preached some, and occasionally taught a few pupils, as I could endure it, till a year since, I ventured to take pastoral charge of our (M) Church in this place. I am now commencing on my second year, and, by the divine blessing, can with ease speak three times a day, Methodist fashion."

It is obvious from the above that the writer could say with the Apostle, "I know how to suffer," but it may be doubted whether any people can be justified in thus allowing their worn-out servants to want.

The last will and Testament of Thomas Nash late of Newhaven deceased.—made the i of August 1657.

I Thomas Nash of Newhaven being weake in body, but of sound memory, doe make & ordaine this my last will & Testament. first I committ my soule into the hands of my Lord Jesus Christ by whose merrits I hope to be saved, and my body to be buryed at the discretion of my sonnes, in hope of a ioyfull resurection. And for my worldly goodes w^ch God hath given mee my will is to dispose of it as followeth, first I give to my Eldest sonne John Nash of Newhaven fourty pounds to be paid to him by my executo^r within two yeares after my desease by 10£ at the end of every half yeare wh^ch forty pounds w^th that w^ch I have already given him, wil make up to him, a full double portion. Item I give to my son Joseph Nash twenty shillings, to be paid to him w^thin two yeares after my desease. Item. I give to my daughter Mary wife to Roger Allen, forty shillings, to be paid her within two yeares after my desease. Item. I give to my daughter Sarah, wife to Rob^t Talmadg forty shillings, to be paid to her within two yeares after my desease. Item. I give to my sonne Timothy my house, with all my lands with all other my goods & estate, that is un-disposed off by this my will. And I doe make, ordaine, and appoint him my sole Executor. The reason of my so disposing of my house & land is, because he hath been very helpfull to mee in my old age, & hath done much more & yet w^ch^ no other of my children, would, or could doe. And my Eldest son John hath a house and lott already. farther my will is that all these legasies to my children be paid in such pay & at such prises as usually passeth in this place betwixt man and man, and my desire and will is that my beloved ffriends, and Brethren, M^r^ Mathew Gilbert and John Wakeman be overseers of this my last will whereunto I have set my hand this first day of August 1657.

Copy of the will of Sergeant Joseph Nash of Hartford, Ct.

I Joseph Nash Inhabitant in Hartford in the Colony of Connecticut in New England, not knowing how soon my great change may be, and being at the present in good understanding and memory, doe desire to leave my house in order, and doe therefore in this writing declare my last will and Testament as Followeth. First for my immortalle soul, I commit it into the hands of my Mercifull Saviour Jesus Christ relying on his merits & free grace for my Eternal Salvation. And for my body when it shall have pleased God (who doth to his creatures as pleaseth him) to separate my soul from it, I commit it to the dust, desiring it may be buried in the useall burying place at the discretion of my wife & advice of friends in hope of a blessed resurection. And for that worldly estate which God hath made me a possessor of, my will is that my just debts be payd, & that being done with my funerall charges & necessary expenses defrayd, the remaynder of my estate I give to my deare and loving wife Margaret, & Sarah my only child in such proportions & manner as is hereafter & herein expressed. I give to Margaret my wife one third part of all my moveable estate both goods & cattell, and I give to Sarah my daughter two third parts of all my moveable estate both goods and cattell, & forasmuch as our daughters that have been disposed of already have had the best of the moveables, my will is that my said daughter Sarah shall have in her part of sayd moveables the best feather bed & bolster and Two pillowes the best coverlet & curtaines & furniture of sayd bed & allso one great copper kettle also one great pewter dish or platter which is Bigest; These perticulars first excepted my wife to choose in the rest of the moveables halfe her Third part, & then the residue to be divided according to proportion both in quantity and quality by the advice of my overseers hereafter named. Item I do give unto my sayd daughter Sarah my house houses & all my lands with all my rights and privileges belonging unto them to her & her heires & to be held by her and her heirs in full right and title onely the following caution to be observed viz: that for the support & relief of my deare wife, my will is that there shall be yearly payd unto my wife or to her order in Hartford, the sume of fower pownds during the time of her naturall life. As allso if my sayd wife for her better support in her widdow condition shall make choyse to keep the sayd houses & lands in her hands and take alltogether then my will is that while she remaynes my widdow she shall enjoy the sayd houses & lands and that my wife pay or cause to be payd unto my said daughter Sarah or to her order yearly in Hartford the full sume of seven pownds, as allso that my wife dureing the time she possesseth or improveth the sayd houses and lands, which upon her choyse as aforesayd is dureing the time of her being my widdow, shall keep & mayntaine from time to time & at all times the houses and fences in good repayre and preserve things from strip or wast & allso discharge all dues both civill and ecclesiasticall, & further it is my will that my lands should pay to the ministry att the new Meetinghouse. Item, my will is that if my daughter Sarah shall dye without issue that my houses and lands shall pass to my eldest Brother Capt John Nash and his heirs forever. Item I doe appoynt and by this my will constitute my deare brother Capt. John Nash of Newhaven my Execut^{r} of this my last will and Testament, as allso I doe desire and appoynt my good friends Robert Webster & Andrew Benton to be the overseers of this my will, desiring them to be helpfull to my wife and daughter with their counsell as they may have need as allso in deviding the estate & otherwise as their is occasion. Thus revoking any former will or wills whatsoever, I doe declare and appoynt this to be my last will and testament, in Testimonie whereof I set to my hand & seal this Nineteenth day of January one Thousand six hundred seventy five. My will is that that fower pownds I give to my wife during her Natural life shall not be payd while she holds the houses & lands.

NOTE D. Page 26.

To the reader of early New England history, the reference to the Rev. Samuel Stone will scarcely need explanation. Born in Hartford (or Heortford) England, he came to Boston in 1633 in company with Mr. Hooker and Mr. Cotton. He had been a Lecturer among the Dissenters in England, and was shortly after ordained with Mr. Hooker at Newtown.

Mr. Hooker took the title of Pastor and Mr. Stone that of Teacher. In June, 1636, a company of about one hundred under the pastoral charge of Mr. Hooker, with all preparations for a permanent residence, travelled directly across the country to the Connecticut River, to commence a new settlement. Of that Company, the Rev. Samuel Stone and Ruling Elder William Goodwin, were deputed a committee to purchase of the Indians the tract Suckiage, now called Hartford, which they accomplished, to the satisfaction of all parties.

A late writer of some very interesting articles on the early history of Hartford, in speaking of the principal characters forming that company says:

"And immediately of Hooker's party, and his associate as Teacher in the church, Samuel Stone,—a theological Socrates—a subtle reasoner and great disputant—ingenious, witty, didactic—remarkable for his frequent fastings and exact Sabbaths—'a man of principles,' (says Mather,) 'both a Load-stone and a Flint-stone.'"

The same writer says, that on the breaking out of the Pequot war, "Mr. Stone it was who, attending the soldiers as Chaplain, kept their courage ever high and holy through pious mindfulness,—who went to pray with them as they sailed, as they marched, in fatigue, in pain, and during the perils of a mortal struggle." Mr. Stone survived Mr. Hooker (who died in 1648) and continued as the teacher of that primitive flock until his death, 20 July, 1663.

He was twice married. The first wife came with him to Hartford and died there in 1640. All that is known respecting her is gathered from a letter written by Mr. Hooker in Nov. 1640, announcing her death to his son-in-law, Rev. Thomas Shepherd, in which he says: "Brother Stone's Wife smoaked out her days in the darknesse of melancholie." She was probably of a melancholy temperament and did not long survive the hardships of her journey through the wilderness.

The last Will and testament of Lt. Timothy Nash of Hadley.

"December the 5th one thousand six hundred and ninety eight, in the tenth year of the reigne of William y^e^ III of England, Scotland, France & Ireland King, defender of the Faith &c I Timothy Nash of Hadley in the County of Hampshire, in New England, being weak of body but of a sound mynde and memory, praised be God for it: Knowing the uncertaintie of my present life, being desirous to settle that outward estate y^e^ Lord of his goodness hath lent me, not knowing how it may please the Lord to deale with me, Doe therefore make and ordaine this to be my last will and testament, in manner and form as followeth, that is to say:—

First, I commend my soul into the hands of Almighty God, my Creator, hoping to receive full pardon of all my sins, and Salvation through the alone merits of Jesus Christ my Redeemer, and my body I committ to the earth to be buried in a decent manner: and touching such earthly estate the Lord hath lent me, my will & meaneing is the same shall be imployed and bestowed as is hereafter in my Will expressed, hereby revokeing and reverssing & makeing voyde all former Wills and testaments by me made, and appointe this to be my last Will & Testiment. I will and hereby ordaine that all debts and dues that are justly due & of right to any person or persons whatsoever, be truly payd or ordered to be payd in some convenient tyme after my decease by my executors hereafter named, and after my due debts and funerall [charges?] are discharged, or ordered to be discharged as aforesaid:——

Imp'rs I give & bequeath to my beloved wife Rebecca one third part of all my moveable estate of household stuff, stock or other goods belonging to my estate, that properly goe under the name of moveable estate, to be at her free and absolute dispose for ever. Alsoe one half of the use of my dwelling house & selleridge for the term of her widowhood. Alsoe one third part of the produce or incomes of all my lands (except what I have and doe by these give unto my son Thomas Nash,) & one third part of the ortchard and gardens. Alsoe I give unto her one cow to be keept and maintained with summer & winter meate. My meaneing is she shall have one cow made good to her so that she may have one made good to her all the term of her widdowhood, provided she doth not make sale of any till said term be out. Alsoe I give her one full years provisions after my decease out of my estate, alsoe I give her the freedom of all rates and taxes, & repairs of houseing or fences belonging to that part of houseing or lands she hath the use of as abovesaid, which is for the term of Widdowhood only. I also bequeath unto my loving wife Rebecca the full & just sum of ten pounds one half in or as current pay: this I give her as a speciall gift to be at her own absolute dispose: Alsoe the other half to be payd to her in money current of New England.

It. I give and bequeath to my son Thomas Nash of Hatfield all my lands lying and being on the west side of the great River, of which three acres lyes in the meadow commonly called Great Ponset, bounded by land of Philip Smith's northeast, and land of Nathaniel Dickinson's southwest, be it more or less. Alsoe three acres in Little Ponsett meadow, bounded by land of Samuel Churche's east, and land of William Pixley's west, be it more or less: As alsoe all other rights of land or that may grow to be of right to me on the west side of the Great River. Alsoe I give him all that I did lay out in labour or otherwise in Hatfield, with several other things that my said son had of me at the tyme of his marriage; all which I value at one hundred & twenty two pounds. Alsoe I give him five pounds in and as current pay out of my estate, to be payd him by executors hereafter named, all which shall be his portion and no more.

It. I give and bequeath to my son Joseph Nash, the houseing, barns & other edifices I now live in, with four acres of the homelot on the north side of it, running from the front to the reare of it; alsoe I give him half of my mowing lot in y^e^ skirts of Hoccanum by an equall divission, so as may be most conveynient for him and they y^t^ have the other half of said lott; the divission to be made by my executors hereafter named; and alsoe to enable my Executors to perform this my Will, I leave and give liberty to them to dispose three of my lots in y^e^ great meadow and plane as bounded by record in Hadley Town Book, as also all my land at Batchellder's River to be disposed to any of my sons that see cause to have it and make payment, to perform the payment of these my legacies or debts and Joseph to perform the dispose of a cow to his Mother.

It. I give and bequeath to my son Timothy Nash twenty pounds besides what I have already given him.

It. I give and bequeath to my son John Nash, my lot in Hoccanum, bound betwixt Chilial Smith's & Joseph Baldwin's land; which lot if it amounts not to y^e^ full vallue of twenty pounds, what is wanting shall be made up or payd to him out of my other estate by my executors hereafter named.

It. I give and bequeath to my son Samuel Nash the remainder of my Houselot in Hadley, on which I now dwell the south side of it, & alsoe I give him the other part of my mowing lot at the skirts of Hoccanum by divission for most conveniency for him & Joseph to whome I have given the other half: Alsoe I give him my lot called the Hedge lot, all which will make up together with the aforesaid gifts to the full sum of thirtie pounds.

It. I give and bequeath to my son Ebenezer Nash half my lot in the Fort Meadow, & half my skirt lots there to the vallue of twenty pounds, which if that falls short, it is to be made up to him by my executors out of my estate.

It. I give to my son Daniel Nash twenty pounds besides what I have already given to him.

It. I give to my son Ephraim Nash Thirtie pounds, to be in the other half of my lot in the Fort Meadow, and the skirt lots there belonging to said Meadow.

It. I give to my daughter Hope Werner, twenty pounds, which shall not be disposed without the consent of my Executors.

It. I dispose & give my plane lot on the east side of the town, to be equally divided to my four sons Joseph Nash, Samuel Nash, Ebenezer Nash and Ephraim Nash, to be divided as may be most conveynient for all of them by my Executors.

Copy of the Will of Rebecah Nash.

April 18th 1707. I Rebecah Nash of Hadley in the county of Hampshire in the Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, knowing the uncertainty of my time and being willing to settle that little estate that God hath given me, do therefore make, ordain & appoint this as my last Will and testament in manner and form following, to say, first of all I commit my soul into the hands of God that gave it, depending on the Lord Jesus Christ for Salvation. My body I commit to the earth to be buried in a decent manner. Touching the worldly goods God hath given me, I will & dispose of as followeth. I will that in the first place after my decease, my debts I justly owe to any person or persons be justly and truly paid out of my estate; and as also that all debts due to me for rent of lands, or any other way due to me, be wholly by me and forever acquitted to Joseph, Samuel and Ephraim Nash.

Imp.[s] I give and bequeath to four of my sons, namely Thomas Nash, John Nash, Ebenezer Nash, and Daniel Nash, ten shillings to each of them. Item, I give and bequeath to my son Joseph Nash, the best feather bed and bolsters and pillows with three of the coverlids, also the great brass kettle. Item. I give and bequeath to my son Samuel Nash the next best feather bed and two best blankets with one coverlid, also the great Iron kettle and Morter. Item. I give and bequeath to my son Ephraim Nash the wool bed and one blanket and two coverlids, also the middle brass kettle.

I give and bequeath to my daughter Hope Warner all my wearing cloathes of all sorts, both linen and woolen and one pair of sheets, and one coverlid, also the brass pudding pan. Item. I give to my daughter Mary Nash and Joanna Nash each of them a pewter platter, having their choice. All the remainder of my pewter, also of tin, shall be equally divided to my sons Joseph and Samuel Nash. I do also give to my son John Nash his son Timothy ten shillings in money, and appoint Joseph to do it out of what I have given him. I do also order and constitute my son Joseph Nash to be sole Executor of this my last will and testament. In witness and as a confirmation hereof, I set my hand & seal on this eight day of March, one thousand seven hundred and eight nine.

Rebecah Nash her × mark & SEAL.

Signed, sealed in the presence and witness of John Taylor
Samuel Boltwood
Daniel Marsh.

[The will was proved 19 April, 1709 by the witnesses before Samuel Partridge, Esq. Judge of Probate.]

Following the Will of widow Rebecca Nash, is the testimony of Joseph Nash and Joanna Nash, stating that the widow on the 16th of March, 1708–9, being in her right mind, said her son Ebenezer should be acquitted of all debts due to her for rent of land or otherwise. Sworn to April 19th 1709. The inventory of her estate was returned April 19th, 1709, amounting to £22 14*s*. 0*d*, personal estate.

Coroner's Inquest on Samuel Nash.

"May 23 1668. A Jury of twelve men was summoned by the Constable of Hadley to enquire concerning the sudden and untimely death of Samuel, son, of Timothy Nash.

The child was about 9 or 10 years old. Mr. Henry Clark and Andrew Bacon gave the jury their oath. They, after dilligent search respecting the cause of this death, did find:—'That said boy coming riding upon a mare from pasture, having a long rope fastened about the mare's neck, & fastened about the boy's waist, a dog coming out, frightened the mare, so that the mare threw the boy & ran away with him, dragging him about 40 rods, and broke over five rails, the rails being broken down, he was dragged over them into and through a narrow gate, into his father's yard, and died forthwith.' [Signed by 12 Hadley men.]

"Att a County Co^rte holden at Northampton y^e^ 30th day of y^e^ 1st Month 1669 [March 30, 1669.]

"Tymothy Nash of Hadley p^r^senting a complaynt this winter before y^e^ worshipfull Capt. Pynchon ag^t^ Mr Goodwin concerning the untimely death of his child y^e^ last summer, and the sde Capt Pynchon by warrant under his hand dated Feb. 27—68 warning the sde Mr Goodwin to appeare at this Corte, he being very weake in body & not able to attend y^e^ Co^r^te in his own person, Mr Andrew Bacon and William Lewis appeared to answer on his behalfe. And now at this Corte the sde Timothy Nash p^r^sented his complt in that his child, a member of this common Wealth is lost; and that as he app^r^hends by means of Mr. Goodwins dog frightening the mare upon which the child rode shee throwing the child.

The Co^r^te having heard y^e^ case long debated & considered y^e^ allegations & evidences on all hands doe conceive & judge y^t^ there is not ground to lay such blame on Mr. Goodwin as is p^r^tended in the sde Timothy Nash his complt, for y^t^ it doth not appeare y^t^ M^r^ Goodwin or M^rs^ Goodwin had sufficient notice given them of their dogs curstness or any due warning to restrayne their dog; and therefore the Co^r^te doth acquitt them, as to have such legall warning as aforesaid; But yet inasmuch as it appeares that the sde dog was something more than ordinary active in running after p sons riding their horses in y^e^ street whereby diverse p sons have had falls from their horses. This Co^r^te doth app^r^hend that M^r^ Goodwin or M^rs^ Goodwin might probably know something y^t^ way, and M^r^ Crow who exercised care about M^r^ Goodwin's affaires: And therefore y^t^ they may be blame worthy in not taking care as they ought, to have restraynd that dog. And therefore this Co^r^te doth beare witness ag^t^ all neglects in such matters whereby the lives of p sons may be hazzarded. Also y^e^ Co^r^te app^r^hends that the said dog hath been partly an occasion of the death of the said child, though yet divers other things did concur to y^t^ sad accident, but specially the child's winding a rope about its own wast y^e^ other end whereof was tyed about y^e^ mare's neck, & the child having nothing whereby he might well rule her y^t^ when shee threw y^e^ child, shee dragged him after her to its destruction.

Wherefore the Co^r^te also accounteth Goodm. Nash or his Wife blame worthy in not haveing a more strict watch over their son, but letting him go to fetch y^e^ mare from pasture with such meane tackling. And there being much trouble in hearing this case, the Co^r^te ordered y^t^ M^r^ Goodwin and Goodman Nash shall pay 10^s^ apiece towards defraying Co^r^te charges."

It may not be amiss to observe in relation to the foregoing trial and decision, that the Mr. Goodwin here spoken of, was the same Elder Goodwin that was the leader of one party in the church difficulties at Hartford, and that Mrs. Nash, the mother of the boy that was killed, was a daughter of the Rev. Samuel Stone, the principal or leading man of the opposing party. And it is quite possible this circumstance may have had some influence in the prosecution of the affair.

The decision of the Court obviously turned on a legal quibble, viz., the want of legal notice, while the court allowed that Mr. Goodwin probably knew of his dog's curstness. And well they might, if diverse persons had been thrown from their horses, endangering their lives! The decision may be deemed at least a legal curiosity.

SUPPLEMENT TO NO. 800—II.

The Hon. Simeon Nash (page 190) entered College in Aug. 1825. It will be seen by comparison of dates, that he was then nearly twenty-one years of age. The truth in the case was, he had not the full approbation and consent of his own family, who seemed to think his project wild and impracticable. He entered, however, and with some help from home, carried his project through.

In college, while he took care to sustain a fair standing in his class, he read much miscellaneous matter, such as he deemed calculated to improve his mind. It was observed of him, however, that he paid but little attention to his style, seeming to be intent mainly, on mastering the subject, and embodying "most meaning in fewest words." Hence, some surprise was excited by the article he prepared for the commencement exercise, when he came to graduate. It was deemed the best in the class.

Leaving college in 1829, he commenced reading law with E. T. Hooker, Esq. of South Hadley, at the same time teaching Greek and Mathematics for a year in Woodbridge High School for boys, in that place.

Immediately after his marriage to Miss Smith in Dec. 1831, he left South Hadley (his wife remaining with her relatives) and went to Gallipolis, Ohio, where he read law in the office of Hon. Samuel H. Vinton, M. C. (also a native of South Hadley.) until March, 1833, when he was admitted to the Bar, and fixed his residence in Gallipolis, where Mrs. Nash joined him in May following. Mr. Vinton being then in Congress, and the only remaining lawyer of the place having removed that Spring, he entered at once on a pretty full practice, which he was enabled to retain and extend, so that, when called by the choice of his fellow-citizens to a sphere of public duty, he left a practice worth some $2,000 per annum.

The change of sphere did not change his course of life; for, acting on the principle that "good lawyers are made in only one way, viz. out of good hard working students," and intending to return to his profession, he never relinquished the habit of unremitting study and application to business.

In Oct. 1839, he was elected to the Senate of Ohio, for the district composed of the counties of Lawrence, Gallia, Meigs and Athens, for a term of two years. He was in politics what is termed a Whig, and of course was elected and sustained by that party.

In the session of 1939-40, there was but little done in the Legislature of Ohio, of general importance. The only thing in which he took a prominent part was the frequent legislative practice of granting divorces. On this practice he made war, as being unconstitutional, and a usurpation of judicial powers. The Courts subsequently decided that the Legislature had no power to pass such acts, and the new constitution prohibits the practice.

In the session of '40-41, there was a contested election from Cincinnati, and Mr. Nash was appointed on a committee with two others, of the opposite party, to investigate the case. As often happens in such contests, the other two members of the committee, constituting the majority, reported in favor of their own candidate. But he presented a minority report, canvassing the whole testimony in detail, and making a very strong case for the whig candidate. The circumstance made much noise at the time, and the severe scrutiny he gave the majority report, raised strong feelings of ill will in the opposing party, in consequence of which he was bitterly assailed.

In Oct. 1841, he was reëlected for the counties of Lawrence, Gallia and Scioto, the districts having been rearranged meantime. During this session arose questions respecting the Banks and currency of Ohio. All the Banks had suspended specie payments. The democratic party were for forcing immediate resumption, or a declaration of insolvency. The whigs were for a gradual resumption. On this subject he made an elaborate effort, and though defeated by the strength of party attachment and prejudice, his views eventually triumphed. It is not compatible with the plan of this work, to enter into detail on subjects of this description; but it is proper to say that Mr. Nash subsequently published an address to his constituents, in which he claimed that his predictions of great injustice to bill-holders, had been fully verified, and in which he brought forward facts and documents to show that some $600,000 had been sacrificed by the transaction. This and his speech had a wide circulation in the State, and are thought to have had much influence upon public opinion. At any rate, in Jan. 1843, when the question of renewal of the Bank charters came up, a division had grown up in the ranks of the dominant party, and the contest was chiefly among themselves, in the early stages of the debate. But towards the close, the whig party deeming some action necessary, pressed him to give his views. He did so in a speech of five hours' length which was listened to with unabated attention throughout. It was printed in all the papers of Ohio and had a wide circulation, as it was on a subject with which the public mind was deeply engrossed. The speech took up the general subject of the currency, and must have produced a decided effect, for, at the next election, the bank men carried the majority, and Mr. Nash said and wrote nearly all that had been said and written on the general subject of currency.

At the close of the session of 1843, Mr. Nash declined a reëlection, as he found the duties of the office interfered too much with his practice, and diminished his income. He felt, in fact, too poor to continue in office. From this time until 1845 he followed his profession with his former success. But during the session of '44-5, the Legislature passed a law organizing a board of three commissioners to investigate the manner in which some fourteen millions of public money had been expended in the construction of canals in Ohio. The first knowledge Mr. Nash had of such a project, was a notice that he had been appointed one of the board. He at once declined the service. But his friends urged that as the Legislature had adjourned, the investigation would fall through if he declined; that it was an important matter, a work that must be done, and that it was his duty to make the sacrifice. He, therefore, with reluctance consented to serve. The friends of the measure probably felt that, in the hands of the commissioners appointed, the investigation would be no child's play, and so it proved.

They spent from May 1845 to Jan. 1847, in the investigation. Their first report was made 26 Dec. 1845, and with the testimony and tables, made a volume of 574 pages. The report itself covered 227 pages. This report disclosed such an amount of peculation and mismanagement, that the General Assembly almost unanimously made an appropriation to continue the investigation. The commissioners recommenced their labors in Jan. 1846, and devoted the year to it. Their final report was made in Jan. 1847. This report, with the evidence, filled 428 pages, and was as prolific in the exposition of fraud as the other. The commissioners were pretty generally called a committee on rascality. Of course, the officials implicated were unsparing in their abuse of the report and its authors; but as not a statement of fact therein contained has ever been disproved, the opprobrium rested upon the guilty and overwhelmed them.

The investigation is said to have resulted to the State in more than enough to pay all expenses, aside from its greater moral effect upon the public mind, in showing that dishonesty in the management of public funds cannot elude final exposure. In the performance of this duty, Mr. Nash travelled some 10,000 miles along the lines of public works, and about the State, gathering evidence of the facts disclosed.

This work accomplished, Mr. Nash returned again to his profession in the Spring of 1847, with renewed devotion and increased success. His practice was laborious, requiring attendance on courts four times a year in the counties of Washington, Meigs, Gallia and Lawrence, amounting to 1,500 and sometimes 2,000 miles per annum. But he had been trained to labor and was content.

Nothing interrupted this course of life until April, 1850, when in his absence, he was nominated for election as a member of a Convention to amend the constitution of the State, to which he reluctantly consented, and was elected. The Convention met in May, but, after a session of sixty-one days, was interrupted by the appearance of cholera in Columbus, and adjourned to meet in Cincinnati on the first Monday in December following, at which time and place it met and continued in session until March, 1851.

On his return home he again resumed his profession, in which, however, he was allowed to continue but a short time, being elected in Oct. 1851, one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas and District Court of the seventh judicial district of Ohio. This district consists of twelve counties, but for purposes of election it is subdivided. Judge Nash's division includes Gallia, Meigs, Athens and Washington counties, containing a population of near 90,000. In each of these counties he holds three terms of Common Pleas a year, and with the other Judges, and one Judge of the Supreme Court, one term a year in each of the twelve counties.

In all the pressure of professional duties, Judge Nash has not been unmindful of the general claims of literature. Soon after his settlement in Ohio, he wrote a series of letters for the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, and another series in 1836, fifteen in all, on the early history of that part of Ohio.

He also wrote many years, more or less for a paper in Gallipolis, when any question of interest arose, and since 1844, has been a liberal contributor to the pages of the Western Law Journal, in reporting decisions of the Supreme Court of Ohio, and reviews of decisions. He also wrote for that Journal an article extending into two numbers, on the subject of retrospective legislation, and another on law reform. In 1844, he wrote a lecture on the principles of protection, which was published. And he has been ever ready and prompt to speak on the subject of temperance, when an opportunity presented of doing good.

This must be, in the nature of the case, but an imperfect sketch, as the writer has but little personal knowledge of political and legal matters in Ohio. It has not been his design, nor is it consistent with the nature of his work, to eulogize the living, but to give a condensed narrative of facts. Judge Nash is still living in the prime and vigor of life; and, it is hoped, may have yet before him a long career of usefulness and honor.

SUPPLEMENT TO NO. 1156—III.

The Rev. Sylvester Nash, M. A. (page 218) received at first only a Connecticut common school education, and until twenty-four years of age, followed the vocation of a machinist in Massachusetts, in Connecticut, in Pennsylvania, and in Virginia; which, as he was reputed skillful, proved a lucrative business. But in accordance with his own convictions of duty, and the advice of pious and judicious friends, he gave up his trade in the summer of 1819, and commenced a course of studies preparatory to the ministry of the gospel in the (E) Church. Being, at the time, in the State of Virginia, he became a candidate for Orders in that Diocese, and feeling that, at his age, he had no time to lose, he, by diligence in application, made what was deemed rapid progress in classical studies, and in the Fall of 1821, entered the General Theological Seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church. then located in New Haven, Ct. and when that institution was removed to New York, was one of the few that removed with it. After leaving the Seminary, he returned to Virginia, and was ordained Deacon 15 June, 1823. in the city of Richmond, by the Rt. Rev. Richard Channing Moore, D. D. He was ordained Priest by the same Bishop, in Staunton, Va. 23 May, 1824.

His original intention was to become a Missionary among the Indians at Nootka Sound, on the N. W. coast of America; but the death of his father in 1822, leaving a large family, of whom, his mother and the younger children naturally looked to him as the eldest, for counsel and aid, it was deemed his duty, under the circumstances, to defer the missionary plan. His first parochial charge was that of the Church in Hampshire county, Va. Episcopalians in that mountainous region were few and widely dispersed, in consequence of which, he became in fact an itinerant, preaching in six or seven different places, over a surface of thirty to forty miles.

In 1824, he visited his native State and married his (1) wife, Philenda Grant. Returning with her to Virginia, he continued his labors there until the Spring of 1826, when he accepted a call from the Vestry of Union Church, St. Albans, Franklin county, Vt.

In that Parish he continued with a good degree of success, nearly seven years. While there, the honorary degree of A. M. was conferred upon him by the University of Vermont. There he buried two of his children and his wife Philenda, who died of apoplexy. The health of his (2) wife failing, and believing that her only hope of recovery, under Providence, was in a change to her native climate, he resigned the charge of the parish, and the ties of a seven years' connexion were severed with mutual regret.

In Rhode Island he was employed at first as a Missionary at East Greenwich, Kent county, on the west side of Narragansett Bay, where a parish was organized, and a new and beautiful Church consecrated within a year, and upwards of forty communicants were eventually added.

But affliction was still his lot. In July, 1834, the eldest child by the (2) wife died of dropsy on the brain, and twenty-one days afterward the youngest by the former wife "pined and died" by some mysterious complaint. About the same time Mrs. Nash's health began again to decline, and five months afterwards she died of virulent bronchitis.

A manufacturing crisis having crippled the parish at East Greenwich, and somewhat impaired his usefulness, he resigned the Rectorship in the Spring of 1840, and accepted a call to the parish at Saco in the State of Maine. There, within one month, he was attacked by that modern scourge of the clergy, the bronchitis. It was of a mild form, however, but such that at the end of the year he resigned, and spent the following year chiefly in agricultural pursuits, preaching but rarely.

Having partially recovered, he in June, 1842, accepted a call from the Vestry of Christ's Church, Middle Haddam, Ct. From that place he removed in 1846 to Fort Hamilton, N. Y. Here again sickness harassed his family, in the shape of ague and fever, so that he resigned at the end of the second year, and in Aug. 1848, accepted a call from the Vestry of St. John's Church, Essex, Ct.
